FEDERAL JURISTS RULE

Arkansas Dealt New Setback In Integration Fight

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — A three - judge federal district court Saturday ordered the State Department of Education to stop paying tuition of students transferred from Little Rock's four closed high schools.

The court also set May 4 to hear arguments on two integration laws passed at a special session of the Arkansas Legislature last August.

Under one of the laws, Gov. Orval E. Faubus ordered the city's high schools kept closed last September, rather than to have them open integrated.

PAID $187,768

The other permitted the Department of Education to withhold state aid from schools closed because of court - ordered integration.

The department has paid out $187,768 through mid-February to public schools accepting the displaced Little Rock students. The Little Rock Private School Corporation's segregated school has received $71,907 in state aid.

The court also granted attorneys for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People permission to include in current litigation any new anti-integration laws which the Arkansas General Assembly enacts before it adjourns March 12.

Faubus' attorneys argued in vain, during a one-hour hearing, that U. S. District Court should delay action until validity of school closing and fund transfer laws have been determined by the State Supreme Court.

The court heeded, instead, NAACP attorney Thurgood Marshall's contention that any delay would result in "irreparable harm" because of the district's continuing loss of state funds.

The injunction was directed against the State Board of Education which, since Faubus closed the schools Sept. 12, has been disbursing funds withheld from the Little Rock district to schools where displaced students have enrolled.

Faubus showed no immediate concern about the temporary injunction. He indicated, however, he would take a different view of a permanent order.

"Temporary injunctions are issued in many cases where the matter has not been finally determined," he said. "However, I think it would be a far-fetched thing if the federal government

Snow Storm Death Count Climbs To 46

Leaves Several Communities In Iowa Isolated

By UPI

A number of Northeast Iowa communities were still virtually isolated Saturday in the aftermath of a heavy late winter snow storm that barrelled across the plains.

Meanwhile, brisk winds swept across the Great Lakes region, hindering snow removal operations and carrying snow into the central and northern Appalachians.

Eight inches of snow fell over the Booneville, N.Y., area and raised the ground cover to 55 inches. Deep drifts, whipped by winds up to 60 miles per hour, blocked roads in an area east of Lake Ontario.

IOWA TOLL HIGHEST

At least 46 persons died in the storm, Iowa's worst in a decade and the worst over the Michigan upper peninsula in about 21 years. Most of the deaths were due to heart attacks caused by overexertion, traffic accidents and fires.

Iowa counted at least 15 storm-connected deaths, while Indiana reported 10. Wisconsin had nine fatalities, Michigan four, Illinois and Pennsylvania three apiece.

9 Strikers Are Jailed By Jurist

HENDERSON, N.C. (UPI) — A stern superior court judge sentenced nine strikers to jail and fined 10 others Saturday for violating an injunction against violence and mass picketing at the strike - bound Harriett-Henderson Cotton Mills.

Attorneys for the group filed notice of appeal to the State Supreme Court and bond totaling $7,000 was posted.

The trial of a number of other members of the Textile Workers Union of America (AFL-CIO) on similar charges in Vance County Superior Court was continued until Wednesday.

Judge William Y. Bickett had convicted the 19 strikers, including eight women, of contempt of court Friday. In passing sentence Saturday, he warned the defendants and a crowd of strikers in the courtroom that the terms of the restraining order should be obeyed.

Bickett meted out active jail sentences ranging from 10 to 30 days and fines from $150 to $250 to nine men, and he handed out suspended, 30-day sentences and

Pulls Gun On Sheriff In Georgia

TRENTON, Ga. (UPI) — A notorious convict who kidnaped four hostages in a flight for freedom was shot and captured Saturday as he tried to bluff two Georgia officers with an Alabama trooper's gun.

"I'm not going to hurt you," desperado William Smothers, 38, said as he drew the loaded revolver from under his gray coat and brandished it in the face of Dade County Sheriff Allison Blevins.

Blevins said he did not have time to draw, but Police Chief H. H. Hutchings, waiting behind in Blevins' patrol car, fired at that instant, shooting the Alabama fugitive through the shoulder.

ENDS BIG MANHUNT

Smothers, tired and hungry after two days in hiding, fell to the ground and gave no further trouble, Blevins said, except to protest he had no intention of firing the .38 caliber pistol he held.

Smothers had taken the revolver from Alabama Trooper Otto Dees, one of the four persons he took hostage in his escape last Thursday. Smothers denied, however, that he told Dees he would never be taken alive.

The officers found Smothers, object of a three-state manhunt, wandering on a mountain road about five miles from this northwest Georgia town.

After the shooting, Smothers was held at the Tri-County hospital at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., until recovering sufficiently to be returned to Alabama to finish serving multiple robbery sentences and face new kidnap and escape charges.

The convict, with one escape from Alabama's Kilby Prison already on record, made his break as Trooper Dees and a trusty,

Witness Sought By Probers Two Years Located

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Rackets Committee disclosed Saturday that it finally has caught up with Ben Lapensohn, a widely - traveled Philadelphia Teamster sought for questioning for about two years.

A spokesman said Lapensohn, former official of Teamster Local 107, would be one of the first witnesses called when the committee resumes hearings next week.

The committee had wanted to quiz Lapensohn last spring while it was holding lengthy hearings on alleged corruption in the Philadelphia local. But Lapensohn at that time was reported sunning himself on some Caribbean isle.

Soviet Chief Appeals For 'Compromise'

BERLIN (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev appealed to the West tonight to show readiness to compromise with Russia and give a "reasonable answer" to the Soviet proposals for Berlin.

He told a mass rally of East Berliners that Russia stands by its proposals for making West Berlin a "free demilitarized city" and for turning over to East Germany control of the Allied lifelines to the city.

"Now we are waiting for an answer," he said. "We hope it will be a reasonable one."

WARNS OF WAR

His call for a reasonable" approach by the West followed a speech earlier in the day at Leipzig in which he warned that a small war over Berlin would touch off a world conflict that would end in the destruction of the West by superior Communist "forces of peace."

Tens of thousands crammed into Stalin Allee, the main street of East Berlin, to hear Khrushchev outline the Soviet position from a rostrum only two miles from the free Berlin border.

He spoke for only seven minutes. The address was remarkably mild compared with some of the threats and warnings he thundered in Leipzig during his tour of the Leipzig Trade Fair.

"The question of peace and a peace treaty with Germany must be solved," he said.

"All honorable men who want peace have no arguments against this. A state of order must be established in Berlin amounting to normal peaceful conditions for the Berliners.

"Compromises have to be made."

The Soviet leader already has been discussing with East German officials a separate peace treaty with East Germany to be signed by Russia and the other Communist powers if the West refuses to agree to the Soviet call for an all-German peace pact. A separate treaty, as Khrushchev has warned, will be taken by the Meet On Berlin Favored By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States proposed Saturday that the Western Allies tell the Soviet Union they are prepared to discuss the Berlin dispute and the German peace treaty issue in a foreign ministers conference — provided any other German problems also may be raised.

This was reported to be one of the main points in the draft of a new note submitted to Britain. France and West Germany. The State Department announced Saturday that messages giving U.S. views on reply to the U.S.S.R.'s latest note had been sent to the three capitals Friday night.

In Washington, top officials conferred with the ambassadors of Britain and West Germany and a Canadian Embassy minister on the German-Soviet situation and on the prospective Western reply to the Soviet note of last Monday conditionally accepting a foreign ministers meeting.

BRITISH VIEWS

High officials expressed confidence the Soviet Union will agree to hold a conference on terms generally acceptable to the West—a wide open one if this country has its way. There is mounting interest, therefore, how the West will handle such a meeting.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, taking an active lead during the cancer illness of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, is reported trying to loosen up Western policy all along the line.

Macmillan is said to feel the foreign ministers meeting might be followed by a summit conference. He is reported prepared to agree to a Big Two meeting between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, if that seems necessary.

Macmillan goes to Paris and Bonn next week, then comes to Washington March 19 for talks

Prison Shop Is Stormed; 20 Are Hurt

WALPOLE, Mass. (UPI) — State troopers firing machine guns stormed a building at Walpole state prison Saturday and saved seven gasoline-drenched and bound hostages, including the warden and chaplain, who were held by six rebel convicts.

The mutineers, desperate men who said they didn't care whether they lived or died, threatened to turn the hostages into human torches after they had failed in an attempt to escape over the wall.

The prisoners had seized the hostages after a quick-thinking guard thwarted their escape and risked injury by toppling a ladder they had set up against a wall. The guard, being held as a hostage, was on the ladder and he pulled it down with him when he jumped.

20 MEN HURT

Twenty men including 12 guards, four troopers and four convicts were hurt slightly, but only one of the injuries was from gun fire.

About 50 troopers carrying machine guns, riot guns and pistols ringed the 100 foot by 30 foot machine shop and on signal about 10 of them dived head first through the windows.

Once inside, the troopers grabbed the convicts and machine gunned the lock off a door to let in fellow troopers. About 30 shots were pumped into the lock.

One of the troopers suffered a flesh wound from a ricocheting bullet, the only gunshot injury in the rebellion. The other injuries ranged from bruises to gasoline burns.

The mutineers had poured gasoline over the hostages who included the Catholic chaplain, the Rev. Edward F. Hartigan, warden John A. Gavin, two deputy wardens, two guards and a prison storekeeper.

The hostages hands were bound with wire and a wire noose was

Rayburn Warns Against Let Up In U.S. Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) warned Saturday against balancing the budget at the cost of national defense.

"We just cannot afford to take any risks," Rayburn said in one of his rarely granted interviews. "The times in which we are living are just too perilous to permit even the slightest letup in our preparedness program."

Rayburn said he agrees that a sound national economy and a balanced federal budget "are things we must always strive for."

"But they are not the first things," he said. "The first objective must be adequate defense. What good are a sound economy and a balanced budget if we lose our national lives and Russian rubles become the coin of the land?"

Rayburn said he realizes that the cost of an adequate defense is fantastic.

"But there is nothing that can be done about it," he said. "Liberty instead of slavery is worth any price."

Rayburn said there is no assurance that the Soviet Union will wait a year or two years, or even a month, "if she believes we are weak and she can conquer us."

"Russia respects strength, and only strength," he said.

New Discomfort Index Weather Service Planned

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Weather Bureau said Saturday night it will try its hand this summer at computing and announcing on a regular basis the discomfort index.

And what's the discomfort index?

It is a term coined by a bureau scientist, Earl Thom, for a mathematical indication of the human discomfort caused by the combined effect of temperature and humidity.

The reasonnig behind the idea is that it isn't just the heat that makes you uncomfortable, or just the humidity, but the two together.

The idea is that such information would enable managers of office buildings, hotels and movie houses to judge when they should turn on their air conditioning systems.

Computation of the discomfort index is fairly complicated, but the bureau says the figure reaches 75, which many people find oppressive, when the temperature is 75 degrees fahrenheit and the relative humidity is 100 per cent. Or, when the temperature is 80 degrees and the relative humidity is 60 per cent; or, when the temperature is 85 degrees and the humidity is 30 per cent.

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI)—Fifty-one candidates had qualified by the noon deadline Saturday for the $2,400-a-year job of coroner, Cobb County Ordinary Troy Adair announced.

The election will be held March 25 to fill the remaining 22 months of the term of former Coroner John Carney, who resigned Feb. 28 because of his health.

Adair said he believed the 51-name ballot will be the longest ever seen in Georgia. To cast a ballot properly the voter must strike out 50 of the names.

23 YEARS LATER

Babe Ruth Still An Idol

(EDITOR'S NOTE: An intimate account of Babe Ruth, telling what the Sultan of Swat was really like, has just been written by Mrs. Babe Ruth and will appear in this paper starting Tuesday. And what is Mrs. Ruth herself like today? We asked Saul Pett to find out. Here is his account.)

By SAUL PETT

It is now more than 10 years since Babe Ruth died and 23 years since he played his last ball game.

But the kids still want his autograph.

Youngsters who never saw him play, who weren't even alive when he was playing, write to Claire Ruth for her husband's signature. The demand is far ahead of the remaining supply.

"The only autographs I've been able to give them," says Mrs. Ruth, "were on old cancelled checks the Babe wrote. They were signed, 'G. H. Ruth.' Originally, I had a whole drawer full of them but now there are only a few left. Soon they will be gone."

Mrs. Ruth still lives in the big, comfortable Riverside Drive apartment she and the baseball slugger moved into in 1943. It was here that she wrote "The Babe and I," her portrait of a man who became a legend in his own lifetime.

Mrs. Ruth and one of the many memories of the Babe.

WHILE BURGLAR ESCAPES

Cop, Store-Keeper Stage Gun Battle

MIAMI (UPI) A policeman and a store-keeper, each mistaking the other for a burglar, shot it out in the dark early Saturday while the burglar fled in the confusion.

Policeman Walter Davis, 23, was wounded twice in the leg and store-keeper Herman Wooten, 32, was shot in both legs and in the side. Neither was hurt seriously.

Wooten said he drove his car in front of his store and saw a man prowling inside. He ordered the man to surrender, he said, and then fired several shots at him through the plate glass window.

The burglar ran toward the rear of the store and Wooten ran around the building to head him off. Davis, who heard the shots, rushed to the scene and encountered Wooten coming around the store.

Both men shouted "halt" at each other and then opened fire.

Twenty men including 12 guards, four troopers and four convicts were hurt slightly, but only one of the injuries was from gun fire.

About 50 troopers carrying machine guns, riot guns and pistols ringed the 100 foot by 30 foot machine shop and on signal about 10 of them dived head first through the windows.

Once inside, the troopers grabbed the convicts and machine gunned the lock off a door to let in fellow troopers. About 30 shots were pumped into the lock.

One of the troopers suffered a flesh wound from a ricocheting bullet, the only gunshot injury in the rebellion. The other injuries ranged from bruises to gasoline burns.

The mutineers had poured gasoline over the hostages who included the Catholic chaplain, the Rev. Edward F. Hartigan, warden John A. Gavin, two deputy wardens, two guards and a prison storekeeper.

The hostages hands were bound with wire and a wire noose was

Rayburn Warns Against Let Up In U.S. Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) warned Saturday against balancing the budget at the cost of national defense.

"We just cannot afford to take any risks," Rayburn said in one of his rarely granted interviews. "The times in which we are living are just too perilous to permit even the slightest letup in our preparedness program."

Rayburn said he agrees that a sound national economy and a balanced federal budget "are things we must always strive for."

"But they are not the first things," he said. "The first objective must be adequate defense. What good are a sound economy and a balanced budget if we lose our national lives and Russian rubles become the coin of the land?"

Rayburn said he realizes that the cost of an adequate defense is fantastic.

"But there is nothing that can be done about it," he said. "Liberty instead of slavery is worth any price."

Rayburn said there is no assurance that the Soviet Union will wait a year or two years, or even a month, "if she believes we are weak and she can conquer us."

"Russia respects strength, and only strength," he said.

"Lack of proper defense through

New Discomfort Index Weather Service Planned

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Weather Bureau said Saturday night it will try its hand this summer at computing and announcing on a regular basis the discomfort index.

And what's the discomfort index?

It is a term coined by a bureau scientist, Earl Thom, for a mathematical indication of the human discomfort caused by the combined effect of temperature and humidity.

The reasonnig behind the idea is that it isn't just the heat that makes you uncomfortable, or just the humidity, but the two together.

The idea is that such information would enable managers of office buildings, hotels and movie houses to judge when they should turn on their air conditioning systems.

Computation of the discomfort index is fairly complicated, but the bureau says the figure reaches 75, which many people find oppressive, when the temperature is 75 degrees fahrenheit and the relative humidity is 100 per cent. Or, when the temperature is 80 degrees and the relative humidity is 60 per cent; or, when the temperature is 85 degrees and the humidity is 30 per cent.

51 Candidates In Coroner Race

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI)—Fifty-one candidates had qualified by the noon deadline Saturday for the $2,400-a-year job of coroner, Cobb County Ordinary Troy Adair announced.

The election will be held March 25 to fill the remaining 22 months of the term of former Coroner John Carney, who resigned Feb. 28 because of his health.

Adair said he believed the 51-name ballot will be the longest ever seen in Georgia. To cast a ballot properly the voter must strike out 50 of the names.

The candidates getting the highest vote wins.

Babe Ruth Still An Idol

(EDITOR'S NOTE: An intimate account of Babe Ruth, telling what the Sultan of Swat was really like, has just been written by Mrs. Babe Ruth and will appear in this paper starting Tuesday. And what is Mrs. Ruth herself like today? We asked Saul Pett to find out. Here is his account.)

By SAUL PETT

It is now more than 10 years since Babe Ruth died and 23 years since he played his last ball game.

But the kids still want his autograph.

Youngsters who never saw him play, who weren't even alive when he was playing, write to Claire Ruth for her husband's signature. The demand is far ahead of the remaining supply.

"The only autographs I've been able to give them," says Mrs. Ruth, "were on old cancelled checks the Babe wrote. They were signed, 'G. H. Ruth.' Originally, I had a whole drawer full of them but now there are only a few left. Soon they will be gone."

Mrs. Ruth still lives in the big, comfortable Riverside Drive apartment she and the baseball slugger moved into in 1943. It was here that she wrote, "The Babe and I," her portrait of a man who became a legend in his own lifetime.

Mrs. Ruth and one of the many memories of the Babe.

WHILE BURGLAR ESCAPES

Cop, Store-Keeper Stage Gun Battle

MIAMI (UPI) A policeman and a store-keeper, each mistaking the other for a burglar, shot it out in the dark early Saturday while the burglar fled in the confusion.

Policeman Walter Davis, 23, was wounded twice in the leg and store-keeper Herman Wooten, 32, was shot in both legs and in the side. Neither was hurt seriously.

Wooten said he drove his car in front of his store and saw a man prowling inside. He ordered the man to surrender, he said, and then fired several shots at him through the plate glass window.

The burglar ran toward the rear of the store and Wooten ran around the building to head him off. Davis, who heard the shots, rushed to the scene and encountered Wooten coming around the store.

Both men shouted "halt" at each other and then opened fire.

Services Set For Victim Of Water Mishap

NEWELLTON (Special) —Services have been scheduled for Raymond Killian, 47, of Crowville, who drowned early Friday night in the Tensas river, about 12 miles southwest of here.

Killian and a companion, Landis Magee of Winnsboro, were ferrying a pick-up truck across the river on a pontoon at Westwood landing. Magee got out of the truck while Killian remained inside.

Suddenly the truck began to move, upsetting the balance of the pontoon. As the barge tipped, the truck rolled off into about 14 feet of water.

Tensas and Franklin parish sheriffs' departments, along with state police and game agents, winched the truck out shortly after 11 p. m. Friday. Killian's body was still in the truck.

Final rites will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. from First National Funeral Chapel in Winnsboro conducted by the Revs. C. S. Wroten and Tom Ratcliff. Burial will be in Myrtle Memorial Cemetery.

The Crowville farmer and World War II veteran is survived by a daughter, Miss Nettie Jan Killian, Winnsboro; a sister, Mrs. O. M. Caldwell, Crowville; three brothers, J. R. Runge, Tex., S. B. Martland, Mo., and J. D. Crowville, and several nieces and nephews.

Palleabers will be Berry Gardner, Henry Williams, B. A. Byargeon, Landis Magee, Barney Henderson, Willie D. Lofton, K. C. Lofton and Bloyce Lofton.

The award was given for Newman's "painstaking contribution to the religious, cultural and civic life of our community; for his unswerving loyalty to the principles of justice and right, and for his exemplary Christian life."

Newman has held pastorates at the Temple Baptist Church in Ruston and the Calvary Baptist Church in Vienna. He also served as an Army Chaplain and as executive secretary of the Louisiana Baptist Brotherhood.

Integration Fight Urged By Virginians

By CHARLES E. MAHON
United Press International

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Rep. James C. Davis (D-Ga.), proclaiming that the "fight lies ahead . . . not behind," exhorted Virginia Democrats Saturday night to reject any concept of public school integration.

"We must defeat this fraudulent strong-arm attempt to cram this integrated school plan down our throats," he said.

Davis addressed more than 1,200 of the party faithful, including Gov. J. Lindsay Almond and Sen. Harry F. Byrd, who shelled out $25 to feast on rock cornish game hen at the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner.

Davis scored the U.S. Supreme Court as a "judicial dictatorship," pledged that Georgia was determined never to integrate schools, and called for an organized effort to block "federal encroachment upon our states' rights."

His text contained no mention of integration which began last month in three Virginia localities. But he praised residents of Front Royal, Va. where Warren County's only high school, attended by 21 Negroes, has been boycotted by the entire white student body.

"It is to their everlasting credit that, when the day came upon which the judicial dictatorship said Negro children would mix and mingle with white children in their high school, not one white child entered the school house door," he said.

Davis said a congressional investigation which he headed showed desegregation of Washington, D.C. schools was a "rotten social experiment."

Unless school desegregation rulings are rejected entirely, Davis said, "this sociological Supreme Court" will outlaw state laws prohibiting interracial marriages.

"That decision will be the final step to mongrelize this country," he said.

The Georgia lawmaker also said "token integration" would not be accepted by the Supreme Court or the NAACP.

Records Helping Priest To Keep His Church Going

SANTA FE, N. M. —(UPI) — The graying 48 - year - old priest flips on the record, then tells his radio listeners in colloquial Spanish something that might be translated as: "Now dig this latest number from Mexico City."

Msgr. Glynn Patrick Smith is a disc jockey. He conducts his show, "Monsignor Pat's Music," three times weekly over a local radio station (KTRC) and has a lot of fun doing it. He ad-libs a bit about his parish in Santa Fe and the $250,000 debt that hangs over its new elementary school.

But the Roman Catholic clergyman cuts the talk short and the records spinning from his private library of Mexican and Spanish music. He has 6,000 to 8,000 recordings, and believes it is the largest collection of its kind in the American Southwest.

"They've always got a story to tell, which is not always true of our westerns," the cleric explained.

Next in order of popularity come boleros and huapangos (pronounced "wha-pan-goes" and called "yellers" in the trade). Wlatzes, hymns and popular United States music, their lyrics translated into Spanish, fall somewhere in line.

Is the monsignor disdainful of what he plays No sir, he loves it!

"I can't get enough of it," he said, relaxing in a plaid shirt at his broadcasting booth in a corner of the church rectory.

He is also a "ham" radio operator and has perfected an echo sound device to make bad singers "sound like a million dollars." He said this has baffled radio engineers.

Msgr. Smith was born in Chicago and educated for the priesthood there.

Twenty years ago he became parish priest in the little village of Questa in the northern New Mexico mountains. All his flock spoke Spanish, so he learned the language.

But from the pulpit of Cristo Rey Church in Santa Fe he is careful to speak grammatically in either language — mostly Spanish since he figures that is what 92 per cent of his parishioners also speak.

U.S. Bathing Suits Liked In Pakistan

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The only American clothes popular with the girls of Pakistan are blue jeans and bathing suits, says beautiful Sayeeda Kaiser, wife of the Pakistan consul general in New York.

For work, school or housework Pakistani women wear the sari, says Mrs. Kaiser, an effective model for the romantic Eastern dress.

At Pakistan House, the New York consulate, both she and glamorous Laique Khan, wife of the vice consul, wear beautifully draped saris of sheer flower-printed nylon.

"We are having a wonderful time shopping in New York," said Mrs. Kaiser in an interview, 'Particularly we appreciate the nylon fabrics for saris, since they are so easy to launder."

In Pakistan, a new country born of an ancient civilization, women now are taking their places in business and the professions, as doctors, lawyers, government workers, secretaries and nurses. There are more and more women students in the universities, and the old customs of segregation of women are disappearing.

Firing Squads Kill Total Of 403 In Cuba

HAVANA (UPI)—Firing squads executed seven more former Batista soldiers and policemen Saturbringing the unofficial death toll in the Cuban "war crimes" trials to 403. Premier Fidel Castro himself had predicted at the outset of the trials that no more than 400 would die.

The trials were continuing. Military tribunals condemned three more "war criminals" Saturday and sentenced 12 others to prison terms ranging from one to 30 years. Ten other defendants were acquitted.

A military tribunal in Santiago, capital of Oriente Province, had been expected to hand down a second verdict today in the re-trial of 43 Batista airmen acquitted at their original trial on charges of "genocide" in the bombing and strafing of civilians. The acquittal touched off street demonstrations in Santiago, and Castro rejected the verdict and ordered a new trial.

Members of the tribunal indicated some, if not all, of the airmen had been convicted in the second trial which ended Friday. They said sentences to be imposed would not be announced until Monday.

Castro was expected to arrive in Santiago shortly to address a mass rally Sunday on the subject of the airmens' trials.

The second trial was marked by acrimonious exchanges between defense and prosecution attorneys. Defense lawyer Carlos Pena Justiz said that the verdict of the court could determine whether Castro became "a new Napoleon of the Caribbean." In 1953, Pena Justiz had defended Castro after the rebel chief's abortive attack on a Santiago Army garrison.

Defense minister Augusto Martinez Sanchez, assigned by Castro to head the prosecution, denounced Pena Justiz' statement as "infamous, ill - intentioned and counter-revolutionary."

Castro himself said a "reactionary opposition" was building up against him.. And he said there was "undoubtedly a relation between this reaction" and "certain lawyers in Santiago."

Capt. Aristides D'Acosta, the court - appointed defense attorney for the airmen, also was denounced by Martinez Sanchez as a "traitor" who should be stripped of his uniform. D'Acosta flew back to Havana last night on orders to report to army chief of staff Raul Castro.

A plainclothesman accompanied D'Acosta, his wife and son here. But D'Acosta, who was wearing his captain's uniform, said he did not believe he was under arrest.

He reaffirmed however his determination to retire from the army in which he had served for 18 years to enter into legal practice in Havana.

The revolutionary government, meantime, decreed further reforms.

It ordered rent slashes ranging from 30 to 50 per cent in all housing less than 20 years old. The reductions will become effective with the publication of the text of the decree in the official Gazette expected Monday.

Firing Squads Kill Total Of 403 In Cuba

HAVANA (UPI)—Firing squads executed seven more former Batista soldiers and policemen Saturbringing the unofficial death toll in the Cuban "war crimes" trials to 403. Premier Fidel Castro himself had predicted at the outset of the trials that no more than 400 would die.

The trials were continuing. Military tribunals condemned three more "war criminals" Saturday and sentenced 12 others to prison terms ranging from one to 30 years. Ten other defendants were acquitted.

A military tribunal in Santiago, capital of Oriente Province, had been expected to hand down a second verdict today in the re-trial of 43 Batista airmen acquitted at their original trial on charges of "genocide" in the bombing and strafing of civilians. The acquittal touched off street demonstrations in Santiago, and Castro rejected the verdict and ordered a new trial.

Members of the tribunal indicated some, if not all, of the airmen had been convicted in the second trial which ended Friday. They said sentences to be imposed would not be announced until Monday.

Castro was expected to arrive in Santiago shortly to address a mass rally Sunday on the subject of the airmens' trials.

The second trial was marked by acrimonious exchanges between defense and prosecution attorneys. Defense lawyer Carlos Pena Justiz said that the verdict of the court could determine whether Castro became "a new Napoleon of the Caribbean." In 1953, Pena Justiz had defended Castro after the rebel chief's abortive attack on a Santiago Army garrison.

Defense minister Augusto Martinez Sanchez, assigned by Castro to head the prosecution, denounced Pena Justiz' statement as "infamous, ill - intentioned and counter-revolutionary."

Castro himself said a "reactionary opposition" was building up against him.. And he said there was "undoubtedly a relation between this reaction" and "certain lawyers in Santiago."

Capt. Aristides D'Acosta, the court - appointed defense attorney for the airmen, also was denounced by Martinez Sanchez as a "traitor" who should be stripped of his uniform. D'Acosta flew back to Havana last night on orders to report to army chief of staff Raul Castro.

A plainclothesman accompanied D'Acosta, his wife and son here. But D'Acosta, who was wearing his captain's uniform, said he did not believe he was under arrest.

He reaffirmed however his determination to retire from the army in which he had served for 18 years to enter into legal practice in Havana.

The revolutionary government, meantime, decreed further reforms.

It ordered rent slashes ranging from 30 to 50 per cent in all housing less than 20 years old. The reductions will become effective with the publication of the text of the decree in the official Gazette expected Monday.

Miss. Farms Break Ground As Rains End

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) — This week's drying weather found most of Mississippi's farmers breaking ground for spring planting.

The agriculture extension service said Saturday farmers also moved into the fields to fertilize small grains for hay and grain, to cut stalks and to tend to home gardens.

Agriculture conditions by county:

Benton: More than 6,000 cattle were tested for Bang's disease in the county's program to wipe out the cattle sickness. Farmers remained in the fields, cutting stalks, gardening, carrying for orchards, preparing land, nitrating small grains and fertilizing permanent pastures. Thursday s rains drove farmers back indoors.

Wayne: Land breaking got into full swing early in the week. Oats, wheat and rye look good and some farmers are top-dressing small grains. Home gardening is slow.

Noxubee: Land preparation and nitrating small grains kept most farmers busy early last week. A special effort is being made to get farmers either to plant all of their allotted cotton acreage or to release it for re-allotment.

Montgomery: Farmers got off to a good start in land preparation. Oats, ryegrass and other winter grazing crops made a marked comeback after being top-dressed. Pastures are in fair condition. In most instances hay and silage supplies still are adequate.

Sunflower: Pasture spraying with 2,4-D for weed control is off to a good start. Many farmers are spraying small grains to eliminate dock, vetch and winter peas. Land preparation is progressing satisfactorily. Farmers are planting Dallas, Lespedeza and Coastal Bermuda.

Pontotoc: Spring plowing is under way and seed and fertilizer demands are increasing daily. Orchard insect control, tree pruning and home gardening are under way.

Texas Farmers' Income Shows Increase In '58

DALLAS (UPI) — Net income for Texas farmers jumped 79 per cent in 1958, according to figures Agriculture Marketing Service released Saturday.

The percentage was calculated from a net average income per farm that totaled $3,254. The net income is the amount available for spending after farm production expenses are paid from the gross income.

The service calculates gross for 1958 at $8,999 per farm, $2,187 more than in 1957. Total net income in the year just past averaged $3,262. In 1957 it was $2,431.

Cotton was responsible for more than half the increase in total cash receipts. Sorghum grain, wheat and cattle also showed gains.

Benefits Of New Field Fertilizer Are Pointed Out

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —The agriculture extension service recommended Saturday three kinds of pasture fertilization to point up the benefits of pasture fertilization and weed control, as well as to make a profit.

Agronomist W. R. Thompson listed the three:

The farmer fertilizes all permanent pastures with the recommended amounts of nitrogen, phosphate and potash; the farmer fertilizes one fenced-off pasture according to recommendation; and the farmer fertilizes half of a two-acre plot but controls the weeds on the entire two acres.

"When grass and clover are tall enough," he said, "turn in the cows. Take them off before the area is overgrazed."

Saved By Businessmen

Michigan, a state dominated by G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, a socialist-modernist governor, and Walter Reuther, radical-socialist boss of the A.F.L.-C.I.O., has been saved from financial collapse by a group of public-spirited businessmen.

Less than a month ago, on Feb. 15, the state of Michigan was dead broke. The state had been unable to make payments to Michigan's universities since last November. The universities had been borrowing from banks in order to pay professors and to keep the buildings heated and illuminated. There was a $110 million deficit.

Looking forward, the people of Michigan had designated Feb. 15 as "collapse day." Then free enterprise came to the rescue. Responding to a desperate plea from a governor who advocates a welfare state, free enterprise came to the rescue. Manufacturing concerns in Michigan handed over to the state government more than $35 million in taxes from two to four months ahead of their due date. With this cash in the treasury, Michigan was able to pay some of its bills.

With Michigan finances in shambles and the state deeply in the red, the public should have seen the fallacy of the principle of centralized control advocated by the labor radical, Reuther, and the governor he undoubtedly helped to put into office by a free flow of union funds. The people and the taxpayers should have been shocked into a realization that these men are carrying their state down the road to financial ruin and to state enslavement of the people. So far, no concerted demand for a change has arisen. The action of the businessmen cushioned for the people the shattering shock that may still await them.

Reuther and Gov. Williams, like the Bourbon kings of France, apparently have forsaken none of their extravagant ways and have learned nothing. Sticking to his false theory that wasteful spending will bring prosperity, Gov. Williams has not changed from his reckless course. Instead of urging retrenchment and return to financial sanity, Gov Williams has proposed a consitutional amendment referendum to raise from $250,000 to $50,000,000 the amount the state can borrow without express vote of the people. He also suggested that a veterans' trust fund of $50 million be made available for collateral. Furthermore, he has proposed heavier taxes on the element that saved the state—the private business firms. He has not proposed cutting public spending.

The course proposed by Gov. Williams could easily reach proportions which would exhaust the $50 million veterans' trust fund, run the state's debt so high that it could no longer borrow money, reach such financial ruin that businessman could not save the situation and actually bankrupt business and industry of Michigan as well as the state.

Michigan undoubtedly will face another collapse day if the governor persists in this folly. A great state may grind to a halt. No one wants to see a thing like that happen. Innocent people would suffer. But collapse day for Michigan, if it comes, would be a warning to Americans of all states that governments cannot borrow and spend its way out of hard times. Common sense and thrift are as much a part of sound fiscal government as of business and industry.

Michigan, many other states and our federal government are seeking to live lavishly. They are acting on the false theory that lavish spending will bring income and prosperity.

For people who have come to expect the soft life to be provided by the government, a policy of austerity and thrift would be a new experience. In a spendthrift nation, the only alternatives to austerity are bankruptcy or dictatorship. With them would come crushing poverty or controlled lives in which hard labor for the government would be subsituted for sumptuous living.

So-called "liberals" and socialists never run out of promises. But the taxpayers run out of money and so do governments that operate on a basis of free-spending promises. The welfare state of the "liberals" is the twilight before collapse day.

Dr. Dahlberg's Friends

People are usually judged by the persons with whom they associate or with whom they aligned themselves. This is rightly so because it is chiefly through common interests that people are brought together.

The Rev. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches, has joined a number of people in advocating a "youth march for integrated schools" to demand federal legislation to compel school integration everywhere in the country.

Previous associations of the Rev. Dahlberg have given some idea of the leopard spots he wears and is unable to change but the new lineup is even more startling and demonstrates more clearly just where he stands in the matter of dominated socialism versus individual freedom.

Among those signing the petition with Dr. Dahlberg, according to the Charleston News and Courier, are Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Society for the Advancement of Colored People; Walter Reuther, boss of the A.F.L.-C.I.O.; Daisy Bates, president of the Little Rock N.A.-A.C.P. and principal agitator of the Little Rock integration fiasco which resulted in sending federal troops into Arkansas to force the mixing of different kinds of people; and A. Philip Randolph, head of the Pullman Car Porters Union, who is listed in the house un-American activities committee files as having been associated with or a supporter of various Communist front and Communist propaganda activities.

Dr. Dahlberg also is listed several times in the house committee's files in the same way.

The National Council of Churches embraces more than 30 American Protestant denominations, including all of the larger groups except one. These denominations have a total of 38,000,000 to 39,000,000 Protestant members, many of them opposed to the kind of one worldism Dr. Dahlberg represents.

It is well known that a considerable part of the population of the United States advocates socialism, one worldism, desiring to force the entire world, at the point of bayonets, into a conglomerate melting pot from which there is no escape.

On the other hand, there is an even larger segment which seeks to perpetuate American liberty, individual freedom and the right to choose one's business and social associates. These people do not want all human emotions and choices crushed in a monstrous human yeast pan from which only one type of mongrelized humanity can emerge.

Diabolically, the greatest Protestant organization in the United States and probably in the world is headed by a man who is trying to lead all of the people of the churches into this plot to form a conglomerate mass of characterless humanity.

Many of the church people may be interested in knowing of this latest activity of the president of the national Protestant church group of which they are a part.

Dictatorship Danger Is Seen For United States

WASHINGTON, D. C. — There are Men on Horseback in Washington, but they are only statues — which is a good thing for our political freedoms. If we had a real live dictator-in-the making, this country would be in danger of turning to him.

The ruthlessness of the enemy, the recklessness of the Eisenhower Administration, the multiplicity of our military problems, the complexity of the inflationary peril, the degeneracy of our people, expecially of our youth, and the admitted perplexity of our few remaining statesmen — all this combines to make the lure of desperate remedies seem irresistible and almost right.

Every writer is something of a chameleon. He takes the coloring of his surroundings. This reporter gets gloomy when he subjects himself to facts that are easy to get although hard to accept. He gets pessimistic from putting himself in the company of serious men. It's doubtful if any correspondent, however impervious to his environment, could be reasonably knowledgeable and even moderately cheerful at the same time.

The Administration is too weak. The Congress is too sparse in talents and too diffuse in its purposes. The job to be done, while not beyond our nation's strength, is too big for anything except a grand and heroic effort.

To summon such an effort would seem to require the one thing we do not have — a take-charge man. He would have to take over-all charge, for foreign and domestic troubles are inseparable. He would have to be so secure in the people's trust that he could tell unpleasant truths and assign disagreeable duties without any risk of losing his post. On the basis of somber conversation with responsible men in Government, here is a sketch of minimum requirements to save our lives and liberties:

1. A military establishment of bone and muscle. It is now well-known, but almost unmentionable in public, that no close-up defense of our cities is possible. Both the civilian and military heads at the Pentagon know that the Nike sites and other anti-aircraft paraphernalia around the urban centers are there for "morale" and little else. Further, they are there because the Armed Forces have never been "unified" and because careers are still being protected. While not as utterly worthless as the civil defense hardware, there are secondary units of the Air Force and Navy which ought to be junked. After some wholesale cancellation of the needless and obsolete, it might be possible to "go ahead" of the Russians on almost everything except gross numbers. We need to bring the combat elements of the Army and Marines up to full strength and to give them the very best weapons. We need to match the Communist numbers with an abundance of mobility by airlift. We need to step up Air Power production without counting the cost, until we have missiles and planes coming off the assembly lines like axe handles.

2. A civilian regime of sacrifice and discipline. It would almost certainly mean higher taxes, probably a freezing of wages and profits, possibley a return to wartime rationing. For the first time since coming to Washington I recently heard an elected official declare that "police power" is the first duty of government. Certainly there would be no place for the McClellan Committee hearings, nor for the continuing school and community crime waves, if local governments performed the primary function of keeping law and order. As things are going today, we are losing the Cold War at home before the battles wth the foreign enemy are even joined.

In the broadest sketch, these are things which must be done to save us. But the President is always, it seems, in full flight from his desk work, the Secretary of State is hospitalized, the Secretary of Defense wants to go back to soap-making very soon. Both Houses of Congress are running at half-throttle and wasting time on inconsequentials. Leaders of both parties are running in next year's elections.

Ironically, we recently had a serio-comic flurry in the Senate where the Majority Leader was charged with asserting too much leadership — as if that were possible in a fix like this. And we still have in the White House — when he's there — the duly elected Commander in Chief, who could get almost any powers he asked of the American people.

Well, it's fortunate that the equestrian heroes in the parks are petrified. Otherwise, they might hear the call for leadership and gallop into the breach.

SYLVIA PORTER

Highest Bidders Get Conventions

Usually the national political conventions go to cities which offer the most money to cover expenses, sufficient hotel space to accomodate delegates and visitors and occasional "fringe benefits" such as a contribution toward wiping out existing indebtedness.

Next year the Democrats will depart to a marked extent from this tradition when they assemble in Los Angeles, a city which has never had a national convention, which is handicapped by the inconvenience of long distances between hotels and convention hall and which is further from the homes of a great majority of the delegates than any previous convention host with the exception of San Francisco, where the Republicans met in 1956, and vowed they would never return again, just as the Democrats did in 1920, when they nominated the losing Cox-Roosevelt ticket.

Why, then was Los Angeles picked? The choice indicates that Chairman Paul Butler has a stronger hold on the Democratic National Committee than many Democratic office holders and party leaders believed, for he unquestionably directed the selection, which the 108 member committee finally ratified by a 2-1 vote. His handpicked subcommittee of eight members, headed by Camille Gravel of New Orleans, national committeeman for Louisiana, made the original choice in New Orleans on Jan. 16.

Once the choice was announced there was little chance to reverse it, as Butler has the argument that to pick another city would be an affront which might lose California for the Democrats.

Flimsy as this sounds, considering the whooping majorities rolled up by Democrats in California last year, there was the background teaser that southern California is the home of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, whom most Democrats apparently believe will be the Republican nominee.

Los Angeles' first bid was a sizeable $350,000, which Chicago and Philadelphia said they were prepared to match but weren't given a chance. Philadelphia is prepared to bid even higher for the Republican convention which isn't figured to draw the crowds that the Democrats will in Los Angeles.

There are many minor considerations involved but the current conviction here is that Butler has won an initial round in his ambition to name a man he approved as Democratic candidate for President. Most convention buffs of both parties say that the location of the convention doesn't influence the choice of a candidate but there have been exceptions, though not many. In 1940 packed galleries at the Philadelphia Republican convention chanting "We want Willkie" are conceded to have had an important part in the stampede for Wendell Willkie.

Four years later, CIO cohorts packed the galleries of the Chicago stadium demanding the renomination of Henry A. Wallace as vice president, and almost upset the carefully laid scheme of President Roosevelt and Democratic Chairman Robert Hannegan to ditch Wallace. Some historians believe Wallace might have been renominated on the new ballot had the Convention chairman Senator Sam Jackson of Indiana, not arbitrarily adjourned the night session.

At Los Angeles, the Democrats may expect packed galleries because the local Democrats in charge will follow Butler's directions, at least through the organization stage. And those galleries could be filled with vocal supporters of one candidate, who might well be Adlai Stevenson, native of Los Angeles through a resident of Illinois. Stevenson is reported to be Butler's favorite among the Democrats most prominently mentioned.

There is good reason to believe this is one time when the convention site was picked chiefly for political reasons.

Views Of Our Readers

To the Editor:

May I take this opportunity of thanking you and your paper for the publicity that you recently gave to our soybean meeting in Lake Providence, I feel sure that your news columns concerning this meeting had a great deal to do with us having a successful meeting. We had over 300 to attend this meeting despite the fact that it was a beautiful, farming day - which no doubt cut down on the attendance of farmers.

We also appreciated Mrs. Reca Jones, State Editor, attending the meeting and writing up a follow-up story on this meeting. Also let me express my appreciation and the appreciation of County Agents throughout Northeast Louisiana for the wonderful cooperation we receive from your paper. Your Farm Page is read extensively throughout this area, and I am sure our farmers benefit from the publication.

I realize this is a little pay for the efforts and space that you give to farm news; however, I wanted you to know that we really appreciate your cooperation even though we don't always express it to you. If at any time we can be of service to you, please don't hesitate to call on us.

Sincerely yours,
Max McDonald, County Agent and Publicity Committee
Chairman for Northeast Louisiana

HITS MONEY WASTE

West Monroe, La.

After reading the March 3 issue of the Monroe News-Star on the special meeting called by the police jury in which the purpose was to spend $505.20 of the taxpayers' money to determine if a 20-acre tract of timber should be sold for $1,000.00, it seems to me with the number of employes that are employed by the police jury, that this timber could be removed from this land, netting a greater profit, and the expense of the special meetings of the police jury saved.

I think it's time voters who elect our public officials should take a closer notice as to how the high taxes we have to pay are being spent. I'm sure bond issues would be uncalled for if our tax money was more carefully handled. The reporter who brought this forth to the public is one who cares as to how his tax money is spent. How about you?

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Bar Association Attacks Court

A special committee of the American Bar Association labored on the subject of Communist tactics, strategy and objectives and produced a 57-page report which is undoubtedly the clearest and most succinct study of the subject and a set of resolutions which the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association adopted.

I listened to Orison S. Marden, a New York lawyer, on television, try to crawl out of the adoption of the resolutions by saying that the report had not been adopted, only the resolutions which in the document are called recommendations. Having meandered through a logical maze, Marden was put to intellectual flight when Roy Cohn, another lawyer, called attention to the fact that the House of Delegates does not adopt reports but only passes the recommendations of the committee.

Having suffered these legalistic puerilities, we might now discuss this significant report. What Marden tried to say was that the report is not an attack on the United States Supreme Court, which it definitely is in matters of subversion, and that if it is, it does not matter as most lawyers regard the court as the holy of holies of our political system, which it undoubtedly is. But the holy of holies, the inner sanctuary of any temple, can become polluted if improper persons become the high priests, as, for instance, Caiphas of biblical fame. An institution is only as good as the men who manage it and in many countries, the instruments of justice and right have been corrupted, if not by money then by the corrosive activities of incorrectly oriented men.

What the report does is to take a series of decisions of the United States Supreme Court in 1956, 1957 and 1958 and show that the court "legislated" favorably to subversives and subversion and that these decisions are not accidental or incidental or whimsical, but present an intention to change the law. The "recommendations" of the committee call upon Congress to restore the laws governing subversion and subversives.

For instance, in the matter of Cole v. Young, the report states:

". . . Three justices dissented holding that the clear purpose of Congress was being frustrated in that the statute had been intended to authorize summary dismissal of employees whose retention would be inimical to the national interests regardless of the sensitivity of their positions."

The court vitiated the intention of Congress in the "Summary Suspension Act of 1950." There is not room in this article to refer to all the cases cited, but I should like to quote the committee's statement in the case of Slochower v. Board of Education of the city of New York:

"Under the terms of a New York City charter provision which had been long in effect a City College professor was discharged without notice or hearing for claiming his privilege against self-incrimination when asked about Communist Party membership by a congressional committee investigating matters of national security. It seemed that the professor had answered similar questions put by a state investigating body and that this information was in the hands of city authorities at the time of his discharge. The Supreme Court reversed the decisions of three New York Courts and held that this automatic discharge was unconstitutional because of alleged lack of due process. Four justices dissented."

This committee supports the FBI and the investigative committees of Congress. Concerning the latter, it says:

"Notwithstanding some mistakes — fewer than generally charged—the service to our country by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee and the House Un-American Activities Committee has been incalculable and worthy of far greater praise than has been accorded to them. The Communist and radical propaganda against these committees has never subsided . . .

"This committee has been astonished to read the proposal to the Congress that one of its committees charged with investigating National and State security and Communist activities be discontinued. We regard any attempt to terminate or to curtail the work of the committee of each house charged with this vital duty as a distinct disservice to the nation."

At the annual convention of the American Bar Association next summer, these resolutions will again appear on the agenda. Not only the Communist and other leftists but many so-called respectble lawyers will object to them because they will argue that the Supreme Court must never be criticized. In a country of free men, no institution of government must never be criticized.

Visit With Veto Called Unlikely

VETOING THE VETOER—Suggestion that President Eisenhower might go before a joint session of Congress to explain his veto of first big Democratic spending bill is not likely to eventuate into such action. Constitution provides President may return bills to Congress without his approval and with reasons therefore, but does not contemplate he shall physically accompany veto. Congress might even refuse to call a joint session to receive him on such an unusual errand.

IF BERLIN SHOWDOWN COMES — Make no mistake about it every department of government concerned is burning the midnight oil on preparations for action if the Russians remain obdurate over Berlin. Country may not be much excited, but Washington attitude is: "This could be it." It in that case means a third world war. This country does not want a war and thinks Russia does not. If Russia strikes first blow it won't be first by much.

CITY OF ANGELS — Final two-to-one vote for Los Angeles did not reflect real sentiment even of Democratic National Committee which voted the selection. Party Congressional sentiment was overwhelming against it. Feeling was almost unanimous that party threw away billions of dollars worth of advertising because of Los Angeles time zone, which shuts out eastern television audience. California's metropolis may be the City of Angels, but it will have to prove it to Democrats in June, 1960.

CUBA AND CONFISCATION—Cuban "quickie" law authorizing its Government to confiscate all property of former Batista collaborators is a new worry to State Department. Numerous American property owners may be cited as collaborators. Belief here also is that Cuba runs a grave risk of paralyzing its business and destroying its credit, in enforcement of new law.

Saved By Businessmen

Michigan, a state dominated by G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, a socialist-modernist governor, and Walter Reuther, radical-socialist boss of the A.F.L.-C.I.O., has been saved from financial collapse by a group of public-spirited businessmen.

Less than a month ago, on Feb. 15, the state of Michigan was dead broke. The state had been unable to make payments to Michigan's universities since last November. The universities had been borrowing from banks in order to pay professors and to keep the buildings heated and illuminated. There was a $110 million deficit.

Looking forward, the people of Michigan had designated Feb. 15 as "collapse day." Then free enterprise came to the rescue. Responding to a desperate plea from a governor who advocates a welfare state, free enterprise came to the rescue. Manufacturing concerns in Michigan handed over to the state government more than $35 million in taxes from two to four months ahead of their due date. With this cash in the treasury, Michigan was able to pay some of its bills.

With Michigan finances in shambles and the state deeply in the red, the public should have seen the fallacy of the principle of centralized control advocated by the labor radical, Reuther, and the governor he undoubtedly helped to put into office by a free flow of union funds. The people and the taxpayers should have been shocked into a realization that these men are carrying their state down the road to financial ruin and to state enslavement of the people. So far, no concerted demand for a change has arisen. The action of the businessmen cushioned for the people the shattering shock that may still await them.

Reuther and Gov. Williams, like the Bourbon kings of France, apparently have forsaken none of their extravagant ways and have learned nothing. Sticking to his false theory that wasteful spending will bring prosperity, Gov. Williams has not changed from his reckless course. Instead of urging retrenchment and return to financial sanity, Gov Williams has proposed a consitutional amendment referendum to raise from $250,000 to $50,000,000 the amount the state can borrow without express vote of the people. He also suggested that a veterans' trust fund of $50 million be made available for collateral. Furthermore, he has proposed heavier taxes on the element that saved the state—the private business firms. He has not proposed cutting public spending.

The course proposed by Gov. Williams could easily reach proportions which would exhaust the $50 million veterans' trust fund, run the state's debt so high that it could no longer borrow money, reach such financial ruin that businessman could not save the situation and actually bankrupt business and industry of Michigan as well as the state.

Michigan undoubtedly will face another collapse day if the governor persists in this folly. A great state may grind to a halt. No one wants to see a thing like that happen. Innocent people would suffer. But collapse day for Michigan, if it comes, would be a warning to Americans of all states that governments cannot borrow and spend its way out of hard times. Common sense and thrift are as much a part of sound fiscal government as of business and industry.

Michigan, many other states and our federal government are seeking to live lavishly. They are acting on the false theory that lavish spending will bring income and prosperity.

For people who have come to expect the soft life to be provided by the government, a policy of austerity and thrift would be a new experience. In a spendthrift nation, the only alternatives to austerity are bankruptcy or dictatorship. With them would come crushing poverty or controlled lives in which hard labor for the government would be subsituted for sumptuous living.

So-called "liberals" and socialists never run out of promises. But the taxpayers run out of money and so do governments that operate on a basis of free-spending promises. The welfare state of the "liberals" is the twilight before collapse day.

Dr. Dahlberg's Friends

People are usually judged by the persons with whom they associate or with whom they aligned themselves. This is rightly so because it is chiefly through common interests that people are brought together.

The Rev. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches, has joined a number of people in advocating a "youth march for integrated schools" to demand federal legislation to compel school integration everywhere in the country.

Previous associations of the Rev. Dahlberg have given some idea of the leopard spots he wears and is unable to change but the new lineup is even more startling and demonstrates more clearly just where he stands in the matter of dominated socialism versus individual freedom.

Among those signing the petition with Dr. Dahlberg, according to the Charleston News and Courier, are Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Society for the Advancement of Colored People; Walter Reuther, boss of the A.F.L.-C.I.O.; Daisy Bates, president of the Little Rock N.A.-A.C.P. and principal agitator of the Little Rock integration fiasco which resulted in sending federal troops into Arkansas to force the mixing of different kinds of people; and A. Philip Randolph, head of the Pullman Car Porters Union, who is listed in the house un-American activities committee files as having been associated with or a supporter of various Communist front and Communist propaganda activities.

Dr. Dahlberg also is listed several times in the house committee's files in the same way.

The National Council of Churches embraces more than 30 American Protestant denominations, including all of the larger groups except one. These denominations have a total of 38,000,000 to 39,000,000 Protestant members, many of them opposed to the kind of one worldism Dr. Dahlberg represents.

It is well known that a considerable part of the population of the United States advocates socialism, one worldism, desiring to force the entire world, at the point of bayonets, into a conglomerate melting pot from which there is no escape.

On the other hand, there is an even larger segment which seeks to perpetuate American liberty, individual freedom and the right to choose one's business and social associates. These people do not want all human emotions and choices crushed in a monstrous human yeast pan from which only one type of mongrelized humanity can emerge.

Diabolically, the greatest Protestant organization in the United States and probably in the world is headed by a man who is trying to lead all of the people of the churches into this plot to form a conglomerate mass of characterless humanity.

Many of the church people may be interested in knowing of this latest activity of the president of the national Protestant church group of which they are a part.

Dictatorship Danger Is Seen For United States

WASHINGTON, D. C. — There are Men on Horseback in Washington, but they are only statues — which is a good thing for our political freedoms. If we had a real live dictator-in-the making, this country would be in danger of turning to him.

The ruthlessness of the enemy, the recklessness of the Eisenhower Administration, the multiplicity of our military problems, the complexity of the inflationary peril, the degeneracy of our people, expecially of our youth, and the admitted perplexity of our few remaining statesmen — all this combines to make the lure of desperate remedies seem irresistible and almost right.

Every writer is something of a chameleon. He takes the coloring of his surroundings. This reporter gets gloomy when he subjects himself to facts that are easy to get although hard to accept. He gets pessimistic from putting himself in the company of serious men. It's doubtful if any correspondent, however impervious to his environment, could be reasonably knowledgeable and even moderately cheerful at the same time.

The Administration is too weak. The Congress is too sparse in talents and too diffuse in its purposes. The job to be done, while not beyond our nation's strength, is too big for anything except a grand and heroic effort.

To summon such an effort would seem to require the one thing we do not have — a take-charge man. He would have to take over-all charge, for foreign and domestic troubles are inseparable. He would have to be so secure in the people's trust that he could tell unpleasant truths and assign disagreeable duties without any risk of losing his post. On the basis of somber conversation with responsible men in Government, here is a sketch of minimum requirements to save our lives and liberties:

1. A military establishment of bone and muscle. It is now well-known, but almost unmentionable in public, that no close-up defense of our cities is possible. Both the civilian and military heads at the Pentagon know that the Nike sites and other anti-aircraft paraphernalia around the urban centers are there for "morale" and little else. Further, they are there because the Armed Forces have never been "unified" and because careers are still being protected. While not as utterly worthless as the civil defense hardware, there are secondary units of the Air Force and Navy which ought to be junked. After some wholesale cancellation of the needless and obsolete, it might be possible to "go ahead" of the Russians on almost everything except gross numbers. We need to bring the combat elements of the Army and Marines up to full strength and to give them the very best weapons. We need to match the Communist numbers with an abundance of mobility by airlift. We need to step up Air Power production without counting the cost, until we have missiles and planes coming off the assembly lines like axe handles.

2. A civilian regime of sacrifice and discipline. It would almost certainly mean higher taxes, probably a freezing of wages and profits, possibley a return to wartime rationing. For the first time since coming to Washington I recently heard an elected official declare that "police power" is the first duty of government. Certainly there would be no place for the McClellan Committee hearings, nor for the continuing school and community crime waves, if local governments performed the primary function of keeping law and order. As things are going today, we are losing the Cold War at home before the battles wth the foreign enemy are even joined.

In the broadest sketch, these are things which must be done to save us. But the President is always, it seems, in full flight from his desk work, the Secretary of State is hospitalized, the Secretary of Defense wants to go back to soap-making very soon. Both Houses of Congress are running at half-throttle and wasting time on inconsequentials. Leaders of both parties are running in next year's elections.

Ironically, we recently had a serio-comic flurry in the Senate where the Majority Leader was charged with asserting too much leadership — as if that were possible in a fix like this. And we still have in the White House — when he's there — the duly elected Commander in Chief, who could get almost any powers he asked of the American people.

Well, it's fortunate that the equestrian heroes in the parks are petrified. Otherwise, they might hear the call for leadership and gallop into the breach.

SYLVIA PORTER

Highest Bidders Get Conventions

Usually the national political conventions go to cities which offer the most money to cover expenses, sufficient hotel space to accomodate delegates and visitors and occasional "fringe benefits" such as a contribution toward wiping out existing indebtedness.

Next year the Democrats will depart to a marked extent from this tradition when they assemble in Los Angeles, a city which has never had a national convention, which is handicapped by the inconvenience of long distances between hotels and convention hall and which is further from the homes of a great majority of the delegates than any previous convention host with the exception of San Francisco, where the Republicans met in 1956, and vowed they would never return again, just as the Democrats did in 1920, when they nominated the losing Cox-Roosevelt ticket.

Why, then was Los Angeles picked? The choice indicates that Chairman Paul Butler has a stronger hold on the Democratic National Committee than many Democratic office holders and party leaders believed, for he unquestionably directed the selection, which the 108 member committee finally ratified by a 2-1 vote. His handpicked subcommittee of eight members, headed by Camille Gravel of New Orleans, national committeeman for Louisiana, made the original choice in New Orleans on Jan. 16.

Once the choice was announced there was little chance to reverse it, as Butler has the argument that to pick another city would be an affront which might lose California for the Democrats.

Flimsy as this sounds, considering the whooping majorities rolled up by Democrats in California last year, there was the background teaser that southern California is the home of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, whom most Democrats apparently believe will be the Republican nominee.

Los Angeles' first bid was a sizeable $350,000, which Chicago and Philadelphia said they were prepared to match but weren't given a chance. Philadelphia is prepared to bid even higher for the Republican convention which isn't figured to draw the crowds that the Democrats will in Los Angeles.

There are many minor considerations involved but the current conviction here is that Butler has won an initial round in his ambition to name a man he approved as Democratic candidate for President. Most convention buffs of both parties say that the location of the convention doesn't influence the choice of a candidate but there have been exceptions, though not many. In 1940 packed galleries at the Philadelphia Republican convention chanting "We want Willkie" are conceded to have had an important part in the stampede for Wendell Willkie.

Four years later, CIO cohorts packed the galleries of the Chicago stadium demanding the renomination of Henry A. Wallace as vice president, and almost upset the carefully laid scheme of President Roosevelt and Democratic Chairman Robert Hannegan to ditch Wallace. Some historians believe Wallace might have been renominated on the new ballot had the Convention chairman Senator Sam Jackson of Indiana, not arbitrarily adjourned the night session.

At Los Angeles, the Democrats may expect packed galleries because the local Democrats in charge will follow Butler's directions, at least through the organization stage. And those galleries could be filled with vocal supporters of one candidate, who might well be Adlai Stevenson, native of Los Angeles through a resident of Illinois. Stevenson is reported to be Butler's favorite among the Democrats most prominently mentioned.

There is good reason to believe this is one time when the convention site was picked chiefly for political reasons.

Views Of Our Readers

To the Editor:

May I take this opportunity of thanking you and your paper for the publicity that you recently gave to our soybean meeting in Lake Providence, I feel sure that your news columns concerning this meeting had a great deal to do with us having a successful meeting. We had over 300 to attend this meeting despite the fact that it was a beautiful, farming day - which no doubt cut down on the attendance of farmers.

We also appreciated Mrs. Reca Jones, State Editor, attending the meeting and writing up a follow-up story on this meeting. Also let me express my appreciation and the appreciation of County Agents throughout Northeast Louisiana for the wonderful cooperation we receive from your paper. Your Farm Page is read extensively throughout this area, and I am sure our farmers benefit from the publication.

I realize this is a little pay for the efforts and space that you give to farm news; however, I wanted you to know that we really appreciate your cooperation even though we don't always express it to you. If at any time we can be of service to you, please don't hesitate to call on us.

Sincerely yours,

HITS MONEY WASTE

West Monroe, La.

After reading the March 3 issue of the Monroe News-Star on the special meeting called by the police jury in which the purpose was to spend $505.20 of the taxpayers' money to determine if a 20-acre tract of timber should be sold for $1,000.00, it seems to me with the number of employes that are employed by the police jury, that this timber could be removed from this land, netting a greater profit, and the expense of the special meetings of the police jury saved.

I think it's time voters who elect our public officials should take a closer notice as to how the high taxes we have to pay are being spent. I'm sure bond issues would be uncalled for if our tax money was more carefully handled. The reporter who brought this forth to the public is one who cares as to how his tax money is spent. How about you?

OVER INDEPENDENT OIL UNION

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A Louisiana fight began shaping up Saturday between Victor Bussie, the state's AFL-CIO chief, and Teamster president James Hoffa over a troubled independent oil union here.

In Detroit, Hoffa snapped, "Let him grab his best hold. If the Esso workers want to join the teamsters we'll take them in. We believe we are the one union that can do good for the Esso workers.

"If he (Bussie) is so interested in the Esso workers, where has he been all these years, and is he now speaking for Standard Oil?"

The threatened showdown involving two giants of unionism is caused by the Independent Industrial Workers Assn. (IIWA). It's leaders seek Hoffa's aid in their contract stalemate with the Esso Standard Oil Co. at Baton Rouge.

Bussie, boss of some 150,000 AFL-CIO workers and winner of the 1956 legislative fight to repeal the state's right to work law, challenged Hoffa after he learned IIWA officers are inviting Hoffa to come to Baton Rouge, possibly to become the IIWA bargaining agent at the giant Esso refinery.

"If Hoffa injects himself into the Louisiana industrial scene," Bussie asserted in a statement, "his presence and his dominance would tear down the long-established integrity, honesty and devotion to principles within Louisiana's trade union movement."

The Louisiana labor leader declared, "It would be an unfortunate thing if the rank and file membership of the IIWA in Baton Rouge should be caught in the vise of association with a man who has damaged the entire labor movement in America."

Bussie pledged he will oppose "with all the power and official strength at my command, the efforts of this man to take over a Louisiana union, and to subject that union to the chaos, havoc and corruption which seems to follow in his wake."

During an IIWA meeting Thursday night, members rejected a move to oust president Marvin H. Holley Jr. and Secretary Wood B. Honeycutt because they had conferred with Hoffa at Miami, Fla., last weekend.

The unionists decided, subject to approval of the entire membership, to invite Hoffa to Baton Rouge to talk to them. The IIWA, representing some 4,000 workers at the Esso refinery, has been working without a contract since last summer. The refinery cut off 440 workers this week in a move to balance its manpower requirements.

Meanwhile, J. D. Wells, representing the mechanical services department on the IIWA council, said another move would be made to impeach Holley and Honeycutt at the next meeting.

Wells cast the only vote for impeachment Thursday night. He said a petition would be circulated to be presented for a try at a majority vote at the next meeting.

Holley, commenting on Bussie's remarks, said, "I have all the respect in the world for Victor Bussie. But he tried to undermine me as IIWA president in an attempt to organize my group for the metals trade. He wasn't big enough to do it, and I'm looking elsewhere."

Ricksha Men Are Almost A Rarity

By KENNTH ISHII

TOKYO (AP) — The story of modern Japan is neatly swathed in the story of the ricksha man.

Only one among thousands of his kind, he is today a rarity. His fragile vehicle, for many years a symbol of the eastern world, is vanishing from the streets of Tokyo.

A westerner might scoff, but to the ricksha man the passing of his long-established tradition and way of life holds both melancholy and nostalgia.

Here, in his own, artless words, is the story of a ricksha man speaking for his dwindling tribe:

My name is Juhei Takahashi but they call me "Nao." From way back, us ricksha men never used our real names. Just like geisha.

I'm 52 but this doesn't make me old. There are some of us 70 years old and still pulling rickshas.

There used to be tens of thousands of rickshas in Tokyo alone, but now there are barely a hundred. Now we're unwanted, practically.

I figure I'll be lucky if I can stay in business another 10 years —'cause that's as long as the ricksha business will probably last.

The only customers who ride rickshas now are the geishas. Maybe they do so because they feel sorry for us. Maybe because geishas are part of the traditional Japan and because we're part of tradition, too.

The geishas ride only to and from work, and since they live close to the restaurants and tea houses our trips are pretty short, aboct a mile or two. We average between 60 and 70 yen a ride (roughly between 16 and 19 cents).

We earn around 7,000 yen (about $19) a month which is less than what the lowest paid Japanese laborer makes. So many of us take on odd jobs to support our families.

In another 10 years rickshas will cease to exist altogether.

You see, there aren't any more ricksha builders in Japan. With so few riding them it just doesn't pay any more to be a ricksha maker.

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A Louisiana fight began shaping up Saturday between Victor Bussie, the state's AFL-CIO chief, and Teamster president James Hoffa over a troubled independent oil union here.

In Detroit, Hoffa snapped, "Let him grab his best hold. If the Esso workers want to join the teamsters we'll take them in. We believe we are the one union that can do good for the Esso workers.

"If he (Bussie) is so interested in the Esso workers, where has he been all these years, and is he now speaking for Standard Oil?"

The threatened showdown involving two giants of unionism is caused by the Independent Industrial Workers Assn. (IIWA). It's leaders seek Hoffa's aid in their contract stalemate with the Esso Standard Oil Co. at Baton Rouge.

Bussie, boss of some 150,000 AFL-CIO workers and winner of the 1956 legislative fight to repeal the state's right to work law, challenged Hoffa after he learned IIWA officers are inviting Hoffa to come to Baton Rouge, possibly to become the IIWA bargaining agent at the giant Esso refinery.

"If Hoffa injects himself into the Louisiana industrial scene," Bussie asserted in a statement, "his presence and his dominance would tear down the long-established integrity, honesty and devotion to principles within Louisiana's trade union movement."

The Louisiana labor leader declared, "It would be an unfortunate thing if the rank and file membership of the IIWA in Baton Rouge should be caught in the vise of association with a man who has damaged the entire labor movement in America."

Bussie pledged he will oppose "with all the power and official strength at my command, the efforts of this man to take over a Louisiana union, and to subject that union to the chaos, havoc and corruption which seems to follow in his wake."

During an IIWA meeting Thursday night, members rejected a move to oust president Marvin H. Holley Jr. and Secretary Wood B. Honeycutt because they had conferred with Hoffa at Miami, Fla., last weekend.

The unionists decided, subject to approval of the entire membership, to invite Hoffa to Baton Rouge to talk to them. The IIWA, representing some 4,000 workers at the Esso refinery, has been working without a contract since last summer. The refinery cut off 440 workers this week in a move to balance its manpower requirements.

Meanwhile, J. D. Wells, representing the mechanical services department on the IIWA council, said another move would be made to impeach Holley and Honeycutt at the next meeting.

Wells cast the only vote for impeachment Thursday night. He said a petition would be circulated to be presented for a try at a majority vote at the next meeting.

Holley, commenting on Bussie's remarks, said, "I have all the respect in the world for Victor Bussie. But he tried to undermine me as IIWA president in an attempt to organize my group for the metals trade. He wasn't big enough to do it, and I'm looking elsewhere."

Ricksha Men Are Almost A Rarity

By KENNTH ISHII

TOKYO (AP) — The story of modern Japan is neatly swathed in the story of the ricksha man.

Only one among thousands of his kind, he is today a rarity. His fragile vehicle, for many years a symbol of the eastern world, is vanishing from the streets of Tokyo.

A westerner might scoff, but to the ricksha man the passing of his long-established tradition and way of life holds both melancholy and nostalgia.

Here, in his own, artless words, is the story of a ricksha man speaking for his dwindling tribe:

My name is Juhei Takahashi but they call me "Nao." From way back, us ricksha men never used our real names. Just like geisha.

I'm 52 but this doesn't make me old. There are some of us 70 years old and still pulling rickshas.

There used to be tens of thousands of rickshas in Tokyo alone, but now there are barely a hundred. Now we're unwanted, practically.

I figure I'll be lucky if I can stay in business another 10 years —'cause that's as long as the ricksha business will probably last.

Times were before the war when everybody wanted to ride rickshas. We had nice new shiny ones with lacquered bodies and chrome-plated mudguards, and we'd go running through the streets as fast as we could because the more passengers we carried the more money we'd make.

The only customers who ride rickshas now are the geishas. Maybe they do so because they feel sorry for us. Maybe because geishas are part of the traditional Japan and because we're part of tradition, too.

The geishas ride only to and from work, and since they live close to the restaurants and tea houses our trips are pretty short, aboct a mile or two. We average between 60 and 70 yen a ride (roughly between 16 and 19 cents).

We earn around 7,000 yen (about $19) a month which is less than what the lowest paid Japanese laborer makes. So many of us take on odd jobs to support our families.

In another 10 years rickshas will cease to exist altogether.

You see, there aren't any more ricksha builders in Japan. With so few riding them it just doesn't pay any more to be a ricksha maker.

WHERE AFRICANS REBEL—Map locates protectorate of Nyasaland, scene of riots and bloodshed in wave of nationalism which has engulfed the British colonial outpost. Along with Northern Rhodesia and Southern Rhodesia, Nyasaland is part of the Central African Federation. (AP Wirephoto Map)

BURN HOMES OF EUROPEANS

New Africa Terror Reign Is Launched

By RONALD LEGGE
United Press International

BALANTRYE, Nyasaland (UPI)—Angry Africans put the torch to the homes of European and African officials in the northern part of Nyasaland Saturday night, it was reported here.

The reports from the northern part of this British protectorate in the Central African Federation said the house burnings were the beginning of a campaign of arson and sabotage launched by the nationalistic African National Congress to back up demands of "white men, go home."

Secondary roads in the area were reported blocked by Africans.

News of the violence coincided with a special declaration of emergency in the northern districts of Karonga and Rumpi, where all persons were ordered to stop on demand and be searched by security officers or sentries.

Early Saturday reliable sources said police had uncovered details of a secret jungle meeting near Balantyre at which 150 members of the African National Congress plotted a Mau Mau-like massacre of Nyasaland's 7,500 white settlers.

There was no official government confirmation of reports that the police now have details of the meeting although Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky has charged a "massacre" was planned. Leaders of the congress refused to say whether such a meeting was held.

It was said, however, that discovery of the meeting led to the mass arrests of dozens of leaders of the African political group.

An official government communique in Zomba said 249 persons have been detained so far under emergency regulations put into effect early this week. It said 136 of these arrested had been sent out of the territory. It was not known how many of these may have been connected with the jungle meeting.

Reports of the meeting came as tension among non-African residents of Nyasaland rose for counter-action against rioting Africans. So far 39 Africans and no whites have been killed in the riots, which began four weeks ago.

British troops in Kenya, hundreds of miles north of here, were on a standby alert today. Huge transport planes stood on runways ready to load units of the King's Own Royal Regiment at the first sign of trouble, but the Nyasaland government formally turned down the British offer of help.

Spear-carrying native troops in Mnopela, Nyasaland, appeared ready today to go into pitched battle with rifles and machineguns — another ominous development in the buildup of the "white man, get out" offensive.

About 600 tribesmen refused Friday to drop their spears, hatchets and panga knives when they met troops commanded by white officers. One African was killed when the troops opened fire to disperse the tribesmen. Three more were wounded.

Villages in the Visanza and Pasambani areas were reported deserted. In the northern province, a messenger's house in the government area at Karonga was burned Friday night. Other ominous "incidents" were reported to support fears of impending large-scale native uprisings.

Welensky charged in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, that the African National Congress planned a "massacre" of whites and even moderate Africans. Only the arrival of troops under a state of emergency he declared early this week saved Nyasaland from a "diabolic" fate, Welensky said.

According to reports of the Jan. 25 meeting, Dr. Hastings Banda, African National Congress leader, was not among the plotters and was not even present. Banda, who was arrested Saturday, was believed to have been taken to Southern Rhodesia.

Cotton Futures Conclude Week On Mixed Note

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices plodded a narrowly irregular course this week and closed mixed with small net changes.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices ranging from $1.90 a bale lower to 70 cents a bale higher than at the close of the week before.

The three nearer months and the distant July position closed in lower territory.

The nearer deliveries were firm at the start of the week on prompt stoppage of March notices, and Friday they drew considerable support from short covering and light mill price fixing. In the intervening period, they weakened on profit taking, hedge selling and switching to later months.

The new crop contracts held to a narrow range. Selling was not aggressive, and neither was demand.

The Commodity Credit Corp. reported the sale of 47,000 bales against bids opened Monday under the U.S. Government's cotton export program. Average price was 28.50 cents a bale for middling 1-inch cotton at average location.

At the previous sale two weeks earlier, 53,000 bales were disposed of at an average price of 28.41 cents and two weeks before that, the CCC sold 53,000 bales at an average price of 28.40 cents. Sales under the current phase of the program through March 2 total 2,041,000 bales.

Actual exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau at 31,000 bales vs. 71,000 the preceding week and 66,000 in the like 1958 week.

Exports for the current season through Tuesday were estimated at 1,848,000 bales, against 3,318,000 at the same time last season.

TO VISIT AFRICA

LONDON (UPI) — Buckingham Palace announced Friday night that Queen Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, will make their previously-announced visit to West Africa from Nov. 11 to Dec. 15.

Anniversary Program For Girl Scouts

Girl Scouts of the Silver Waters Council will attend birthday programs in four Twin City schools this afternoon, marking the 47th anniversary of Girl Scouting in the United States.

More than three million Scouts and leaders are observing this week as Girl Scout week, with Thursday as the actual anniversary.

Starting at 2:30 p.m. today, area scouts and their families will gather in Georgia Tucker, Sherrouse, Plum Street and Highland schools, for birthday celebrations highlighted by presentation of money to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund.

IDEAS

"Most girls give a penny for each year of their age," Scout leaders smile, "but in many troops the girls like to think of more original ideas, such as a penny for each inch of waistline."

"Scouting and guiding can be the magic thread which links the youth of the world together," the words of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting, will be the theme of each observance. A flag ceremony, group singing, and birthday ceremony with cake and candles is planned.

Early today, area scouts will attend church in uniform, either individually or by troops.

Other events of the week include a television program at 1 p.m. today and demonstrations next Saturday at a local store.

Sunday is observed as Church day; Monday puts emphasis on homemaking; Tuesday, citizenship; Wednesday, first aid; Thursday, international friendship; Friday, arts and crafts; Saturday, out-of-doors.

Homesteaders Resume Trek To Alaska

CHICAGO (UPI) — A hardy group of latter-day homesteaders today resumed their motorized trek to Alaska after bowing to a midwestern wind and snow storm.

They parked their assorted vehicles Friday night at a toll road service area near Hinsdale, about 17 miles west of Chicago, when a blinding snowstorm and icy roads slowed their progress to a crawl.

The weather picture in Madison, Wis., their next "port of call," they learned, was even worse. Wisconsin was being battered by a storm which left up to 15 inches of snow and huge drifts across highways.

The 59ers, as they call themselves, left Detroit, Mich., early Wednesday. The caravan numbers 15 families, in a fleet of station wagons, trailers, pick-up trucks and a 1934 moving van.

Their leader, Ron Jacobowitz, admitted the 59ers were running behind schedule in their proposed trek across the northern part of the country, into Canada and onto the Alcan Highway to their goal.

He said plans called for them to reach Kenai peninsula in Alaska in three or four weeks. But bad weather and mechanical difficulties had slowed their progress.

Strike Shuts Minneapolis Food Stores

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Nearly all major food stores were closed here today because of a labor dispute.

Negotiations on a new contract for members of food handlers, clerks and butchers locals were to resume Monday.

Prior to the lockout, two AFL-CIO union locals had threatened to strike in a dispute over a wage package, seniority and grievance procedures.

"It was terrific—I've never seen anything like it," said Larry Rynchek, an overworked National Food store manager.

Throughout the city housewives lined up with overloaded pushcarts, filling the supermarket aisles from the check-out counters to the rear of the stores.

In St. Paul, where similar contract talks were in progress, an influx of Minneapolis food buyers was expected.

It was the second food store shutdown in seven months. Last summer, a lesser number of Minneapolis stores were closed in a strike-lockout involving the Teamsters Union.

Unions involved in the current dispute are Meat Cutters Local 653 and Food Handlers Local 653A.

Summer Festival New Attraction In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — New Orleans, long a tourist mecca with its famed winter Mardi Gras, now is planning a "Summer Festival." The Downtown Merchants' Promotions, Inc., and the Crescent City Concerts Association endorsed the summer attraction Friday. The New Orleans Hotel Association and the Goup Restaurant Association also have given the plan backing.

'Venus' Takes Top Spot In Records Poll

CHICAGO (UPI) — The ballad "Venus" by Frankie Avalon took over first place in the United Press International top 20 tunes Saturday night, after being on the list for only four weeks.

The first 10 were rounded out by "Children's Marching Song," "I've Had It," "Donna," and "Hawaiian Wedding Song."

BURN HOMES OF EUROPEANS

New Africa Terror Reign Is Launched

By RONALD LEGGE
United Press International

BALANTRYE, Nyasaland (UPI)—Angry Africans put the torch to the homes of European and African officials in the northern part of Nyasaland Saturday night, it was reported here.

The reports from the northern part of this British protectorate in the Central African Federation said the house burnings were the beginning of a campaign of arson and sabotage launched by the nationalistic African National Congress to back up demands of "white men, go home."

Secondary roads in the area were reported blocked by Africans.

News of the violence coincided with a special declaration of emergency in the northern districts of Karonga and Rumpi, where all persons were ordered to stop on demand and be searched by security officers or sentries.

Early Saturday reliable sources said police had uncovered details of a secret jungle meeting near Balantyre at which 150 members of the African National Congress plotted a Mau Mau-like massacre of Nyasaland's 7,500 white settlers.

There was no official government confirmation of reports that the police now have details of the meeting although Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky has charged a "massacre" was planned. Leaders of the congress refused to say whether such a meeting was held.

It was said, however, that discovery of the meeting led to the mass arrests of dozens of leaders of the African political group.

An official government communique in Zomba said 249 persons have been detained so far under emergency regulations put into effect early this week. It said 136 of these arrested had been sent out of the territory. It was not known how many of these may have been connected with the jungle meeting.

Reports of the meeting came as tension among non - African residents of Nyasaland rose for counter-action against rioting Africans. So far 39 Africans and no whites have been killed in the riots, which began four weeks ago.

British troops in Kenya, hundreds of miles north of here, were on a standby alert today. Huge transport planes stood on runways ready to load units of the King's Own Royal Regiment at the first sign of trouble, but the Nyasaland government formally turned down the British offer of help.

Spear - carrying native troops in Mnopela, Nyasaland, appeared ready today to go into pitched battle with rifles and machine-guns — another ominous development in the buildup of the "white man, get out" offensive.

About 600 tribesmen refused Friday to drop their spears, hatchets and panga knives when they met troops commanded by white officers. One African was killed when the troops opened fire to disperse the tribesmen. Three more were wounded.

Villages in the Visanza and Pasambani areas were reported deserted. In the northern province, a messenger's house in the government area at Karonga was burned Friday night. Other ominous "incidents" were reported to support fears of impending large-scale native uprisings.

Welensky charged in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, that the African National Congress planned a "massacre" of whites and even moderate Africans. Only the arrival of troops under a state of emergency he declared early this week saved Nyasaland from a "diabolic" fate, Welensky said.

According to reports of the Jan. 25 meeting, Dr. Hastings Banda, African National Congress leader, was not among the plotters and was not even present. Banda, who was arrested Saturday, was believed to have been taken to Southern Rhodesia.

Cotton Futures Conclude Week On Mixed Note

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices plodded a narrowly irregular course this week and closed mixed with small net changes.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices ranging from $1.90 a bale lower to 70 cents a bale higher than at the close of the week before.

The three nearer months and the distant July position closed in lower territory.

The nearer deliveries were firm at the start of the week on prompt stoppage of March notices, and Friday they drew considerable support from short covering and light mill price fixing. In the intervening period, they weakened on profit taking, hedge selling and switching to later months.

The new crop contracts held to a narrow range. Selling was not aggressive, and neither was demand.

The Commodity Credit Corp. reported the sale of 47,000 bales against bids opened Monday under the U.S. Government's cotton export program. Average price was 28.50 cents a bale for middling 1-inch cotton at average location.

At the previous sale two weeks earlier, 53,000 bales were disposed of at an average price of 28.41 cents and two weeks before that, the CCC sold 53,000 bales at an average price of 28.40 cents. Sales under the current phase of the program through March 2 total 2,041,000 bales.

Actual exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau at 31,000 bales vs. 71,000 the preceding week and 66,000 in the like 1958 week.

Exports for the current season through Tuesday were estimated at 1,848,000 bales, against 3,318,000 at the same time last season.

Anniversary Program For Girl Scouts

Girl Scouts of the Silver Waters Council will attend birthday programs in four Twin City schools this afternoon, marking the 47th anniversary of Girl Scouting in the United States.

More than three million Scouts and leaders are observing this week as Girl Scout week, with Thursday as the actual anniversary.

Starting at 2:30 p.m. today, area scouts and their families will gather in Georgia Tucker, Sherrouse, Plum Street and Highland schools, for birthday celebrations highlighted by presentation of money to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund.

IDEAS

"Most girls give a penny for each year of their age," Scout leaders smile, "but in many troops the girls like to think of more original ideas, such as a penny for each inch of waistline."

"Scouting and guiding can be the magic thread which links the youth of the world together," the words of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting, will be the theme of each observance. A flag ceremony, group singing, and birthday ceremony with cake and candles is planned.

Early today, area scouts will attend church in uniform, either individually or by troops.

Other events of the week include a television program at 1 p.m. today and demonstrations next Saturday at a local store.

Sunday is observed as Church day; Monday puts emphasis on homemaking; Tuesday, citizenship; Wednesday, first aid; Thursday, international friendship; Friday, arts and crafts; Saturday, out-of-doors.

Homesteaders Resume Trek To Alaska

CHICAGO (UPI) — A hardy group of latter-day homesteaders today resumed their motorized trek to Alaska after bowing to a midwestern wind and snow storm.

They parked their assorted vehicles Friday night at a toll road service area near Hinsdale, about 17 miles west of Chicago, when a blinding snowstorm and icy roads slowed their progress to a crawl.

The weather picture in Madison, Wis., their next "port of call," they learned, was even worse. Wisconsin was being battered by a storm which left up to 15 inches of snow and huge drifts across highways.

The 59ers, as they call themselves, left Detroit, Mich., early Wednesday. The caravan numbers 15 families, in a fleet of station wagons, trailers, pick-up trucks and a 1934 moving van.

Their leader, Ron Jacobowitz, admitted the 59ers were running behind schedule in their proposed trek across the northern part of the country, into Canada and onto the Alcan Highway to their goal.

He said plans called for them to reach Kenai peninsula in Alaska in three or four weeks. But bad weather and mechanical difficulties had slowed their progress.

Strike Shuts Minneapolis Food Stores

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Nearly all major food stores were closed here today because of a labor dispute.

Negotiations on a new contract for members of food handlers, clerks and butchers locals were to resume Monday.

Prior to the lockout, two AFL-CIO union locals had threatened to strike in a dispute over a wage package, seniority and grievance procedures.

"It was terrific—I've never seen anything like it," said Larry Rynchek, an overworked National Food store manager.

Throughout the city housewives lined up with overloaded push-carts, filling the supermarket aisles from the check-out counters to the rear of the stores.

In St. Paul, where similar contract talks were in progress, an influx of Minneapolis food buyers was expected.

It was the second food store shutdown in seven months. Last summer, a lesser number of Minneapolis stores were closed in a strike-lockout involving the Teamsters Union.

Unions involved in the current dispute are Meat Cutters Local 653 and Food Handlers Local 653A.

Summer Festival New Attraction In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — New Orleans, long a tourist mecca with its famed winter Mardi Gras, now is planning a "Summer Festival." The Downtown Merchants' Promotions, Inc., and the Crescent City Concerts Association endorsed the summer attraction Friday. The New Orleans Hotel Association and the Goup Restaurant Association also have given the plan backing.

ODDS STACKED AGAINST ALLIES

Blockade Of West Berlin Would Pose Big Problem

BERLIN (AP) — If the Soviets blockade West Berlin, the fighting odds would be stacked against any Western military effort to pry open the lifelines to this isolated city.

Geography and the military balance favor the Communists.

U.S. military leaders say the West could break through a blockade of West Berlin. But it has not been explained how this would be feasible if the Soviets counter with their larger forces.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has warned that Soviet forces will oppose any air or ground sortie into East Germany towards Berlin.

With both East and West obviously leary of war, this tough military talk on both sides over Berlin may be just high powered bidding leading up to a deal at the conference table.

What is feared most here is a miscalculation or an accident involving a fateful collision between Western and Soviet troops.

The Soviets hesitate to crash through the West Berlin window because it could trigger World Warl II. H-bombs might fall on the world—including the U.S.S.R.

But if a blockade did spark a shooting war with the Soviets the 2,200,000 West Berliners and the American-British-French garrison of some 10,000 troops would have little chance of escape. They would be swamped in a Red sea.

To understand why, glance at West Berlin's strategic position.

This outpost lies 110 miles deep in Communist East Germany. It is situated in the heart of the biggest concentration of Red army forces in Europe, more than 400,000 ground troops, plus tactical air units.

The Soviets have had 13 years to transform East Germany into a powerful, and possibly impregnable, military base area. Every key position within West Berlin has been surveyed in by Soviet artillerymen and could be blasted quickly by encircling Red guns.

West Berlin must look for support to some 300,000 Western air and ground troops in West Germany, arrayed for the defense of Western Europe.

The city is linked tenuously to West Germany by a single track rail line and a highway, both under Soviet control.

Logistically, it would be much easier today for the Western Allies to supply West Berlin by air than it was 10 years ago. The United States, especially, has big transports that would require far fewer flights into the city.

Additionally, West Berlin has food and fuel stockpiles sufficient for at least six months.

The big gimmick in the way of an airlift this time is the changed attitude of the Soviets. They say they won't tolerate another air bridge — and that presumably means they would interfere by means of radar jammers and possibly with fighter planes.

All flights in and out of West Berlin are controlled by a four-power air safety center. During the 1948-49 blockade, the Soviet member remained inexplicably in the safety center and cleared the airlift planes through.

The Soviets this time presumably will withdraw from the safety enter when they hand over their Berlin controls to the East Germans.

If the Soviets are determined to halt this kind of an operation into East Germany, a massive Western ground operation would be called for. Allied Troops would be compelled to advance into the heart of the Soviet base area on an extremely narrow front with flanks exposed to attack from numerically superior forces.

To block the highway, the Soviets could blow up the scores of culverts on the 110-mile link and the big bridge over the Elbe River.

Leak In Capitol Roof Is Latest Michigan Woe

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — A leaky roof is the latest woe at tht state capitol where a treadbare rug in the governor's office and a tattered flag have been subjects of debate in Michigan's cash crisis.

A bucket was placed in the east gallery of the Senate chamber Friday to catch water dripping through a crack in the Capitol roof.

The leak was about 150 feet from the Capitol dome where a tattered American flag has been jammed atop a flag pole for nearly three weeks, day and night, because of a broken pulley.

"Now I suppose there will be some cracks about the Capitol coming apart at the seams," Pickett said.

The Western powers already were mulling over the U.S. draft of a joint reply to the latest Soviet proposals on Berlin and Germany.

"I am convinced," Khrushchev said, "that the people of Germany and people throughout the world who want peace will understand this (plan for Berlin) and will judge out proposals accordingly."

In his speech earlier to an "All German Workers' Conference" at Leipzig, he had warned that the Soviet bloc would use a policy of strength in dealing with the West. He said Communism would sooner or later rule the world and that "an accident" could cause a war in Germany, where both East and West maintain large armed forces.

"We recognize the right of using strength in dealing with the imperialists," he said. "When you talk to the imperialists you need only morals but you must be supported by strength."

"If a new war starts, even if it starts as a small war, it will end in the destruction of capitalism," Khrushchev said.

But he said, repeating a statement made Friday, that war is not a foregone conclusion.

"War is no longer inevitable. This is so not because the imperialists have become better but because they have become weaker. The forces of peace are stronger than ever before," he said.

He served notice that he never would agree to the reunification of Germany under any plan that would end Communist control of East Germany.

"We were not born to strengthen capitalism," he said. "We live in the epic of revolution."

He charged that the Western powers refused to agree to an all-German peace treaty as Russia has proposed because they want to continue the cold war. He also charged that the West deliberately held back in World War II to prolong the conflict.

"The imperialists wished to win two victories in the war," he said. "They wanted to kill two flies with one swatter"—Nazi Germany and Russia.

He insisted that the West had nothing to fear from the Soviet plan to turn West Berlin into a "demilitarized free city."

"What will happen in Berlin?" he asked.

"Nothing will happen. If they want to continue with capitalism that is fine with us. Under the free city they can have the social order they wish.

"Every dog will have his day."

He vowed that no one would "liquidate" the East German republic, which the West does not recognize. But he said the overall problem of Germany must be solved "because it is a cardinal question in solving the problem of peace and war."

fitted tightly around their necks.

Martin F. Feeney, 43, of Boston, seven-time escapee, was the ringleader of the rebels who bargained for their freedom right up to the time of the police assault.

"I don't care if we all get killed, we're doing long terms and I don't care if we all go outta here in a basket," Feeney said in a telephone call to state correction commissioner George F. Mc Grath.

While Feeney was talking, troopers barged in.

Warden Gavin, Father Hartigan and the two deputy wardens had entered the building separately or in pairs to try to talk the convicts out of their mutiny. All were immediately bound and used as hostages in the vain attempt to bargain.

Deputy warden Thomas C. Scafati and Father Hartigan walked in together on Feeney's invitation and promise that no harm would come to them.

"What the hell kind of a promise is this?' Scafati said after he and the priest were tossed to the floor. "You don't keep your word."

Feeney laughed and shouted: "What are you worrying about? You're not hurt, yet.'

Feeney told Scafati all the hostages would be slain unless the prison gate was opened for them. Father Hartigan was pinned against a wall with a knife at his throat.

The 2½ hour rebeliion started at mid-morning by the convict ring leaped aboard a milk truck driven by William P. Kelley and carrying guards Ralph White and John Gookin.

The vehicle was then driven through a wire gate and against the outer brick wall.

The prisoners hoisted a six-foot ladder atop the truck and, using White as a shield, began to mount the ladder to freedom.

Halfway up the ladder White jerked and sent it slamming to the ground. He jumped and fled.

Kelly also fled, but Gookin was dragged into the shed where Feeney's band overwhelmed guard Charles Murphy and storekeeper Leo Dupre.

with Eisenhower. Advance information indicates he will press Eisenhower to define more precisely than heretofore the position in Berlin from which the President has said "we won't budge an inch."

Macmillan reportedly thinks there may be some room for negotiation on the Berlin issue separate from other German questions, if the West decides precisely what it must preserve there.

He also reportedly wants Eisenhower to consider the possibility of disengaging Western and Soviet forces in the heart of Europe by pullbacks on both sides of the Iron Curtain in advance of German reunification. He also is said to believe there may be an approach to ultimate merger of the two Germanies by some kind of Western-designed confederation.

The Western powers proposed Feb. 16 that the Soviet Union agree to a Big Four foreign ministers conference on all aspects of the German problem. Last Monday, the Soviet government sent a reply calling for a summit conference but agreeing conditionally to a foreign ministers meeting.

Deadwood Finds Gold A-Plenty

DEADWOOD, S. D. — (UPI) — A small shop on the main street of Deadwood, virtually in the shadow of America's only surviving large gold mine, has become the center for the manufacture of a unique form of jewelry — featuring gold, naturally.

The Black Hills Gold Jewelry business, founded in 1878, now turns out more than 100,000 items a year that are sold throughout the country.

Manager Charles Waters of the firm (Thorpe Jewelry Co.) feels that the unique finish imparted on gold items by his 16 employees—and those of a similar establishment in nearby Rapid City — can never be copied.

"The mass production jewelers in the East are trying it, but they just can't match our 'frosty' effect that gives Black Hills jewelry its characteristic appearance," Waters said.

When the gold rush to the Black Hills broke after the Civil War—it was here the expression "There's gold in them thar hills" originated — Deadwood became a hustling, bustling mining camp.

It was just across the street from the jewelry shop that Jack McCall shot Wild Bill Hickok in the back, Calamity Jane looking on, as Hickok sat with his hand of aces and eights.

The founder of the establishment, S. T. Butler, his son, George, and his grandson, F. L. Thrope, got the pattern going and passed the secrets of the process on down to the next generation, represented by Thorpe's daughter, Mrs. Waters.

The basic design features grape clusters and leaves of red, green and yellow gold. The current line uses these designs in modern form — with the newly-popular "bolo tie" becoming the best seller for men. Most popular item for women remains ear rings.

The gold is mined at the Homestake Mine, high on the hill in Deadwood's twin city of Lead. Because of government regulations, the mine has to sell its gold to the mint in Denver and Waters in turn has to buy it back through a broker.

The natural gold is 24 karat—pure. But for strength and color, it has to be fashioned in alloy form. The alloys are made in an electric furnace right in the shop — with "beans" of silver added to form green gold, copper for red gold and a combination of copper and silver for yellow gold.

The jewelry is cast from a pattern made into wax, with the wax eventually meted out in a silica cast and replaced in a centrifuge by the gold.

The staff of craftsmen, mostly women, take the rough casts and through an intricate and careful process of polishing and buffing come up with the delicate jewelry.

The "frosty" effect that is the mark of the Black Hills product is obtained on an engraving machine, whose rapidly moving needle digs into the surface in a precisely controlled manner.

ritz said. He declared that the problem must be attacked at the local level involving institutions of higher learning and schools that direct students to them.

"There is absolutely nothing we can accomplish at the national level except as it is first accomplished at the local level," the speaker said.

Dr. Gerritz pointed to fundamental differences in colleges. These diversities include enrollments ranging from 100 students to 30,000; from junior colleges to great universities; in student body from coed to all-male or all-female; from a very select group to a mediocre group, ability-wise; in programs leading to the ministry or medicine to programs for police officers and technicians.

Colleges also vary in support and endowment, control, objectives and philosophies, he said.

"We are alike in that we seek to provide an education to enable the individual to make the greatest contribution to himself and the world," Gerritz explained.

PLAGUED

Problems show that colleges are plagued with inflation and the inroads it makes on endowment funds, needs for expansion of educational services, and increasing enrollments, the speaker pointed out.

"It is practically impossible to develop at the national level a high school or college relations program which is compatible with the diversification of the many institutions of higher learning."

Gerritz suggested the following means of improving coordination:

1. The college should define its mission and delineate carefully the clientele it expects to serve.

2. The college should conduct research to ascertain the kinds of abilities and measures of potential which are associated with or requisite to success.

Dr. Gerritz explained that it is not enough that the college know this. High schools which prepare students for colleges should also know.

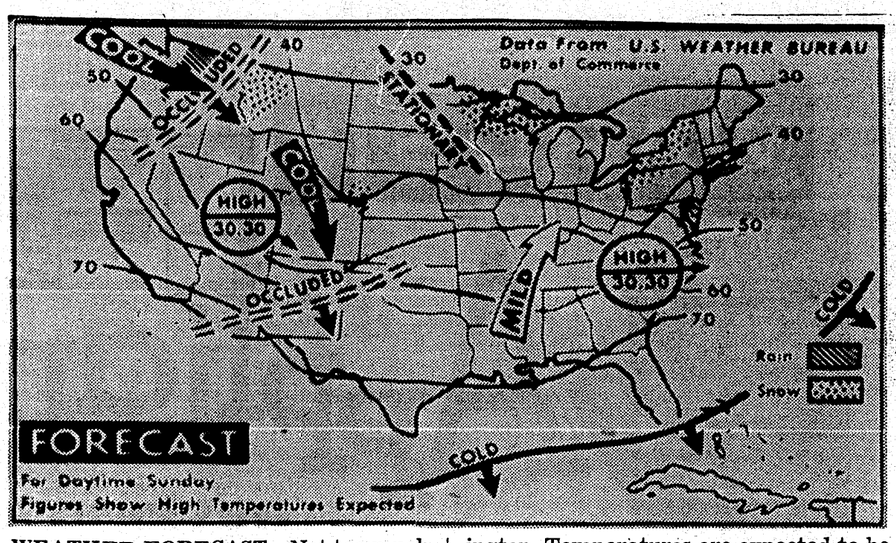
"The college needs to report back to the high school on success and failure of students from that school," the speaker said." We need to establish programs of study to meet the needs of students we attract. Probably the greatest challenge to education today is the provision of post high school non-collegiate work."

Colleges also should establish differentiated study programs for the superior student, Gerritz said. Preparation for increased enrollments means that the college should experiment to do a better job of teaching with less money and less time.

If colleges support high schools, these schools can improve relationships with institutions of higher learning. Then colleges can expect better guidance, using the information which they have supplied; better preparation — as colleges will provide better prepared teachers: better guidance toward or away from college early enough in the student's experience so that he and his parents are prepared to make a wise move following his graduation from high school.

"Subject matter articulation seems to hold the best promise for improving relationship between high schools and colleges," the speaker said.

For improved communication, Gerritz suggested that colleges arrange principal-counselor freshman conferences on the campus. In these meetings students tell their former teachers and principals of problems they faced in moving from high school to college. Then both schools can attempt to alleviate the cause of these problems for those who follow.



WEATHER FORECAST—Not too much precipitation is expected in nation Sunday. Scattered snow flurries are likely in parts of North Dakota and Great Lakes. Rain may fall in western Nebraska. Mixture of rain and snow is slated in parts of Montana, Idaho and Washington. Temperatures are expected to be milder from Mississippi Valley eastward, except for continued cold in New England. Colder readings are predicted for many Rocky Mountain states. Little temperature change is anticipated elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Illinois Central Railroad has installed the first high-speed teleprinter in the railroad industry.

The machine which is capable of transmitting 600 words a minute compared with the usual 60 and 100 word-per-minute teleprinters, will expedite classification of more than 50,000 on-line freight cars record daily, the railroad said.

Snow Storm Death Count Climbs To 46

and Oklahoma and Minnesota one each.

Strong winds and freezing temperatures hindered snow removal operations over the Midwest, where the storm leveled its heaviest punch on Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and upper Michigan.

Road crews battled mountainous drifts in Northeast Iowa in attempts to free many communities. But blustery winds drifted the snow back onto roads almost as fast as it was removed, and a sub-zero cold wave which followed on the heels of the storm froze the snow surface almost rock hard.

But weathermen indicated warmer temperatures, plus sunshine, would give road crews an assist Sunday.

There was no indication that any of the snow-bound communities around Oelwein, Iowa, were in serious trouble except for minor shortages.

At Fayette, Iowa, where 20 inches of snow fell, the wife of Mayor R. E. Cousins said some families were running out of bread and milk. "But we're not bad off," she said. 'There have been no power, heating or telephone service failures in the area.

Cousins himself bucked deep drifts in an attempt to reach Oelwein to get spare parts for the community's snowplow which broke down Thursday night.

Only one route in the area—U.S. 18 from Charles City to Decorah—was open for travel, but virtually no traffic was moving. Other roads were closed, blocked by drifting snow, or open to only one-way traffic. All highways were snow-packed, slippery and hazardous.

In other storm-swept states, hundreds of truckers, motorists and school children stranded in motels, farm houses and schools began the task of freeing stalled vehicles to return to their homes.

But at least one classroom of 12 children still was reported marooned at a farmhouse 12 miles west of Viroqua, Wis., where drifts were as high as roof tops. The children were reported out of food.

The Wisconsin storm also forced scores of persons to fight their way through deep snows and drifts to hospitals with patients for emergency operations or births. At least three babies were born under makeshift conditions or after anxious battles with snow drifts.

In upper Michigan, where heavy snows are fairly commonplace, the clean-up swung into a full-scale operation Saturday. But 45-mile-per-hour winds handicapped road crews, and whipped dirfts as deep as four feet or more across highways.

Temperatures over Wisconsin, upper Michigan and Minnesota fell early Saturday as low as 10 degrees below zero at Lone Rock, Wis.

Among the many storm deaths was a fisherman — Raymond Boehn, 30, Suttons Bay, Mich.—who froze to death while fishing on Grand Traverse Bay. Another man fishing with Boehn was recovering from exposure in a hospital.

In Wisconsin, a mother and two sons died in a fire at La Crosse and at first were counted as weather victims because it was believed snow had delayed the arrival of fire equipment. It was found later, however, that the delay was due to the distance of a fire hydrant from the home.

Two persons also died near Menominee in Michigan's upper peninsula of carbon monoxide poisoning after their car ran off a highway into a snowbank.

to pick out the most deserving prisoners."

"These shares were worth some $40,000 dollars. They should make about $5,000 worth of dividends for each one of the eight new shareholders," he said.

"I decided to give the money to prisoners two years ago when I felt that I was soon going to die,' he said.

"There is nothing worse than to lose one's liberty and before dying I wanted to do something for people who have lost their freedom of action," he said.

Warren said he gave up his practice in New York 10 years ago after suffering a coronary thrombosis. He travelled for pleasure until settling here four years ago.

He said he has children in the United States but would rather give the money to prisoners.

"I know the prison officials will take good care of the shares and they will not fall into the hands of speculators," he said.

Babe Ruth's Still An Idol For Millions

reer for which the word "fabulous" was minted. On a cabinet there is a small wooden totem pole given him by a fan. The totem pole used to stand on Ruth's locker at Yankee Stadium and he rubbed it for luck before every game.

In the breakfast room, surrounded by other pictures and testimonials, hangs an original cartoon memorializing Ruth's 700th home run. No one has ever come close to matching his lifetime record of 714 homers. No one is likely to.

Looking at the cartoon, Mrs. Ruth recalls:

"You know, I always felt the Babe belonged to the public. Five or six months after he died, we shipped two vanloads of his things —his trophies, his bats, his last uniform—up to the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N. Y.

"The day they were packing the stuff, my cousin Johnny Mize came up with his wife. He looked at that cartoon and he said they'd have to get it out of the apartment over his dead body. Then Johnny hid the picture under the bed. Johnny, you remember, was a slugger, too, but he got only about 359 homers in his career."

A YANKEE FAN

Mrs. Ruth, a still comely, brown-haired woman who was a model and an actress before she married, visits regularly with her two married daughters and five grandchildren. She has one grandson, Tommy Stevens, 6, of Salem, Conn. Would she object if Tommy Stevens wanted to make a career out of baseball?

"Oh, no," says the boy's grandmother. "It's a good life for a boy. But he would have some big footsteps to follow, wouldn't he?"

Mrs. Ruth still works actively for the Babe Ruth league, a little league for youngsters operating throughout the country and parts of Canada. She still sees about 25 Yankee home games a season in a box the club provides the widow of its greatest player. She never misses an Old Timers game and along with Mrs. Lou Gehrig is always called upon for a bow.

Now and then during a game, although the action might be elsewhere, Mrs. Ruth finds her eyes wandering out to right field, where old Number Three used to perform on pigeon-toed, spindly legs.

"I find myself looking out there," Mrs. Ruth says, "but I don't dwell on it. Time does fly, doesn't it?"

$150 fines to two men and three women. Five women received $100 fines.

Bickett issued the injunction Feb. 14 when a truck driver was roughed up by strikers while attempting to make a delivery at the mills, where pickets had patrolled since a strike of 1,200 workers last Nov. 17. The walkout followed a breakdown in negotiations over a new contract. Bone of contention is an arbitration clause demanded by the union and opposed by management.

The mills reopened their gates and invited workers to return Feb. 16, touching off inermittent violence on the picket lines, stemming largely from rock throwing. The State Highway Patrol rushed 140 men to this area to help maintain order.

Federal and state mediators hoped to arrange another meeting between management and union officials over the weekend, but mill President John D. Cooper expressed doubt that one would be held before a scheduled joint meeting at 2 p.m. Monday.

Smothers made Dees and Easley his captives and later also made hostages of a Birmingham couple, Mr. and Mrs. Noel T. Keith, for a flight toward Chattanooga, Tenn., in Keith's family car.

Smothers released all the hostages unharmed at Flat Rock, Ala., early Friday and a short time later abandoned the car near South Pittsburg, Tenn.

He said he hid in woods while officers searched for him with hounds and a helicopter. He spent Friday night walking along a railroad track which led into Georga.

Blevins said he and Hutchings received a tip from a resident in the area that a man fitting Smothers' description was walking on the road leading from the railroad track.

The sheriff refused to reveal the informant's name for fear of possible reprisals from Smothers' relatives, several of whom live in the area.

She has one grandson, Tommy Stevens, 6, of Salem, Conn. Would she object if Tommy Stevens wanted to make a career out of baseball?

"Oh, no," says the boy's grandmother. "It's a good life for a boy. But he would have some big footsteps to follow, wouldn't he?"

Mrs. Ruth still works actively for the Babe Ruth league, a little league for youngsters operating throughout the country and parts of Canada. She still sees about 25 Yankee home games a season in a box the club provides the widow of its greatest player. She never misses an Old Timers game and along with Mrs. Lou Gehrig is always called upon for a bow.

Now and then during a game, although the action might be elsewhere, Mrs. Ruth finds her eyes wandering out to right field, where old Number Three used to perform on pigeon-toed, spindly legs.

"I find myself looking out there," Mrs. Ruth says, "but I don't dwell on it. Time does fly, doesn't it?"

9 Strikers Are Jailed By Jurist

$150 fines to two men and three women. Five women received $100 fines.

Bickett issued the injunction Feb. 14 when a truck driver was roughed up by strikers while attempting to make a delivery at the mills, where pickets had patrolled since a strike of 1,200 workers last Nov. 17. The walkout followed a breakdown in negotiations over a new contract. Bone of contention is an arbitration clause demanded by the union and opposed by management.

The mills reopened their gates and invited workers to return Feb. 16, touching off inermittent violence on the picket lines, stemming largely from rock throwing. The State Highway Patrol rushed 140 men to this area to help maintain order.

Federal and state mediators hoped to arrange another meeting between management and union officials over the weekend, but mill President John D. Cooper expressed doubt that one would be held before a scheduled joint meeting at 2 p.m. Monday.

Flashes Gun On Officers, Is Wounded

Smothers made Dees and Easley his captives and later also made hostages of a Birmingham couple, Mr. and Mrs. Noel T. Keith, for a flight toward Chattanooga, Tenn., in Keith's family car.

Smothers released all the hostages unharmed at Flat Rock, Ala., early Friday and a short time later abandoned the car near South Pittsburg, Tenn.

He said he hid in woods while officers searched for him with hounds and a helicopter. He spent Friday night walking along a railroad track which led into Georga.

Blevins said he and Hutchings received a tip from a resident in the area that a man fitting Smothers' description was walking on the road leading from the railroad track.

The sheriff refused to reveal the informant's name for fear of possible reprisals from Smothers' relatives, several of whom live in the area.

HUGE INCREASE NOTED

Business Growth Faster In South

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Sumter Marks Jr., president of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce, said Friday figures show the economic development of the South is growing faster than the national average.

Huge increases have been noted in industrial construction, electrical power production, the value of manufacturing and mining output and individual income, Marks told the opening session of the Southern Conference of the Controllers Institute of America.

Since 1950, the influx of new plants in the South has averaged two a day, he said.

Business volume has grown from about 64 billion dollars in 1947 to about 134 billion in 1957, a boost of 108 per cent compared to a 75 hike in the national average, Marks said.

Electrical power production in the South jumped 207 per cent, the value of manufacturing output increased 118 per cent, and the value of mining output rose 168 per cent in the same period, he added.

The increase of individual income was from about 20 billion dollars to more than 34 billion during the period, an increase of 72 per cent compared with only 133 per cent national average, Marks said.

Alexander Purdon, executive director of the Committee of American Steamship Lines, Washington, D. C., said maintenance of a strong steamship conference system is vital to all American business engaged in foreign trade.

Purdon told the institute that stability of ocean shipping rates and equity of treatment between shippers were increasingly essential to American companies in meeting mounting competition for foreign trade markets.

Henry Engler Jr., business administration college dean at Loyola University in New Orleans, told the institute there is no possibility of "brainwashing" through subliminal communication.

"Our research conclusively proves that the mind is actively monitoring and evaluating subliminal information and responds to it in terms of the individual's likes and dislikes, even though the person is unable to report seeing the material presented," he said.

Each person is his own censor and his safeguards against brainwashing through such communication are built in, he added.

The subliminal process, Engler said, could be used effectively for learning new responses and in the area of psychopathology and mental illness.

Trees Planted On Campus At La. Tech

RUSTON (Special — Beautification of the Louisiana Tech campus is being accomplished by the planting of approximately 300 shade trees and ornamental shrubs this spring.

The widespread operation is credited to the combined efforts of the faculty campus beautification committee, the buildings and grounds department, and the forestry department at Tech, with President R. L. Ropp assisting.

Among the sites that are being concentrated on are the area south of Keeny Hall, the square between Adams, Dudley and Pearce dormitory, and the area adjacent to Highway 80 south of Pearce dormitory, and the area south of Jenkins and McFarland dormitories.

Some of the trees and shrubs being used were obtained from the Tech nursery, according to John Kuprionis, chairman of the beautification committee and an associate professor of forestry.

Kuprionis stated that if any of the fraternities or sororities wish to improve their headquarters, there may be some trees and shrubs available at the Tech forestry nursery. Also, Mr. Kuprionis has offered his services in planning the landscaping for these areas free of charge.

"It is the duty of every student to aid us in this beautification program," Mr. Kuprionis stated. "Students can co-operate by not abusing the trees or shrubs and by walking on the sidewalks.'

Some of the most widely used of the 24 types of trees and shrubs planted are the live oak, southern magnolia, holly buffordy, andora juniper, Italian cypress and Irish juniper.

In almost every no trump contract declarer is faced with the problem of which suit to attack in the hope of developing a sufficient number of tricks to fulfill his contract.

In today's hand declarer had the opportunity to try one suit, and in case of failure still retain a further chance by resort to another suit. It was important, however, to adopt the proper sequence.

West elected to lead the two of hearts. East followed with the king and South saw no point in holding up. He was faced with the problem of whether to attack spades or diamonds. Since the spades had more body, he entered the dummy with a diamond and finessed the jack. This lost, and three heart tricks were cashed. When the spades failed to break, declarer was unable to develop his ninth trick. "Tough luck, partner," he was heard to say. "I had two chances, either the spade finesse or the spade break. Both went wrong." This complaint against fate was not fully justified. There was another chance open to him which he had not tried.

There is a good chance that the diamonds will break 3-2. A diamond should, therefore, be conceded at once, and the enemy will cash three heart tricks. Now if the diamonds fail to break, the declarer may fall back on the spade suit as an additional chance.

The objection may be raised that the opening lead of the deuce of hearts may be a false one and that West may have a five card suit. The way to check up on this is to pass the first trick and notice which heart East returns. If it is a low one, you are entitled to assume that East is returning from four and that the opening lead was, therefore, honest.

Spring is upon us, with Monroe yards fast approaching their seasonal peak. This is the time for even veteran stay-at-homes to get out and ride about admiring the flowering trees, bulbs, camellias, azaleas. . . and always, the new homes.

In line with our policy of keeping you posted on new houses in the Twin Cities, today we will talk about two newly remodeled homes. The families were fond of their locations, but felt the need of more space, so moved out and turned the old places over to the builders. In both cases, all walls were moved out and a couple of completely new rooms added.

The BREWER GODFREY white - painted brick home on Pargoud boulevard has an early American air with its brick floored porch finished with white columns. The entrance is painted a pale green, with darker green velvet used to upholster the rosewood love seat. A gold framed pier mirror is the focal point of the hall . . . Also a cool green is the living room, with its marble fireplace. The silk draperies are printed with a darker green against a pale green background . . . Green is also used in the dining room, where one wall is papered with a colonial river bank scene in shades of pink, green and gray. A mahogany hunt breakfast buffet with marble top and back is placed against one wall.

Through the dining room, one steps down into the family room, which is part of the new addition. Earthy colors of beige and brown with accents of bright orange are used in this room with its terrazzo floor and gum panelling. Heavy textured unlined draperies cover the glass wall which looks out on the brick porch and columns, repeated here on the back of the house. Old prints matted on burlap and an antique German stein are interesting accents in this room.

The family room opens into the master bedroom, which is a restful pale green. A scenic print of green and pink is used to cover the tester and for the bedspread. The material is repeated in the curtains in the dressing room and in the green tiled bath . . . The guest room is pink; walls, draperies, carpet, bath. Pink, blue, and green printed material is used for the coverlets and the cornice boards. Czechoslovakian crystal sconces are used over the twin beds and on each side of the antique dressing table . . . Son JIMMY's room is in shades of brown and gold against fir panelled walls. The bed is of French brass. In the bay window at the end of the room are a pair of brown leather chairs, on each side of a round marble top table.

The CLAUDE GILLILAND home on Marie Place has been completely re - designed, with space inside shifted from room to room, and a large amount of entirely new square footage added. Brick of a lovely frosted pink shade was used on the house and walk of the brick curves to a most interesting front door. In the entrance hall, the walls are covered with a patterned paper in shades of beige and soft greens above a beige wainscoting. The color is repeated in the living room to the left, where champagne beige is used in walls, carpet, and sheer silk draperies.

Behind the entrance hall is the family room, which is panelled in red gum and floored with terrazzo vinyl. The back wall of the room is made of the frosted pink brick of the exterior. A fireplace in the brick wall is raised slightly above the floor. Beige draperies draw across the two glass panels which overlook the dining patio behind the house..... A china cabinet built into the gum paneling and finished like furniture is an important feature of the dining area of the room. The pecan table and chairs blend perfectly . . .. Behind the folding doors of gum is the kitchen, which is decorated in shades of beige and brown. A vivid print of orange and beige is used in the curtains. Beautiful colors are used in the bedroom wing. In the guest room, blues, greys, and white pick up the colors from the printed draperies ..... In the master bedroom, scenic paper is used behind the oversize bed. A representation of trailing wisteria blossoms in blues and greens, the paper sets the color theme of the room ..... Daughter NANCY's room is a young girl's dream in pink. Walls and bed coverlet are pink, with draperies and dust ruffle of blue and lavender floral print on a print ground. The bath is tiled in solid and printed pink cerra tile, with faucets marked with an "N." Pink roses are on all the doorknobs. At the other erd of the room is a built-in desk with a pink telephone. The walk-in closet has six feet of hanging space on each side, and a peg board filling the end wall.

Members of the Potpourri Book club entertained their husbands at their annual supper party Friday night. The affair was held in the home of the NELSON ABELLS, JR., which was decorated with spring flowers. A standing arrangement of white pear blossoms with jonquils and forsythia was placed before the brick wall near the fireplace. . .On the buffet in the dining room were tall magnolia branches and vari-colored paper fruit in an oversize raffia wrapped wine jug. Individual tables were centered with candles and camellia blossoms. Shrimp, cheese, green salad, and miniature French loaves comprised the meal served to twenty-eight diners.

Young MICHAEL EASTERLING, son of the JACK EASTERLINGS, is to be christened this morning. His maternal grandparents, the W. E. BROGANS of Pass Christian, Mississippi, are in town for the occasion. Godfather for his young cousin will be JOE BRAUN of New Orleans, who with his mother, MARTHA BROGAN BRAUN, has been the guest of the GEORGE SNELLINGS, JR., for the weekend.

The place to see and be seen this week was the Little Theatre, where "The Pajama Game" is playing to packed houses and standing ovations. This production is drawing its audience from over a wide area. A number of Shreveporters, friends of choreographer NAT SANTORO, were here on opening night. . .At last night's performance were MARTHA LOU and JOHNNY SMITH and their daughter JUDY from Orange, Texas, and the HUNT DUNNAWAYS of Dallas. . .Later this week the EDGAR BROWNS, the CARLTON TRIMBLES, and the BARNEY MORRISES will arrive from Orange, and the LESLIE COLEMANS from Houston. They are coming to see SLADE BROWN in the play, and will be guests in the Brown home. . .Little Theatre regulars who were noted at one or another of this week's performances included MARY FLOURNOY. . .CARRIE DEE DREW. . .MARION SIMMONS. . . LALLAGE FEAZEL, wearing a blue figured late-day silk. . .the L. H. CARTERS. . .TIL WRIGHT. FRANCES M'HENRY. . .the ERNEST STRAUSS (she in a gaily flowered spring bonnet). . . LILY HARRINGTON, . . . MARY and SIDNEY GILL. . .HELEN ABELL . . . ETHEL BOARDMAN . . . LESSIE and DAVID GARRETT SR. . . . the O. C. RODDEYS . . . "The Pajama Game" will run through this coming Friday night.

Here for the weekend was CAROLYN PETERS, who is visiting her parents, the LOUIS PETERS. Also a guest in the Peters home is GEORGE BAUS of New Orleans.

Today's poem is by Conrad Aiken:

Music I heard with you was more than music,
And bread I broke with you was more than bread;
Now that I am without you, all is desolate;
All that was once so beautiful is dead.
These things do not remember you, beloved—
And yet your touch upon them will not pass.
For it was in my heart you moved among them,
And blessed them with your hands and with your eyes;
And in my heart they will remember always—
They knew you once, O beautiful and wise.

MR. AND MRS. ARNOLD MANN And MR. AND MRS. BENNIE WASHAM

Two Young Couples Say Vows In Double Wedding

In a pink and white bridal setting Miss Barbara Eppinette and Arnold Mann and Miss Geneva Williams and Bennie Washam repeated their wedding vows.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Eppinette, 808 South 6th Street was the scene of the wedding at which the Reverend Lea Joyner officiated at the double ring and double wedding ceremony.

Miss Eppinette is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Eppinette and Mr. Mann is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mann of West Monroe.

Miss Williams is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Williams of Winnsboro. Mr. Washam is the son of Mr. H. B. Washam of Hebert, and the late Mrs. Washam.

Baskets of pink gladioli mingled with pink delight roses were lighted by the glow from an arch of white standards holding white tapers where the couples stood for the candlelight ceremony. Miss Sharon Wilbanks rendered a program of nupital music with "Because" "O Promise Me," and "Lohengrin Wedding March."

The brides wore identical gowns in waltz length Chantilly lace over taffeta with molded bodice and full skirts. The necklines were scalloped in lace. Fingertip veils of illusion fell from crowns of seed pearls. The only ornaments they wore were pearl necklaces. Each carried a crescent shape bouquet of French carnations centered with a white orchid interspersed with white satin leaves and cascading satin ribbons.

Mr. Eppinette escorted his daughter to the altar and returned for Miss Williams, whom he also gave in marriage. The grooms waited at the altar.

Little Susan Haley served as the flower girl. She wore a pink nylon with full skirt and trimmed with white lace. Her gloves and slippers were white. She carried a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses and pink feathered carnations tied with white satin ribbons. The ring bearer was Keith Haley.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Eppinette were hosts at a reception in their home. Mrs. Eppinette wore an ice blue lace dress with shoes to match. Her corsage was a white glamellia. Mrs. Mann wore a mauve dress with black accessories. She too, wore a glamellia corsage.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth. The centerpiece was an arrangement of pink roses in a white milk glass container and flanked by white candles. A reflector held the double wedding cake decorated in pink roses and placed on one end of the table. At the opposite end punch, tinted in pale pink to harmonize with the wedding confection, was served the guests.

KITCHEN BRIGHTENER

Would you like your kitchen to be different? A solid color oil cloth that harmonizes well with the things in your kitchen may be made into scalloped window valances. They must be hemmed across the top where the curtain rods go through. Shades of a contrasting hue are very interesting.

Say you have a pink, gray and white kitchen, make the valances of the pink oil cloth and the shades of gray or vice - versa. If your kitchen is a red and white one, make black valances and red shades, being sure that the red is the exact shade that you already have in your room.

The best part of all about these kitchen accessories is that they are so easily cleaned with a damp cloth.

HAMBURGER PUTS ON DOG

Hamburgers with a hot dog look make 1½ pounds ground beef go a long way. Combine beef with ¾ cup uncooked rolled oats, quick or old-fashioned, ¼ cup chopped onion, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and 1 cup tomato juice. Shape into 8 fingers, 1½ by 5 inches, and place on broiler rack 4 or 5 inches from heat source. Broil 8 minutes, turn and broil 5 minutes more, for medium doneness. Serve on hot dog buns.

Engineer Recalls Push Through Rough Jungles

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
STAFF WRITER

Burma, 1944-46, a land of snow-capped mountains and steaming jungles, where no roads existed and the few existing footpaths included the narrow trail used by Marco Polo in 1277. Task: build the Burma Road.

His outfit built 131 miles of the Allied supply route, which extended 507 miles from Ledo, Burma to Kunming, China — the backdoor of Japan. Imemdiately after the road was finished, Japanese resistance crumbled.

ELEPHANT GRASS

Companions along route were elephant grass — taller than an elephant and razor - edged . . . "It would scar you up if you touched it," . . . man - eating tigers, invading tents of the sleeping men during the night fogs . . . tribes of monkeys, "hooting like young boys playing ball" . . . continuous rain from April through September "when everything leather, even the wallet in your pocket, mildewed," and a native tribe suspending headhunting on a "temporary" basis.

Number one job in the China-Burma - India theater of operations was ramroding the road through, as a pipeline for gasoline and to feed supplies into China. "We did the work contrary to all principles, using main strength and awkwardness," Huckaby chuckles.

Raised in the Louisiana swamps, and a highway engineer here, Huckaby admits he "felt at home in India—things were pretty much the same there, only bigger. The LaFourche and Tensas swamps are the closest thing in the United States to the jungle."

To city men, the jungle was a nightmare, a terrifying thing that "took a long time to get used to."

WAY CLEARED

The way was cleared of major Japanese forces by "Merril's Marauders," tough jungle fighters, aided by Kachin (Burmese) sword - wielding fighters.

The first battalion to be flown direct to the theater of operations from stateside, they arrived in the land of Buddha in October, 1944.

At times, officers worked 18 hours a day, and troops put in two shifts — "there weren't enough officers to go around."

Progress was unbelievable — "the troops in the jungle had absolutely nothing to do but work continuously . . . and the Japs had a daily progress report of our work. Tokyo Rose read it over the radio at night," he frowned.

Malaria and dysentary . . . blood - sucking leeches . . . mite typhus, often fatal . . . fungus growth which attacked feet and hands: "I've seen men's feet swell and burst" . . . and lack of fresh vegetables — discomforts.

JUNGLE SPRING

"Spring in the jungle . . . trees and flowers suddenly burst into bloom . . . entire treetops a mass of color, some deep red, others palest yellow. Vines blooming along the trail, yellow or lavender for daytime . . . and at night, white moon flowers, thick and glistening in the dew and moonlight," Huckaby wrote on Feb. 28, 1945.

Nearby, on an ox - cart trail, leading to a jade mine, he saw a "giant, black woman, veiled in the Hindu custom of purdah, leading a herd of goats over the ancient trail covered by Marco Polo."

Huckaby also saw the "Road to Mandalay" — the Irrawaddy River, with a U. S. pontoon bridge built across it. "The flying fish really do play," he wrote home, describing how the silvery fish "slithered" through the air for 15 to 20 feet before disappearing under water.

"I saw an unusual religious ceremony in Margherita, India. Each year, the natives of a religious sect make figures, of any shape or appearance, months in advance, to represent their sins. Then they form a parade, move past a lake, throw the huge figures into the water . . . and their annual sins are washed away," he revealed.

And in villages of Christian Garros, hill tribesmen, he listened as Burmese sat cross-legged on the floor, singing Christian hymns in the Urdu language. Huckaby "recognized the tunes, but not the words."

COURTESY CALL

"The hut was large and built on stilts. A child led the way inside, past three cook fires, and three groups of a woman and children — the chieftain's harem. His throne was a bamboo seat under a pair of giant elephant tusks, and his gift to us was a rarity in the jungle — two fresh eggs," the engineer mentions.

Naga. The men shrank from the name of Burma's headhunting tribe, "tamed" by the British at the time of Huckaby's stay —but back to their native customs as of 1959.

Ethnologists say the Nagas are the only pure race in Burma.

Skin tones among the jungle and foothill tribes varied from black to light brown or yellow. Remote tribes wore few clothes, those closer to the cities wore more.

"I was in Calcutta at the time Nehru came into power. A mammoth parade was watched by teeming thousands. Monks came down out of the Himalaya mountains, wearing layers of brown robes and fur hats. The temperature was 120 degrees, but they were composed, with control over their senses.

They walked along at a steady pace, fingering their prayer beads . . . without feeling the heat," he said, still amazed.

EARLIER

Earlier in the war, the Japanese and Chinese, warring in the jungle, left their dead for the beasts of prey — and tigers became "free - loaders, feeding on carrion. As a result, they got to be maneaters," Huckaby shuddered.

Tigers were sighted prowling near the campsite several times. One was killed by a chicken — and a grenade. The soldiers tied the grenade to the chicken, left it out where a tiger would find it.

Another group of soldiers, night hunting in a jeep, sighted the glowing eyes of an animal near a pool, fired, and were "very surprised" to find their kill was a big, female tiger.

Eventually, the men came to recognize the tiger by its odor —similar to a skunk.

But one night, a hungry tiger prowled from one end of a barracks tent to the other, sniffing at each sleeping soldier. Its paw tracks, on the soft, dirt floor, showed that it circled the entire tent before returning to one man.

His screams woke the barracks, as the tiger slashed off the skin from his right shoulder to knee. He lost the use of his arm, was returned with a disability discharge.

DRIVEN OFF

The men drove off the animal, and that morning, native tiger hunters were called in. "Beaters," chanting and banging away on pans, drove the maneater from the jungle.

The officer holding the gun to shoot the animal "froze." A beater wacked the confused tiger on the rump and drove it back into te jungle. Two days later, G. I.'s killed it.

Living quarters were bamboo huts and cabins, with thatched roofs to keep out the 360 inches of rain which fell during Monsoon season . . . compared to 50 inches per year in Louisiana.

Near one camp-site, Huckaby came on a tribe of big apes, vegetarians with white whiskers around their faces, playing like young boys . . . watched a non-poisonous seven-foot-long golden snake cross trail in front of him . . . and almost ran into an Asiatic bison, dangerous when cornered.

"The bison was the biggest thing I've seen, except for elephants. This fellow came out alongside the road, looked the situation and my jeep over and turned back into the jungle. After he'd gone 15 feet, 5 saw and heard nothing . . . the elephant grass screened him."

Keeping Huckaby company was "Henrietta," a baby monkey caught by the troops.

"She stayed around for a long time, perched on my shoulder and took gum out of my pocket," he chuckled.

Wearing the old campaign hat he'd used in World War I, Huckaby often was mistaken for Gen. "Vinegar Joe" Stillwell. He received two changes from his rank of major. One night, at a British party, he was made a lance corporal, temporary, in the Indian army. Later, his actual promotion to colonel came through.

In his home at 3811 LaFourche St., on Bayou DeSiard, he recalls the temples of India . . . and the fantastic trip to great jade mines in hills west of the Uri River.

"We took a trail from Shadazup, crossed the headwaters of the Uri, and sighted two Chinese women with bound feet, also en route to the mine. They had come many miles from a vicinity of central China where women are dominant," he smiled.

The women "hobbled along on their tiny, bound feet, mile on mile. At the jade mine, they negotiated with natives and probably collected a healthy commission on the jade which I bought," he grinned.

Comment on the female population:

"Some of the Indian women were beautiful, with long, jet-black hair, soft brown eyes and delicate features . . . and some were downright hideous."

"I recall vividly the first convoy of supply trucks that went over it," Huckaby comments.

"But I was talking to General Claire Chennault before his death. He had visited there and told me the country reverted back to jungle. Whatever little progress made by the Allies during their occupation was obliterated," he revealed sadly.

ABOUT EVIL IN LAS VEGAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The only thing wrong with Las Vegas' bare bosomed showgirls is the way Americans, especially the men, behave while watching them, one of the imported beauties declared today.

"In Europe," declared 19-year-old Lilo Eichberg of Munich, "I was considered an artist and got the respect due an artist. I never once felt embarrassed or that there was anything wrong in what I did.

"Europeans think the body of a young woman is something beautiful, not something that you whistle at or chew gum by. My mother would never allow me to do anything wrong. And she is proud of my work."

Lilo, a combination of Zsa Zsa Gabor, Kim Novak and a little of Jayne Mansfield, is appearing in "La Nouvelle Eve," the Paris show that was recently imported intact to Las Vegas' El Rancho Vegas. The show revived the gambling resort's long - simmering battle of the nudes and even touched off a legislative bill which would ban bare bosoms in Nevada.

"I think the Nevada parliament should make a law that would make the audiences behave," said Lilo. "All of us in the show were shocked opening night. The men stamped their feet, whistled, screamed, winked at us, sometimes with their wives at the same table. And all the time chewing gum. Americans must chew lots of gum, no?"

As she talked, she puffed her cheeks into a hilarious caricature of gum chewers.

FLYING NORTHWARD

Bering Strait--Radar

By SAUL PETT

LITTLE DIOMEDE ISLAND, OFF Alaska (AP)—We were flying north toward the Bering Strait.

"There's American radar on that mountan," said Martin Olson, bush pilot, pointing toward the Alaskan peninsula on our right. "You can be sure they see us."

"That's the Siberian mainland. You can be sure the Russians are also watching uson their radar."

It was an odd unreal picture: three men and an Eskimo boy in a tiny, single-engine plane being closely watched by the electronic eyes of the two giants of the cold war.

But odder still was the sight that lay directly ahead, in the narrow neck of the Bering Strait separating the mainlands of the United States and the Soviet Union.

Ahead of us, in the middle of the Strait, we could see two rocky snow-covered crags—the Diomede Islands, one American, the other Soviet, only 3½ miles apart and welded together by a frozen channel. And somewhere halfway between them, stretched the International Dateline.

Here is the one spot in the world where Soviet and American territories brush elbows. Here they are little more than 6,000 yards apart.

LITTLE

On our right, Little Diomede Island, American. And it was Thursday there.

On our left, Big Diomede Island, Soviet. And it was Friday there.

And on both islands, eskimos related to each other, Eskimos who used to visit back and forth but now remain apart, divided by a cold war they never made.

Olson made one low pass between the islands, between today and tomorrow, between two ideologies, two nations, two continents glaring at each other in close, icy solitude.

On little Diomede, we could see a tiny cluster of about 20 clapboard and tarpaper houses, a school house and a church, all hugging the foot of a steep 1,600-foot mountain. The island is about four miles long and two miles wide and is all rise. The airport that awaited us was a strip of bumpy ice near the shore, marked off by oil drums.

And on Big Diomede, we saw an equally steep rise. The Soviet island is about twice as large as its American neighbor. From the plane, we could see no buildings or signs of life. Olson, who's been flying this part of Alaska for about 12 years, said the Siberian Eskimos lived on the west, or hidden side of Big Diomede.

We had taken off that morning from Nome, 140 miles to the southeast, in a Piper Pacer. Olson, whose mother was Eskimo and father was a Norwegian Laplander imported to Alaska along with reindeer herds about 50 years ago, carried food and cigarettes to Little Diomede.

PASSENGERS

He also carried three passengers: Capt. Robert Steele, of the Nome contingent of the Alaska National Guard, which helps patrol the coast; Edgar Iyapana, five-year-old Eskimo boy, who was being returned home after a month in a Nome hospital; and me.

Our plane skis bumped on the rough ice and almost before we stopped, it seemed we were surrounded by the whole village, by dark, smiling faces, by seal-skin parkas and mukluks. Because of bad weather, Little Diomede seldom gets visitors from the mainland in the winter, and then only by small plane. Their imported supplies of food had been running low.

The wind was sharp, and the temperature was 21 below, so we adjourned quickly to the neat but tiny schoolhouse for interviews. The whole military contingent of Little Diomede—10 Eskimo members of the National Guard — followed me. Like most natives on the island, they spoke good English.

Had they seen any Russians lately?

"We see them almost every day when the weather is clear," said Sgt. Mike Okpealuk. "Through our binoculars or telescope, we see their dog teams, supply planes landing near the north end of the ridge.

"They carry rifles or Tommy guns. We carry only M1 rifles. They wear long dark coats and sometimes, looking through our our binoculars, we can see them looking at us through their binoculars."

What was the last contact they had with the Soviet Eskimos?

"Last winter. One night, before any of us knew it, a man named Odoyuk walked over the ice from Big Diomede and suddenly appeared in one of our houses. He said he wanted to see his relatives here. He said he wanted to trade, to get fish for ivory. He got the fish and promised to return with the ivory. He never did.'

Mike explained that several families on Little Diomede recognized the visitor as a cousin they used to see frequently.

Before the Korean War, he said, everyboyd on both islands used to go back and forth across the ice without passports or incidents. Then the Soviets began to discourage visitors. The last time American Eskimos went over was six years ago.

As Mike was talking, a shout came up from the observation post. We all raced out to the telescope. I was invited to look.

There, on the north ridge of the Big Diomede I made out some sort of structure behind blocks of snow and on the top a small metal chimney. And to one side, a human wearing something long and dark. He seemed to be looking at us.

Flowers Bloom, Thanks To Aid At Many Points

CUT THROAT ISLAND, Labrador—(UPI)—Flowers are blooming smack in the middle of the Arctic ice cap, thanks to a letter, a telegram two enterprising florists and two pilots.

U. S. Air Force members stationed here built flower boxes as a hobby, but then discovered they had no plants to plant.

The mails carried as SOS to an Air Force wife in Michigan, who talked to her local florist about the problem of getting flowers to the ice cap. The florist checked the membership list of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association and came up with a dealer in St. John's, Newfoundland.

From there, the flowers went by plane to Goose Bay, with enough soil for planting, and from Goose Bay a helicopter transferred the cargo to Cut Throat Island.

Engineer Recalls Push Through Rough Jungles

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
STAFF WRITER

Burma, 1944-46, a land of snow-capped mountains and steaming jungles, where no roads existed and the few existing footpaths included the narrow trail used by Marco Polo in 1277. Task: build the Burma Road.

His outfit built 131 miles of the Allied supply route, which extended 507 miles from Ledo, Burma to Kunming, China — the backdoor of Japan. Imemdiately after the road was finished, Japanese resistance crumbled.

ELEPHANT GRASS

Companions along route were elephant grass — taller than an elephant and razor - edged . . . "It would scar you up if you touched it," . . . man - eating tigers, invading tents of the sleeping men during the night fogs . . . tribes of monkeys, "hooting like young boys playing ball" . . . continuous rain from April through September "when everything leather, even the wallet in your pocket, mildewed," and a native tribe suspending headhunting on a "temporary" basis.

Number one job in the China-Burma - India theater of operations was ramroding the road through, as a pipeline for gasoline and to feed supplies into China. "We did the work contrary to all principles, using main strength and awkwardness," Huckaby chuckles.

Raised in the Louisiana swamps, and a highway engineer here, Huckaby admits he "felt at home in India—things were pretty much the same there, only bigger. The LaFourche and Tensas swamps are the closest thing in the United States to the jungle."

To city men, the jungle was a nightmare, a terrifying thing that "took a long time to get used to."

WAY CLEARED

The way was cleared of major Japanese forces by "Merril's Marauders," tough jungle fighters, aided by Kachin (Burmese) sword - wielding fighters.

The first battalion to be flown direct to the theater of operations from stateside, they arrived in the land of Buddha in October, 1944.

At times, officers worked 18 hours a day, and troops put in two shifts — "there weren't enough officers to go around."

Progress was unbelievable — "the troops in the jungle had absolutely nothing to do but work continuously . . . and the Japs had a daily progress report of our work. Tokyo Rose read it over the radio at night," he frowned.

Malaria and dysentary . . . blood - sucking leeches . . . mite typhus, often fatal . . . fungus growth which attacked feet and hands: "I've seen men's feet swell and burst" . . . and lack of fresh vegetables — discomforts.

JUNGLE SPRING

"Spring in the jungle . . . trees and flowers suddenly burst into bloom . . . entire treetops a mass of color, some deep red, others palest yellow. Vines blooming along the trail, yellow or lavender for daytime . . . and at night, white moon flowers, thick and glistening in the dew and moonlight," Huckaby wrote on Feb. 28, 1945.

Nearby, on an ox - cart trail, leading to a jade mine, he saw a "giant, black woman, veiled in the Hindu custom of purdah, leading a herd of goats over the ancient trail covered by Marco Polo."

Huckaby also saw the "Road to Mandalay" — the Irrawaddy River, with a U. S. pontoon bridge built across it. "The flying fish really do play," he wrote home, describing how the silvery fish "slithered" through the air for 15 to 20 feet before disappearing under water.

"I saw an unusual religious ceremony in Margherita, India. Each year, the natives of a religious sect make figures, of any shape or appearance, months in advance, to represent their sins. Then they form a parade, move past a lake, throw the huge figures into the water . . . and their annual sins are washed away," he revealed.

And in villages of Christian Garros, hill tribesmen, he listened as Burmese sat cross-legged on the floor, singing Christian hymns in the Urdu language. Huckaby "recognized the tunes, but not the words."

"The hut was large and built on stilts. A child led the way inside, past three cook fires, and three groups of a woman and children — the chieftain's harem. His throne was a bamboo seat under a pair of giant elephant tusks, and his gift to us was a rarity in the jungle — two fresh eggs," the engineer mentions.

Naga. The men shrank from the name of Burma's headhunting tribe, "tamed" by the British at the time of Huckaby's stay —but back to their native customs as of 1959.

Ethnologists say the Nagas are the only pure race in Burma.

Skin tones among the jungle and foothill tribes varied from black to light brown or yellow. Remote tribes wore few clothes, those closer to the cities wore more.

"I was in Calcutta at the time Nehru came into power. A mammoth parade was watched by teeming thousands. Monks came down out of the Himalaya mountains, wearing layers of brown robes and fur hats. The temperature was 120 degrees, but they were composed, with control over their senses.

They walked along at a steady pace, fingering their prayer beads . . . without feeling the heat," he said, still amazed.

EARLIER

Earlier in the war, the Japanese and Chinese, warring in the jungle, left their dead for the beasts of prey — and tigers became "free - loaders, feeding on carrion. As a result, they got to be maneaters," Huckaby shuddered.

Tigers were sighted prowling near the campsite several times. One was killed by a chicken — and a grenade. The soldiers tied the grenade to the chicken, left it out where a tiger would find it.

Another group of soldiers, night hunting in a jeep, sighted the glowing eyes of an animal near a pool, fired, and were "very surprised" to find their kill was a big, female tiger.

Eventually, the men came to recognize the tiger by its odor —similar to a skunk.

But one night, a hungry tiger prowled from one end of a barracks tent to the other, sniffing at each sleeping soldier. Its paw tracks, on the soft, dirt floor, showed that it circled the entire tent before returning to one man.

His screams woke the barracks, as the tiger slashed off the skin from his right shoulder to knee. He lost the use of his arm, was returned with a disability discharge.

DRIVEN OFF

The men drove off the animal, and that morning, native tiger hunters were called in. "Beaters," chanting and banging away on pans, drove the maneater from the jungle.

The officer holding the gun to shoot the animal "froze." A beater wacked the confused tiger on the rump and drove it back into te jungle. Two days later, G. I.'s killed it.

Living quarters were bamboo huts and cabins, with thatched roofs to keep out the 360 inches of rain which fell during Monsoon season . . . compared to 50 inches per year in Louisiana.

Near one camp-site, Huckaby came on a tribe of big apes, vegetarians with white whiskers around their faces, playing like young boys . . . watched a non-poisonous seven-foot-long golden snake cross trail in front of him . . . and almost ran into an Asiatic bison, dangerous when cornered.

"The bison was the biggest thing I've seen, except for elephants. This fellow came out alongside the road, looked the situation and my jeep over and turned back into the jungle. After he'd gone 15 feet, 5 saw and heard nothing . . . the elephant grass screened him."

"She stayed around for a long time, perched on my shoulder and took gum out of my pocket," he chuckled.

Wearing the old campaign hat he'd used in World War I, Huckaby often was mistaken for Gen. "Vinegar Joe" Stillwell. He received two changes from his rank of major. One night, at a British party, he was made a lance corporal, temporary, in the Indian army. Later, his actual promotion to colonel came through.

In his home at 3811 LaFourche St., on Bayou DeSiard, he recalls the temples of India . . . and the fantastic trip to great jade mines in hills west of the Uri River.

"We took a trail from Shadazup, crossed the headwaters of the Uri, and sighted two Chinese women with bound feet, also en route to the mine. They had come many miles from a vicinity of central China where women are dominant," he smiled.

The women "hobbled along on their tiny, bound feet, mile on mile. At the jade mine, they negotiated with natives and probably collected a healthy commission on the jade which I bought," he grinned.

Comment on the female population:

"Some of the Indian women were beautiful, with long, jet-black hair, soft brown eyes and delicate features . . . and some were downright hideous."

"I recall vividly the first convoy of supply trucks that went over it," Huckaby comments.

"But I was talking to General Claire Chennault before his death. He had visited there and told me the country reverted back to jungle. Whatever little progress made by the Allies during their occupation was obliterated," he revealed sadly.

ABOUT EVIL IN LAS VEGAS

"In Europe," declared 19-year-old Lilo Eichberg of Munich, "I was considered an artist and got the respect due an artist. I never once felt embarrassed or that there was anything wrong in what I did.

"Europeans think the body of a young woman is something beautiful, not something that you whistle at or chew gum by. My mother would never allow me to do anything wrong. And she is proud of my work."

Lilo, a combination of Zsa Zsa Gabor, Kim Novak and a little of Jayne Mansfield, is appearing in "La Nouvelle Eve," the Paris show that was recently imported intact to Las Vegas' El Rancho Vegas. The show revived the gambling resort's long - simmering battle of the nudes and even touched off a legislative bill which would ban bare bosoms in Nevada.

"I think the Nevada parliament should make a law that would make the audiences behave," said Lilo. "All of us in the show were shocked opening night. The men stamped their feet, whistled, screamed, winked at us, sometimes with their wives at the same table. And all the time chewing gum. Americans must chew lots of gum, no?"

As she talked, she puffed her cheeks into a hilarious caricature of gum chewers.

"If we were strip teasers or did anything suggestive," commented Lilo, "then our reception would be deserved. What we do is art, not what you call burlesque."

Lilo's blast is one of the first from the bosom brigade in the months-old battle of nudity. Surprisingly, she came to Hollywood to make the remarks in an interview.

Besides civic and church groups, the battle has pitted hotel owner against hotel owner. Jack Entratter of the Sands and Ben Goffstein of the Riviera are leaders of the anti-nudity faction while Beldon Katleman of El Rancho and owners of the Stardust and Dunes are pro-nude.

The Stardust imported Paris' Lido show to touch off the controversy while the Dunes imported pure Minsky. Entratter and Goffstein believe that nudity and gambling don't mix and that the undressed girls will make the wives of high - rolling businessmen confine their gambling to Saturday night poker parties.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

FAST AND COMPACT

The Big Eight Baseball League is down to a four-club membership, but promises greater competition in a compact circuit that — unless other towns join soon — will keep travel problems at a minimum while offering the fans its usual good brand of amateur ball.

The Ruston Ramblers, Bernice Lions, Minden Red Birds, and Homer Oilers are all set and ready for the "Play ball!" call due to launch the 14th season for Major Larry Fox's circuit on June 2.

Unless more clubs are accepted for membership, the league will open with a 24-game schedule, followed by the usual Shaughnessy playoff. The slate, now being drawn up, will call for three games each week on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday nights.

Major Fox, the Louisiana Tech prof who is the only president the league has ever had, would like an eight - team organization, but is satisfied that four such clubs as Bernice, Minden, Homer, and Ruston have developed a natural rivalry not only in the Big Eight, but town rivalries in high school football, baseball, and basketball that can carry on into this amateur circuit since high school athletes are being encourage to play summer ball.

Club managers have voted a limit on out-of-town players and also put a ceiling on player expenses. National Collegiate Athletic Association rules governing summer baseball participation by college athletes will again be adhered to in league regulations. Team rosters will be held to 15 players.

While the decisions by Bastrop and El Dorado to withdraw from the league are regretted by other towns of the loop, the departure of these clubs eases transportation problems for the remaining members. Minden and Bastrop, in visiting each other last year, had to travel 97 miles one way. Also, El Dorado was rather remote except for Bernice and Homer.

Over the years the Big Eight has also drawn membership from Sterlington, Hodge, Simsboro, Dubach, Marion, Farmerville, and Springhill. Ruston once had two contenders a season — the old Rebels and Volunteers. Regardless of shifting membership, the Big Eight still promises about the fastest brand of amateur baseball in this section of the country.

SHREVEPORT RELAYS

Woodrow W. Turner, the Byrd High track coach, who once stirred cinder - path interest with the old Ouachita Relays as track coach at Ouachita Parish High and later coached at Columbia High, is attacting some top contenders for his Shreveport Relays slated for next Saturday. Colleges, universities, and high schools will participate.

"My mile relay team was clocked in practice on a 3:23.8 time," reveals Turner who maintains "my boys are trying for a national high school record in this event."

University division entries already include Tulane, Texas A&M, Arkansas, and Houston. Colleges include Lamar Tech, Northwestern State, Southeastern Louisiana, SLI, and McNeese. Bossier, Fair Park, Sulphur, Lafayette and Fair Park were among early entries for the high school events. Turner is expecting additional entries in the week end mail.

WANT GAME

Coach Jack Rowan's Northeast State Indians, who will offer their annual spring training game within the week, let it be known a few days ago that they're now anxious to fill that open date on their schedule for October 10. Interested schools are invited to contact the Monroe institution. And they want to play the game, if scheduled, in their opponent's own domicile.

A look at the Redskin schedule explains the desire to travel. There are five home games on the slate, two for Sept. 26 and Oct. 3 and three in a row for Oct. 17-24-31. If Oct. 10 should be made another home tussle, the Tribe would be appearing in six consecutive home games. This they want to avoid. The schedule already has four road games, one for the opener against Arkansas State at Jonesboro, Ark., and three to wrap it up.

WE WENT FISHING

Several years ago, right after the second big war, a young neighbor of ours who had served in the navy, began to take an interest in the art of enticing fish, particularly bass, with rod and reel and assorted lures.

The other day we published a picture of Hubert H. Mauldin and Bob Windham with a big string of bass, and a couple of days later got an invitation to go with them on another bass hunt.

Well, there was a time when we could give Mauldin, that one-time sailor, a few pointers on catching fish. Now we'll listen when he's telling how it's done.

The Rev. E. E. "Buddy" Taylor, also a neighbor when his business was groceries instead of the gospel, used to make some of those old fishing trips with us. When we ran into the minister a couple of days ago and he wanted to know, "When are we going fishing again?" we had to tell him, "Get Hubert to take you if you want to catch some fish."

We worked from Windham's boat on our fishing trip to a river lake south of here. We hadn't been there before and the brush was something fierce, but that's where the fish were hanging out. Mauldin's crew included his twin boys, John and Joe (we still can't tell them apart), who were trying to get the hang of a fly rod. John — or it might have been Joe — latched on to one of the biggest grindles we've ever seen after he had been wanting to know how to handle a line with an automatic reel. "I believe I've got the hang of it now," said the young fisherman as he boated his "cypress trout."

SHORT AND FAST

Abner Wimberly, who recently left the LSU coaching staff to accept a business position in Morehouse parish, is slated to become a member of the Northeast Louisiana Football Officials Association, we have been told. Watch for him as a grid official next September. Scotty Daniel, after a couple of year's "retirement," also has applied for membership again as a grid official.

Ray Buce, one of the guiding figures of gold tournaments and club business at Highland Park Country Club, West Monroe, the past few years, has been back on duty for several days at his United Gas office in West Monroe after a siege of illness.

The Northeast Louisiana Ladies Golf Association expects most of its 90 members to participate in the annual spring tournament at Highland Park Wednesday. Members come from Ruston, Winnfield, Hodge, Bastrop, Highland, and the two Monroe clubs, Bayou DeSiard and Municipal. Tee time, 9 a.m.

Wilma Ritchie of Monroe piled up 658 points to command third place among 950 contenders bowling the first rounds of the Louisiana Women's State Bowling Tournament at Lake Charles a week ago. Vivian Scovill, Sulphur, was first with 680; Lorrice Goree, Lake Charles, second with 668. More were trying to displace them yesterday. The meet ends next week end.

3 Unanimous Choices Head All-Twin Cities; Mahoney Top Coach

Two Rebels Make Honor Cage Quint

Three players were unanimous choices for first team berths and Jim Mahoney of St. Matthews was named "Coach of the Year" on the All-Twin Cities prep basketball squad released by the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Selected by all five high school coaches in Monroe and West Monroe, a total of 20 cagers received recognition in the poll compiled by All-Twin Cities Chairman S. A. "Andy" Fisher.

Listed on every ballot were St. Matthews' Jimmy Tonore, West Monroe's Larry Lewis and Neville's Ronnie McNabb. Harry Crowe, Ouachita's District 1-AAA top scorer, just missed the elite group with four first place and one second place vote, and Don Tatum of West Monroe rounded out the first five with three first team votes and one second berth.

Tonore, smallest man on the squad at 5-8, was a jumping jack at the forward spot and had a near-patent on his jump shot from the corner. He led the squad in total points with 604 in 40 games for a 15.1 average. The aggressive Irish ball hawk eclipsed the magic 30-point mark twice during the season.

Lewis, although standing only 5-11, was considered one of best men at the post position in the area and was deadly on drives under the basket. The Rebels' clutch man, Lewis registered 34 points in one game against Ouachita and chalked up 450 points on the season for a 16.6 average.

McNabb was Neville's spark-plug all year long and had a 14.8 per game average on 592 points for the year. Steady under fire, the 5-11 guard connected often on long jump shots and kept the middle busy with his driving layups. The tricky ball handler hit his personal high for the season in the last game against Jonesboro-Hodge, netting 28 points as Neville was nosed out of second place, in District 2-AA 55-54.

Ouachita's mighty mite, Crowe was probably the flashiest player to watch. Although officially measured at 5-11, the "Rabbit" consistently had to look up to his defenders but made up for the disadvantage with sure-fingered ball control and the ability to shoot accurately from all angles.

Crowe led the district with a 21.4 average in 10 games and paced the All-Twin Cities squad with a 16.8 mark and 553 points. The only junior on the first five, Crowe scored over 30 points in a game twice and had 28 on three occasions.

Tatum, whose trademark was a high arched jump shot from the corner, was West Monroe's "team" man and collected 291 points for a 10.8 average. Seldom a high point maker, the rangy forward consistently hit in double figures and tossed in 22 points against Bastrop near the end of the season.

Mahoney, after two years of coaching in the Army, hit paydirt in his second season at the Irish helm, guiding the team to its first district championship in the school's history, St. Matthews breezed to the title in 1-A with 31 wins and 11 losses.

A native of Seminole, Oklahoma, the 23-year-old Mahoney attended College of the Ozarks and Arkansas State College and is presently enrolled at Northeast State College.

Mahoney received two first place nominations and one second place nod to nose out West Monroe's L. V. Norris. Norris topped two ballots. George Davis of Neville was named runnerup by three coaches and H. H. Holliman of Ouachita, last year's winner, had one first place vote. Southside mentor Bob Fisher was second on one card.

Receiving strong support in the player voting were Jay Goldsmith and Max Pennington of Neville, Tommy Grafton of Ouachita and John Varino of St. Matthews.

With two points for a first team selection and one for a second squad berth, Goldsmith and Grafton totaled four points each and Varino and Pennington three each. Don Word, Southside ace, was the only other cager picked for the first team.

Choices for second team on two ballots were Buddy Embanato, St. Matthews, Joe Cage, Neville, and Kelton Bacon, West Monroe.

Receiving one second team vote were Tommy Crowe, brother of the first team selection from Ouachita, Joe Vosburg and Danny Perkins, Southside, Perry Grubbs and Roy Lee Scroggins, West Monroe, and Jeff Napper and Ross Nolan of Neville.

The team will be honored by the Jaycees with a banquet at the Penn Hotel at noon Monday, with Louisiana Tech basketball coach Cecil Crowley guest speaker. Trophies will also be awarded to members of the first team.

STERLINGTON, La. (Special — The host teams won both championships in the annual A. L. Smith Junior High Basketball Tournament here Saturday night, the local girls defeating Logtown, 26-12, and Smith boys edging Swartz, 11-10, in a special eight-minute playoff.

Bryant got 4 points for Sterlington in the playooff game while Edgar got 4 for Swartz. In the earlier game, Freeman scored 13 for Swartz and Corbin got 11 for Smith.

Williams scored 14 points for the host girls in the finals and Landrum got 9 for Logtown.

Logtown beat Swartz girls, 29-26, in the semifinals with Landrum scoring 17 points. Martin had 9 for the losers. Swartz routed Woodlawn in a boys' semifinal, 40-22, with Freeman scoring 16. Rogers and Griggs got 6 each for Woodlawn.

JACKSONVILLE OPEN

Wright Out Front By Two Strokes

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., carved a subpar 70 out of her favorite Hyde Park Municipal golf course Saturday and increased her lead in the Jacksonville Women s Open to two strokes.

The 24-year-old two-time winner of the $6,000 tourney had shaken off all but about three challengers going into Sunday's final round with a score of 214.

Miss Wright played methodically and never was in serious trouble. She had only one bogey in firing identical nines of 35 over the par 36-36—72 course where she has played some of her best golf in recent years. The bogey came on the par 3 fourth hole, where her tee shot went into a trap.

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., stayed close on the heels of her close friend and traveling companion on the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. tour. Miss Rawls had a 71 for a three-round total of 216.

In scoring her second 70 of the tourney, Miss Wright reached almost every green in standard figures. She birdied three holes sinking a 15-foot putt on one of them and getting close with iron shots for easier birds on the other two.

Miss Rawls had four birdies but two poor chip shots and a 3-putt green resulted in a trio of bogeys. Miss Suggs, like Miss Wright, was never in trouble and played a steady 70.

The leaders:

Mickey Wright	70-74-70—214
Betsy Rawls	72-73-71—216
Marlene Hagge	73-75-72—220
Louise Suggs	75-76-70—221
Fay Crocker	73-75-77—225
Marilynn Smith	77-72-78—227
Patty Berg	74-75-78—227
Betty Rush	73-77-77—227
Jo Ann Prentice	76-75-77—228
Beverly Hanson	74-77-77—228
Wiffi Smith	76-75-78—229
Jackie Pung	77-75-77—229
Ruth Jessen	78-76-76—230
Bonnie Randolph	71-80 81—232

BREAKS OWN MARK

Delany Establishes New Record For Indoor Mile

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ireland's Ron Delany clinched a spot as one of foot racing's all-time greats Saturday night with a blazing last-lap kick which nailed Hungary's Istvan Rozsavolgyi by a stride with a new world indoor mile record of 4:01.4, at Madison Square Garden.

The Olympic 1,500-meter champion smashed his own two-week-old world indoor mark of 4:02.5 as he rambled to his 31st consecutive indoor mile triumph and his 37th straight indoor triumph in the Columbian mile.

He almost gave it away when, with a lap and a half to go, Hungary's 2,000-meter world record holder jumped on top to a 10-yard lead. But Delany moved in behind the hammering Hungarian and then nipped him at the tape as the crowd of 13,000 rocked the rafters at this Knights of Columbus track meet. Rozsavolgyi himself bettered the two-week old mark as he was clocked in 4:01.8.

The mile was the feature of the closing indoor meeting of the garden season in which a rhubarb developed as highly-regarded Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem was disqualified for two false starts in the high hurdles semi-finals.

Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan College won the 60 highs in 7.1, Paul Winder of Morgan State took the 60-yard dash in 6.3 seconds; Don Bragg, ex - Villanova star, scored his 10th straight Garden win with a 15-foot vault; Tom Murphy of Manhattan equalled his own fastest time of the year winning the 1000 in 2:09.3 and Josh Culbreath of the New York Pioneer Club captured the 600 in 1:10.9.

Jones, the outdoor intercolegiate champion, blazed out of his chocks to win the 60-yard high hurdles by a nose in the meet record equalling time of 7.1 seconds.

Lee Calhoun, the Olympic high Hurdles champion from North Carolina College, finished second with Charley Pratt of the Philadelphia Pioneer Club third. Gilbert of Winston - Salem Teachers College, one of the event favorites, was disqualified in the semi-finals for too many false starts.

Another rhubarb in the strife which has riddled the track world during the indoor season developed as a result of Gilbert's disqualification in the hurdles.

"Pratt pulled Gilbert off the mark in the high hurdles," said Winston - Salem Coach Wilbur Ross. "I believe the starter deliberately tried to confuse the runners instead of helping them."

Starter John Tomasco of Newark, N. J., was undisturbed by the hurdles dispute.

"Gilbert broke twice, and that's all there is to it," he said.

Tom Murphy, former Manhattan star running for the New York A.C., held off a stirring last-lap bid by Germany's Paul Schmidt to win the invitation 1,000 yard run by a stride in 2:09.3, which equallied his own fastest time of the indoor season in the Boston A.A. games. North Carolina's Dave Scurlock was third.

Scurlock held the lead through the first four laps as Arnie Sowell, formerly of Pitt, hung on in second with Schmidt and Murphy. With one lap to go and Schmidt hemmed in on the pole, Murphy burst into a 10-yard lead and barely fought off the fast-closing German.

Virginia State's mile relay team easily won a baton-passing event in 8:26.1 with Catholic University second and Providence third.

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP) — Alberta Ranches' favored Pieyed scored a wire-to-wire victory in the $15,000 Bay District Handicap before 14,364 at Tanforan Saturday.

Fort Necessity, champion of district 7-C, leaped to a 22-10 first quarter lead and swept to victory easily, letting up only in the third period when St. Mary's outscored them, 18-12.

Fort had a 42-20 lead at halftime and a 54-38 advantage at the end of the third period.

Milton Linder led the Franklin Parish team in scoring with 29 points. Walter Ledet got 21 to pace St. Mary's.

Ogden lost to Negreet in the girls' finals despite sensational scoring by Linda Thompson. Miss Thompson poured in 41 points to take scoring honors for the game. Christine Walker got 29 to top Negreet.

Negreet built up an early lead and held on for the triumph. They had a 25-19 lead at the end of the first period and held a 40-35 lead at intermission. Both teams scored eight points in the third quarter and Negreet got 14 to Ogden's 12 in the final period.

The loss was only the second of the year for Ogden, another Franklin Parish team.

Both teams were extremely hot from the floor. Negreet hit on 28 of 50 tries from the floor and Ogden connected on 23 of 40.

Ogden gained the finals with a 51-24 victory over Holden. Miss Thompson was high for Ogden with 34 points while Carlee Forbes got 10 for Holden.

Babin Motors First In Gold Medal Meet

JONESVILLE, La. (Special) — Babin Motors downed Grant's Lawmen, 88-66, here Saturday night to take first place in the annual Gold Medal Independent basketball tournament sponsored by Block High School.

BUD FOSTER

Wisconsin Hoop Coach Quits Post

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Bud Foster quit Saturday as basketball coach of the University of Wisconsin after a quarter century of service, thus beating his alma mater to the expected punch. He then accepted a position on the faculty.

The 52-year - old Kansan, who was dean of Big Ten basketball coaches, had been operating on a one-year reprieve since last season with the understanding that he produce a winner or else. He didn't.

The university board of regents, acting on the recommendation of the athletic board, accepted Foster's resignation Saturday before the Badgers' final game of their worst season in history.

Foster was named professor of athletics and director of Grans-in-aid and related programs at the university. His annual salary of $11,450 will be continued in his new post.

No mention was made of a successor, but there is some sentiment for John Erickson, the first full-time assistant coach Foster ever had. Erickson, 30, a resident of Rockford, Ill., was hired last year when the athletic board loosened its purse strings in an effort to hoist Wisconsin out of the basketball depths.

Dr. Conrad A. Elvehjem, president of the university, said that in submitting his resignation to the athletic board Wednesday Foster did so "in the hope of seeing an improvement in the future of Wisconsin's basketball."

"There have been no pressures from within the university for Foster's resignation," Dr. Elvehjem asserted.

Foster, a tall, slim man who makes friends easily, has had a tiger by the tail for the past few seasons. His 1957 - 58 team finished last in the Big Ten—another first for Wisconsin—and his current squad was doomed to the cellar as early as a week ago.

The current Badger team, in Bloomington for its season finale has an over-all record of 3-18 and a Big Ten mark of 1-12. Both are Wisconsin lows. The Badgers' only victories were upsets over Purdue, Missouri and Notre Dame.

Bud has had his better years, though. He coached the Badgers to conference championships in 1941 and 1947 and to a share of the title in 1935. His '41 team also won the NCAA crown.

Ballhawks, Ransom Cop Meet Titles

The Ballhawks emerged as the top Midget team and Ransom took top honors among the Pee Wees in tournaments sponsored by the Monroe Recreation Department yesterday.

G. Hudson popped in 11 points to pace the Ballhawks past St. Matthews, 36-14, in the Midget finals. Goldman put in 6 points to head the Irish. The Ballhawks had trounced Logtown, 30-20, in the semi-finals, while St. Matthews downed the Eagles, 16-15. Hudson again led his team with 10 points, and G. Shipp collected 9 for Logtown.

High for St. Matthews in the semi-finals was again Goldman with 7 points. Oglesbee dropped in 5 for the Birds.

In preliminary Midget scraps, Logtown beat the Sharps, 13-11, and St. Matthews tripped the Sharpshooters, 14-7. G. Shipp had 9 for Logtown and Shaw scored 6 for the losers. Cernigliaro was high for St. Matthews, while Sparks and Moses, with 3 each, paced the Sharpshooters.

Gross netted 10 points as Ransom routed the Eagles in the Pee Wee finals 17-6. The winners had advanced the finals with an 18-13 verdict over the Tom cats. Alexander dropped in 10 for the champs and Howell, with 10, sparked the losing effort.

Robertson and Olson had 4 points apiece as the Eagles nipped the Colts, 10-8, in their semi-final tussle. Loftin sank 3 for the Colts.

Opening round games in the Pee Wee division saw the Colts, Tomcats and Ransom triumph and First Methodist drop a forfeit to the Eagles. McKeithen dunked 8 counters as the Colts edged Logtown, 23-18. Shipp made 8 for the loses. Eight points by Powell boosted the Tomcats past St. Matthews, 14-8. High for the losers was Miletello with 5.

Ransom breezed past College Place, 21-14. Alexander tallied 9 for the winners and Howell put in 9 for the losers.

LOOKS 'EM OVER

FAST AND COMPACT

The Big Eight Baseball League is down to a four-club membership, but promises greater competition in a compact circuit that — unless other towns join soon — will keep travel problems at a minimum while offering the fans its usual good brand of amateur ball.

The Ruston Ramblers, Bernice Lions, Minden Red Birds, and Homer Oilers are all set and ready for the "Play ball!" call due to launch the 14th season for Major Larry Fox's circuit on June 2.

Unless more clubs are accepted for membership, the league will open with a 24-game schedule, followed by the usual Shaughnessy playoff. The slate, now being drawn up, will call for three games each week on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday nights.

Major Fox, the Louisiana Tech prof who is the only president the league has ever had, would like an eight - team organization, but is satisfied that four such clubs as Bernice, Minden, Homer, and Ruston have developed a natural rivalry not only in the Big Eight, but town rivalries in high school football, baseball, and basketball that can carry on into this amateur circuit since high school athletes are being encourage to play summer ball.

Club managers have voted a limit on out-of-town players and also put a ceiling on player expenses. National Collegiate Athletic Association rules governing summer baseball participation by college athletes will again be adhered to in league regulations. Team rosters will be held to 15 players.

While the decisions by Bastrop and El Dorado to withdraw from the league are regretted by other towns of the loop, the departure of these clubs eases transportation problems for the remaining members. Minden and Bastrop, in visiting each other last year, had to travel 97 miles one way. Also, El Dorado was rather remote except for Bernice and Homer.

Over the years the Big Eight has also drawn membership from Sterlington, Hodge, Simsboro, Dubach, Marion, Farmerville, and Springhill. Ruston once had two contenders a season — the old Rebels and Volunteers. Regardless of shifting membership, the Big Eight still promises about the fastest brand of amateur baseball in this section of the country.

SHREVEPORT RELAYS

Woodrow W. Turner, the Byrd High track coach, who once stirred cinder - path interest with the old Ouachita Relays as track coach at Ouachita Parish High and later coached at Columbia High, is attacting some top contenders for his Shreveport Relays slated for next Saturday. Colleges, universities, and high schools will participate.

"My mile relay team was clocked in practice on a 3:23.8 time," reveals Turner who maintains "my boys are trying for a national high school record in this event."

University division entries already include Tulane, Texas A&M, Arkansas, and Houston. Colleges include Lamar Tech, Northwestern State, Southeastern Louisiana, SLI, and McNeese. Bossier, Fair Park, Sulphur, Lafayette and Fair Park were among early entries for the high school events. Turner is expecting additional entries in the week end mail.

WANT GAME

Coach Jack Rowan's Northeast State Indians, who will offer their annual spring training game within the week, let it be known a few days ago that they're now anxious to fill that open date on their schedule for October 10. Interested schools are invited to contact the Monroe institution. And they want to play the game, if scheduled, in their opponent's own domicile.

A look at the Redskin schedule explains the desire to travel. There are five home games on the slate, two for Sept. 26 and Oct. 3 and three in a row for Oct. 17-24-31. If Oct. 10 should be made another home tussle, the Tribe would be appearing in six consecutive home games. This they want to avoid. The schedule already has four road games, one for the opener against Arkansas State at Jonesboro, Ark., and three to wrap it up.

WE WENT FISHING

Several years ago, right after the second big war, a young neighbor of ours who had served in the navy, began to take an interest in the art of enticing fish, particularly bass, with rod and reel and assorted lures.

The other day we published a picture of Hubert H. Mauldin and Bob Windham with a big string of bass, and a couple of days later got an invitation to go with them on another bass hunt.

Well, there was a time when we could give Mauldin, that one-time sailor, a few pointers on catching fish. Now we'll listen when he's telling how it's done.

The Rev. E. E. "Buddy" Taylor, also a neighbor when his business was groceries instead of the gospel, used to make some of those old fishing trips with us. When we ran into the minister a couple of days ago and he wanted to know, "When are we going fishing again?" we had to tell him, "Get Hubert to take you if you want to catch some fish."

We worked from Windham's boat on our fishing trip to a river lake south of here. We hadn't been there before and the brush was something fierce, but that's where the fish were hanging out. Mauldin's crew included his twin boys, John and Joe (we still can't tell them apart), who were trying to get the hang of a fly rod. John — or it might have been Joe — latched on to one of the biggest grindles we've ever seen after he had been wanting to know how to handle a line with an automatic reel. "I believe I've got the hang of it now," said the young fisherman as he boated his "cypress trout."

SHORT AND FAST

Abner Wimberly, who recently left the LSU coaching staff to accept a business position in Morehouse parish, is slated to become a member of the Northeast Louisiana Football Officials Association, we have been told. Watch for him as a grid official next September. Scotty Daniel, after a couple of year's "retirement," also has applied for membership again as a grid official.

Ray Buce, one of the guiding figures of gold tournaments and club business at Highland Park Country Club, West Monroe, the past few years, has been back on duty for several days at his United Gas office in West Monroe after a siege of illness.

The Northeast Louisiana Ladies Golf Association expects most of its 90 members to participate in the annual spring tournament at Highland Park Wednesday. Members come from Ruston, Winnfield, Hodge, Bastrop, Highland, and the two Monroe clubs, Bayou DeSiard and Municipal. Tee time, 9 a.m.

Wilma Ritchie of Monroe piled up 658 points to command third place among 950 contenders bowling the first rounds of the Louisiana Women's State Bowling Tournament at Lake Charles a week ago. Vivian Scovill, Sulphur, was first with 680; Lorrice Goree, Lake Charles, second with 668. More were trying to displace them yesterday. The meet ends next week end.

Two Rebels Make Honor Cage Quint

Three players were unanimous choices for first team berths and Jim Mahoney of St. Matthews was named "Coach of the Year" on the All-Twin Cities prep basketball squad released by the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Selected by all five high school coaches in Monroe and West Monroe, a total of 20 cagers received recognition in the poll compiled by All-Twin Cities Chairman S. A. "Andy" Fisher.

Listed on every ballot were St. Matthews' Jimmy Tonore, West Monroe's Larry Lewis and Neville's Ronnie McNabb. Harry Crowe, Ouachita's District 1-AAA top scorer, just missed the elite group with four first place and one second place vote, and Don Tatum of West Monroe rounded out the first five with three first team votes and one second berth.

Tonore, smallest man on the squad at 5-8, was a jumping jack at the forward spot and had a near-patent on his jump shot from the corner. He led the squad in total points with 604 in 40 games for a 15.1 average. The aggressive Irish ball hawk eclipsed the magic 30-point mark twice during the season.

Lewis, although standing only 5-11, was considered one of best men at the post position in the area and was deadly on drives under the basket. The Rebels' clutch man, Lewis registered 34 points in one game against Ouachita and chalked up 450 points on the season for a 16.6 average.

McNabb was Neville's spark-plug all year long and had a 14.8 per game average on 592 points for the year. Steady under fire, the 5-11 guard connected often on long jump shots and kept the middle busy with his driving layups. The tricky ball handler hit his personal high for the season in the last game against Jonesboro-Hodge, netting 28 points as Neville was nosed out of second place, in District 2-AA 55-54.

Ouachita's mighty mite, Crowe was probably the flashiest player to watch. Although officially measured at 5-11, the "Rabbit" consistently had to look up to his defenders but made up for the disadvantage with sure-fingered ball control and the ability to shoot accurately from all angles.

Crowe led the district with a 21.4 average in 10 games and paced the All-Twin Cities squad with a 16.8 mark and 553 points. The only junior on the first five, Crowe scored over 30 points in a game twice and had 28 on three occasions.

Tatum, whose trademark was a high arched jump shot from the corner, was West Monroe's "team" man and collected 291 points for a 10.8 average. Seldom a high point maker, the rangy forward consistently hit in double figures and tossed in 22 points against Bastrop near the end of the season.

Mahoney, after two years of coaching in the Army, hit paydirt in his second season at the Irish helm, guiding the team to its first district championship in the school's history, St. Matthews breezed to the title in 1-A with 31 wins and 11 losses.

A native of Seminole, Oklahoma, the 23-year-old Mahoney attended College of the Ozarks and Arkansas State College and is presently enrolled at Northeast State College.

Mahoney received two first place nominations and one second place nod to nose out West Monroe's L. V. Norris. Norris topped two ballots. George Davis of Neville was named runnerup by three coaches and H. H. Holliman of Ouachita, last year's winner, had one first place vote. Southside mentor Bob Fisher was second on one card.

Receiving strong support in the player voting were Jay Goldsmith and Max Pennington of Neville, Tommy Grafton of Ouachita and John Varino of St. Matthews.

With two points for a first team selection and one for a second squad berth, Goldsmith and Grafton totaled four points each and Varino and Pennington three each. Don Word, Southside ace, was the only other cager picked for the first team.

Choices for second team on two ballots were Buddy Embanato, St. Matthews, Joe Cage, Neville, and Kelton Bacon, West Monroe.

Receiving one second team vote were Tommy Crowe, brother of the first team selection from Ouachita, Joe Vosburg and Danny Perkins, Southside, Perry Grubbs and Roy Lee Scroggins, West Monroe, and Jeff Napper and Ross Nolan of Neville.

The team will be honored by the Jaycees with a banquet at the Penn Hotel at noon Monday, with Louisiana Tech basketball coach Cecil Crowley guest speaker. Trophies will also be awarded to members of the first team.

Williams scored 14 points for the host girls in the finals and Landrum got 9 for Logtown.

Logtown beat Swartz girls, 29-26, in the semifinals with Landrum scoring 17 points. Martin had 9 for the losers. Swartz routed Woodlawn in a boys' semifinal, 40-22, with Freeman scoring 16. Rogers and Griggs got 6 each for Woodlawn.

JACKSONVILLE OPEN

Wright Out Front By Two Strokes

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., carved a subpar 70 out of her favorite Hyde Park Municipal golf course Saturday and increased her lead in the Jacksonville Women s Open to two strokes.

The 24-year-old two-time winner of the $6,000 tourney had shaken off all but about three challengers going into Sunday's final round with a score of 214.

Miss Wright played methodically and never was in serious trouble. She had only one bogey in firing identical nines of 35 over the par 36-36—72 course where she has played some of her best golf in recent years. The bogey came on the par 3 fourth hole, where her tee shot went into a trap.

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., stayed close on the heels of her close friend and traveling companion on the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. tour. Miss Rawls had a 71 for a three-round total of 216.

Marlene Hagge, redhead from Pittsburgh, matched par 72 for a total of 220. Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., pulled into contention with a 70 for 221.

In scoring her second 70 of the tourney, Miss Wright reached almost every green in standard figures. She birdied three holes sinking a 15-foot putt on one of them and getting close with iron shots for easier birds on the other two.

Miss Rawls had four birdies but two poor chip shots and a 3-putt green resulted in a trio of bogeys. Miss Suggs, like Miss Wright, was never in trouble and played a steady 70.

The leaders:

Mickey Wright	70-74-70—214
Betsy Rawls	72-73-71—216
Marlene Hagge	73-75-72—220
Louise Suggs	75-76-70—221
Fay Crocker	73-75-77—225
Marilynn Smith	77-72-78—227
Patty Berg	74-75-78—227
Betty Rush	73-77-77—227
Jo Ann Prentice	76-75-77—228
Beverly Hanson	74-77-77—228
Wiffi Smith	76-75-78—229
Jackie Pung	77-75-77—229
Ruth Jessen	78-76-76—230

BREAKS OWN MARK

Delany Establishes New Record For Indoor Mile

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ireland's Ron Delany clinched a spot as one of foot racing's all-time greats Saturday night with a blazing last-lap kick which nailed Hungary's Istvan Rozsavolgyi by a stride with a new world indoor mile record of 4:01.4, at Madison Square Garden.

The Olympic 1,500-meter champion smashed his own two-week-old world indoor mark of 4:02.5 as he rambled to his 31st consecutive indoor mile triumph and his 37th straight indoor triumph in the Columbian mile.

He almost gave it away when, with a lap and a half to go, Hungary's 2,000-meter world record holder jumped on top to a 10-yard lead. But Delany moved in behind the hammering Hungarian and then nipped him at the tape as the crowd of 13,000 rocked the rafters at this Knights of Columbus track meet. Rozsavolgyi himself bettered the two-week old mark as he was clocked in 4:01.8.

The mile was the feature of the closing indoor meeting of the garden season in which a rhubarb developed as highly-regarded Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem was disqualified for two false starts in the high hurdles semi-finals.

Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan College won the 60 highs in 7.1, Paul Winder of Morgan State took the 60-yard dash in 6.3 seconds; Don Bragg, ex - Villanova star, scored his 10th straight Garden win with a 15-foot vault; Tom Murphy of Manhattan equalled his own fastest time of the year winning the 1000 in 2:09.3 and Josh Culbreath of the New York Pioneer Club captured the 600 in 1:10.9.

Jones, the outdoor intercolegiate champion, blazed out of his chocks to win the 60-yard high hurdles by a nose in the meet record equalling time of 7.1 seconds.

Lee Calhoun, the Olympic high Hurdles champion from North Carolina College, finished second with Charley Pratt of the Philadelphia Pioneer Club third. Gilbert of Winston - Salem Teachers College, one of the event favorites, was disqualified in the semi-finals for too many false starts.

Another rhubarb in the strife which has riddled the track world during the indoor season developed as a result of Gilbert's disqualification in the hurdles.

"Pratt pulled Gilbert off the mark in the high hurdles," said Winston - Salem Coach Wilbur Ross. "I believe the starter deliberately tried to confuse the runners instead of helping them."

Starter John Tomasco of Newark, N. J., was undisturbed by the hurdles dispute.

"Gilbert broke twice, and that's all there is to it," he said.

Tom Murphy, former Manhattan star running for the New York A.C., held off a stirring last-lap bid by Germany's Paul Schmidt to win the invitation 1,000 yard run by a stride in 2:09.3, which equallied his own fastest time of the indoor season in the Boston A.A. games. North Carolina's Dave Scurlock was third.

Scurlock held the lead through the first four laps as Arnie Sowell, formerly of Pitt, hung on in second with Schmidt and Murphy. With one lap to go and Schmidt hemmed in on the pole, Murphy burst into a 10-yard lead and barely fought off the fast-closing German.

Virginia State's mile relay team easily won a baton-passing event in 3:26.1 with Catholic University second and Providence third.

Pieyed ran the 6-furlong test for 3-year-olds in 1:10 3-5. He returned $6.10, $4.20 and $3.30. Dr. J. Howard, ridden by Warren Ferguson, paid $5.80 and $3.90, and Little Dan, $10.10.

Milton Linder led the Franklin Parish team in scoring with 29 points. Walter Ledet got 21 to pace St. Mary's.

Negreet built up an early lead and held on for the triumph. They had a 25-19 lead at the end of the first period and held a 40-35 lead at intermission. Both teams scored eight points in the third quarter and Negreet got 14 to Ogden's 12 in the final period.

The loss was only the second of the year for Ogden, another Franklin Parish team.

Both teams were extremely hot from the floor. Negreet hit on 28 of 50 tries from the floor and Ogden connected on 23 of 40.

Ogden gained the finals with a 51-24 victory over Holden. Miss Thompson was high for Ogden with 34 points while Carlee Forbes got 10 for Holden.

BUD FOSTER

Wisconsin Hoop Coach Quits Post

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Bud Foster quit Saturday as basketball coach of the University of Wisconsin after a quarter century of service, thus beating his alma mater to the expected punch. He then accepted a position on the faculty.

The 52-year - old Kansan, who was dean of Big Ten basketball coaches, had been operating on a one-year reprieve since last season with the understanding that he produce a winner or else. He didn't.

The university board of regents, acting on the recommendation of the athletic board, accepted Foster's resignation Saturday before the Badgers' final game of their worst season in history.

Foster was named professor of athletics and director of Grans-in-aid and related programs at the university. His annual salary of $11,450 will be continued in his new post.

No mention was made of a successor, but there is some sentiment for John Erickson, the first full-time assistant coach Foster ever had. Erickson, 30, a resident of Rockford, Ill., was hired last year when the athletic board loosened its purse strings in an effort to hoist Wisconsin out of the basketball depths.

Dr. Conrad A. Elvehjem, president of the university, said that in submitting his resignation to the athletic board Wednesday Foster did so "in the hope of seeing an improvement in the future of Wisconsin's basketball."

"There have been no pressures from within the university for Foster's resignation," Dr. Elvehjem asserted.

Foster, a tall, slim man who makes friends easily, has had a tiger by the tail for the past few seasons. His 1957 - 58 team finished last in the Big Ten—another first for Wisconsin—and his current squad was doomed to the cellar as early as a week ago.

The current Badger team, in Bloomington for its season finale has an over-all record of 3-18 and a Big Ten mark of 1-12. Both are Wisconsin lows. The Badgers' only victories were upsets over Purdue, Missouri and Notre Dame.

Bud has had his better years, though. He coached the Badgers to conference championships in 1941 and 1947 and to a share of the title in 1935. His '41 team also won the NCAA crown.

Ballhawks, Ransom Cop Meet Titles

The Ballhawks emerged as the top Midget team and Ransom took top honors among the Pee Wees in tournaments sponsored by the Monroe Recreation Department yesterday.

G. Hudson popped in 11 points to pace the Ballhawks past St. Matthews, 36-14, in the Midget finals. Goldman put in 6 points to head the Irish. The Ballhawks had trounced Logtown, 30-20, in the semi-finals, while St. Matthews downed the Eagles, 16-15. Hudson again led his team with 10 points, and G. Shipp collected 9 for Logtown.

High for St. Matthews in the semi-finals was again Goldman with 7 points. Oglesbee dropped in 5 for the Birds.

In preliminary Midget scraps, Logtown beat the Sharps, 13-11, and St. Matthews tripped the Sharpshooters, 14-7. G. Shipp had 9 for Logtown and Shaw scored 6 for the losers. Cernigliaro was high for St. Matthews, while Sparks and Moses, with 3 each, paced the Sharpshooters.

Gross netted 10 points as Ransom routed the Eagles in the Pee Wee finals 17-6. The winners had advanced the finals with an 18-13 verdict over the Tom cats. Alexander dropped in 10 for the champs and Howell, with 10, sparked the losing effort.

Robertson and Olson had 4 points apiece as the Eagles nipped the Colts, 10-8, in their semi-final tussle. Loftin sank 3 for the Colts.

Opening round games in the Pee Wee division saw the Colts, Tomcats and Ransom triumph and First Methodist drop a forfeit to the Eagles. McKeithen dunked 8 counters as the Colts edged Logtown, 23-18. Shipp made 8 for the loses. Eight points by Powell boosted the Tomcats past St. Matthews, 14-8. High for the losers was Miletello with 5.

Ransom breezed past College Place, 21-14. Alexander tallied 9 for the winners and Howell put in 9 for the losers.

HAGAN, WILLIAMS SPARKLE

Two GSC Marks Beaten As Northeast Wins Meet

By BOB ANDERSON

Jack Williams and Gene Hagan bettered Gulf States Conference records, Dave Styron beat Pat Garrett in the 100 and brother Don in the 220, and 14 Brown Stadium records fell as Northeast whipped Louisiana Tech and defending GSC champion McNeese in a triangular track meet here Saturday afternoon.

Coach Lew Hartzog's thinclads scored 96½ points to 61 for Tech and 26½ for McNeese to easily win the team championship of the meet, run off under sunny skies before approximately 2,000 fans.

The meet was scored on a 5-3-2-1 point basis, 5 points for first place, 3 for second, 2 for third and 1 for fourth.

Northeast's Hagan soared over the bar at 13 feet, three inches to beat the existing GSC record in the pole vault and Williams sped over the two mile in nine minutes, 47.7 seconds, 3.4 seconds under the conference record of 9:51.1 set by Jack Frater of McNeese, who finished third yesterday.

Williams, running a high fever and suffering with a sore throat before the meet, was held out of the mile.

Hagan's vault was three inches better than the record held by three men. Hagan tried, and almost made, 13-6.

Neither Williams' nor Hagan's performances qualify as records. All GSC records must be set in the league's annual track meet.

Hagan, a Brush, Colorado, senior, tied with Dave Styron in the unofficial individual point totals. Each had 16.

Hagan, besides winning the vault ,was first in the shot put tied for second in the high jump, took third in the low hurdles and fourth in the javelin and discus.

Dave Styron won the 100 and 220, was second in the broad jump, tied for second in the high jump and was fourth in the vault.

Don Syron picked up 13 points with wins in both hurdle events and a second in the 220.

Dave won the century with about four feet to spare over Garrett. He edged brother Don by about four inches in the 220 in the first meet duel between the two since their high school days at Wheatridge, Colorado. Garrett did not participate in the 220.

As expected, Brown Stadium records fell like flies. New marks were set in the high and low hurdles, the mile, the 440 relay, the 440 dash, the 880 relay, the 880 run, the 220, the two-mile, the mile relay, the high jump, the broad jump, the pole vault and the javelin.

Northeast records were shattered in only three events, the vault and the 440 dash. Hagan's pole vault beat his old mark of 12-7. Dick Hays ran the 440 in 49.4, bettering Harper McKay's mark of 51.9. Williams' two-mile was short of Buddy Eiland's mark of 9:33.8.

Bob Jaenicke, although finishing second, set a Northeast record in the 880 run with a time of 1:57.5, shattering the mark of 2:07 set by Williams last year.

All told, Northeast took first place in 13 of the 17 events. Tech had four firsts and McNeese was shut out.

Cowboy coach Wayne Hanson brought only 14 boys to the meet. The McNeese team, which edged Northwestern for the loop title last season, has been hampered by bad weather most of the young season.

Don Troutman, GSC record holder in the broad jump, did not make the trip for McNeese. The versatile sophomore was held out of the meet because of an operation he underwent during the week to correct an old hand injury.

Northeast winners were Don Styron in both hurdle events, Dave in the century and 220, Hagan in the vault and shot, Dick Hays in the 440, Jerry Ivy in the broad jump, Robert McGough in the javelin and Williams in the two-mile. Northeast's Dave Styron, Ivy, Roger Beumer and Don Styron won the 440 relay, Byron Pearson, Beumer, Ivy and Hays took the 880 relay and the Sugar Bowl champions, Dave Styron, Mouser, Hays and Don Styron won the mile relay.

Bob Hayes won the mile, Russell Lewis the 880, Dave Tillinghast the high jump and Ken Strong the discus for Tech.

Williams jumped into a quick lead in the two-mile run, and had a 55-yard lead going into the fourth lap. He increased it every lap and was approximately 100 yards in front at the finish, drawing probably the day's heaviest applause.

Hartzog said he was pleased with his team's performance but added, "We're got a long way to go."

"We're in much better condition right now than Tech and McNeese and they'll come up on us as the season goes on," he said.

"Hagan was tremendous for so early in the season. I thought he would make 13-6."

Rangers Turn Back Hawks In TV Scrap

CHICAGO (AP)—The New York Rangers combined the standout goalie play of Gump Worsley with a potent attack to whip the Chicago Black Hawks 6-1 in a televised National Hockey League game Saturday.

By handing second place Chicago its first home loss in eight games, the fourth place Rangers pulled to within five points of the Black Hawks' perch.

First period goals by Andy Bathgate, who picked up three points for the afternoon, Larry Popien, Ed Shack and Red Sullivan sent the Rangers on their way to victory.

Worsley turned back a blistering Hawks' attack in the scoreless second period, making 16 saves. Then the Rangers turned the game into a rout on goals by Dean Prentice and Andy Hebenton in the final period.

Although the game was not particularly rough, one player from each team was badly cut. Chicago's Pierre Pilote required eight stitches to close a cut ear, while Sullivan suffered a gashed forehead when hit by a flying puck near the Ranger cage.

Bathgate's performance gave him 34 goals and 42 assists for a total of 76 and a temporary lead in the NHL scoring race.

Cincy Topped By Bradley In 84-66 Tilt

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—The Bradley Braves, doing their damage at the free throw line, Saturday spilled the Cincinnati Bearcats 84-66 to keep a chance flickering for a Missouri Valley Conference basketball title tie. Bradley trailed at halftime 37-29.

The Braves avenged a double overtime 85-84 defeat by Cincinnati Jan. 5. They raised their MVC record to 12-2 and left Cincinnati at 12-1 with a league home finale against St. Louis Monday night.

Cincinnati, whose All-America Oscar Robertson scored 24 points, gained the halftime bulge although hampered by Bradley's surprise use of the zone defense. The Braves had played man-to-man at Cincinnati.

Both shot on a par from the field, 40 per cent, but the Bearcats had more baskets, 29 to 25.

The Braves' free throw damage really was done when there were 11 minutes to play and the one-and-one situation was invoked on Cincinnati s seventh foul.

Bradley outrebounded Cincinnati, 36-30 and committed only 13 personal fouls compared with the Bearcats' 24.

The Braves, whose switch back to a man-to-man in the second half befuddled Cincinnati, outscored the Bearcats 27-6 in the first 11 minutes of the closing half.

From there they maintained a 10 to 12-point lead the rest of the way.

Robertson, who carried a 34-point average into game, was bothered by Bradley's squeezing zone in the first half when he scored only 10 points.

The Big O finally got going in the last five minutes of the game, scoring 10 points.

Cincinnati was shooting for the MVC record for consecutive victories. The record of 23 was set by Oklahoma A&M in the 1946-48 era. The Bearcats had won their last 16 consecutive games to tie a school record.

Meanwhile, Bradley boosted its home record to 21 straight and now sits back to await the outcome of the Cincinnati-St. Louis battle. If the Bearcats beat St. Louis, they automatically go to the NCAA as the MVC representative and Bradley will go to the NIT.

Big Ten To Consider New Aid Proposal

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A proposal that may be a help to its recruiting was taken under advisement by the Big Ten Saturday as its annual spring business meeting ended.

The proposal, which was passed from the faculty representatives to the athletic directors, is designed to give assurance to a prospective athlete that he will have financial aid under the need plan for four full years.

The present formula provides aid for one year only. It is renewed if the student keeps up his grades.

Normal academic progress under the proposal would assure an automatic four years of aid.

Such a rule change would be minor, but would provide a much better selling pitch. A Big Ten spokesman said it may help combat recruiting in the Big Ten area by outside schools.

Registration For Leagues Begins

Registration for boys 8 through 12 years of age who plan to play Little League or Minor League baseball this year is now being held at the Community Center located at 113½ Catalpa St.

Dixie League and Pelican League registration is also in progress. Deadline for all entries is March 31.

Those interested in playing are urged not to wait until the season begins to sign up.

Athletics Sign Hector Lopez

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Infielder Hector Lopez signed his 1959 contract with the Kansas City Athletics Saturday, leaving the club with only one holdout.

Lopez, who hopes to become a regular at second base, arrived this morning and signed after a short conference with General Manager Parke Carroll.

Terrang, Bug Brush Enter S. Bernardino

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Terrang and Bug Brush, two of Santa Anita's big handicap winners this meeting, were named Saturday for Monday's $50,000-added San Bernardino Handicap at a mile and one-sixteenth.

A field of eight was named and if they all start the winner will net $30,000.

Value of the stakes was doubled by the track because of the meeting between Terrang and Bug Brush.

Terrang, owned by Poltex Stable and Roland Bond won the recent $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap, over one and one-quarter miles, in two minutes flat. The 6-year-old has won nine stakes — more than any other horse in Santa Anita history.

Bug Brush, the sensational filly, owned by C. V. Whitney, galloped to a world record 1:46 2-5 in winning the $50,000-added San Antonio Handicap at a mile and one-eighth.

The older Terrang, will Bill Boland in the saddle, carries top impost of 126 pounds for the race, three more than for the filly.

Bug Brush will be ridden by Willie Shoemaker. Angel Valenzuela, her regular jockey, is under a riding suspension.

Other entries include George C. Newell's How Now, N. S. McCarthy's Seaneen, Llangollen Farm's Social Climber, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Shapiro's Swaps Kin, Ralph Lowe's Royal Clove, and Jaeson and Elmore's Ying Andg Yang.

ROUSING FINISH

Silver Spoon First Across Wire In Santa Anita Derby

By BOB MYERS

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Unbeaten Silver Spoon, the lone filly in the field, captured the $147,300 Santa Anita Derby Saturday in a rousing charge to the wire.

Ridden by jockey Ray York, the chestnut daughter of the great Citation beat off a strong stretch challenge in the stretch from Royal Orbit, with Fightin Indian, the pacesetter, third in the field of 10 3-year-olds.

A grtat cheer went up from the crowd of 58,000 as Silver Spoon trotted back into the winner's circle, to be greeted by her socialite owner, C. V. Whitney.

Silver Spoon, a product of Kentucky, went to the post the betting favorite to become the second filly in the 22 editions of the Derby to win the big race. Back in 1939 Ciencia from the King Ranch turned the trick.

The time for the mile and one-eighth, raced over a fast track was 1.49 as compared to the fastest time in the Derby's history 1.48 4-5 by Young Host in 1950.

Silver Spoon paid $5, $3.90 and $3.50. Royal Orbit, ridden by Willie Shoemaker for the estate of the late Jacques Braunstein, paid $5.50 and $4.30, and Fightin Indian, owned by W. G. Gilmore, with Johnny Longden aboard, paid $9.40.

Silver Spoon, carrying 113 pounds to 118 for the colts, beat back Royal Orbit and won by 2½ lengths in racing to her sixth straight triumph, four of them in stakes victories here.

Finnegan, with William Harmatz in the saddle, managed to get up to fifth after laying far off the pace, while Ole Fols, who burned himself out in fighting Fightin Indian for the front end, wound up ninth.

Silver Spoon, heading for a crack at the Kentucky Derby, picked up a net $95,300 for her victory. She had been made a supplementary entry on payment of $5,000 fee by her wealthy and proud owner.

The original field of 12 was trimmed when Travis M. Kerr and George Lewis' Prince LewKer and Silver Spoon's running mate, Jungle Dancer, were scratched.

Passing the grandstand the first time Longden had front running Fightin Indian out in front by a length. It was Fightin Indian, Ole Fols and Silver Spoon in that order rushing around the club house turn, into and on down the back stretch.

At the far turn Fightin Indian still had it by a length or more, but Silver Spoon was beginning to fly. Finnegan suddenly bolted into contention, too, and then came Willie Shoemaker on Royal Orbit.

In the driving finish, Silver Spoon maintained her 2 - length lead over the challenging Royal Orbit as the others faded and fell back.

The derbies and fillies figure in the Whitney racing history. In 1915 Regret became the only filly to win the Kentucky Derby. She was owned by Whitney's father, Harry Payne Whitney.

Silver Spoon Headed For 'Tucky Derby

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Owner C. V. Whitney late Saturday said his filly star, Silver Spoon, winner of the Santa Anita Derby, will race in the Kentucky Derby if she comes out successfully from her big victory.

He disclosed the daughter of Citation as a weanling developed a hip injury. This kept her out of racing until late in 1958.

Silver Spoon, he said, has gradually worked herself out of the lameness.

"We'll wait for a week or so, and if she came out of the race all right, I think she deserves a chance to run in the Kentucky Derby," Whitney said.

Whitney explained why Silver Spoon in her first start was entered in a claiming race for $8,000. It was done without his knowledge because his handlers at the time felt that the lameness might ruin her racing career.

Hartack, Agent Settle Dispute

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jockey Willie Hartack and his agent, Chick Lang, apparently have settled their differences.

Lang announced Friday he and Hartack had split up.

"Something has gotten into the boy that I am powerless to handle," Lang said.

Saturday the agent said he and Hartack, the nation's leading jockey in 1955, 1956 and 1957, have had a "man-to-man talk" and reached an understanding."

"We have had good business dealings for five years and although our relations have been strained before, I think we'll be able to make a go of it again," Lang said.

Beman Takes 3rd South Fla. Golf Crown

JUPITER, Fla. (AP) — Deane Beman, 20-year-old Walker Cup player from Bethesda, Md., won his third South Florida Amateur Golf Championship Saturday 6 and 5 over hometown rival, John Eisinger Jr.

Beman, winner every time he has entered this tourney, had little trouble repeating his 1955 and 1956 triumphs. He had a par 71 on the first 18 against Eisinger's 75 and went into the afternoon round 4-up.

The two Bethesda players maintained their relative positions until they completed the front nine. Then Eisinger sank 10 foot birdie putts on the 27th and 28th holes and cut his deficit to three down.

But Beman 3 under par at the finish, came back to wrap it up at the 31st hole with a series of iron shots and putts which Eisinger couldn't match.

Kerby Downs Judy Bell In Florida Meet

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Betty Kerby of Akron, Ohio, played a steady golf game Saturday for a 4 and 3 victory in the 18-hole final round of the Florida East Coast Women's Amateur.

Her victim was Judy Bell, 22-year-old Wichita, Kan. college senior who was erratic in her approach shots and her short game. The victory was the first in a Florida tournament for Miss Kerby, daughter of Ed Kerby, veteran Akron pro.

Miss Bell's trouble with her approach shots began on the first hole where she lost to Miss Kerby. At the turn Miss Kerby was two up with the aid of a birdie 2 on the ninth.

The 10th hole was a big one. Miss Kerby, off the green on her second shot, chipped up and was down in par 4 while Miss Bell needed three putts and lost the hole.

Miss Bell trimmed the margin to two temporarily on the 11th but dropped three back again on the 12th when her second shot went into a bunker. Miss Kerby took the hole with a par 4.

On the 14th Miss Bell again missed her approach shot and Miss Kerby stretched her advantage to four when she came through with a par 5. The match ended when the two finalists halved the 15th.

HAGAN, WILLIAMS SPARKLE

Two GSC Marks Beaten As Northeast Wins Meet

By BOB ANDERSON

Jack Williams and Gene Hagan bettered Gulf States Conference records, Dave Styron beat Pat Garrett in the 100 and brother Don in the 220, and 14 Brown Stadium records fell as Northeast whipped Louisiana Tech and defending GSC champion McNeese in a triangular track meet here Saturday afternoon.

Coach Lew Hartzog's thinclads scored 96½ points to 61 for Tech and 26½ for McNeese to easily win the team championship of the meet, run off under sunny skies before approximately 2,000 fans.

The meet was scored on a 5-3-2-1 point basis, 5 points for first place, 3 for second, 2 for third and 1 for fourth.

Northeast's Hagan soared over the bar at 13 feet, three inches to beat the existing GSC record in the pole vault and Williams sped over the two mile in nine minutes, 47.7 seconds, 3.4 seconds under the conference record of 9:51.1 set by Jack Frater of McNeese, who finished third yesterday.

Williams, running a high fever and suffering with a sore throat before the meet, was held out of the mile.

Hagan's vault was three inches better than the record held by three men. Hagan tried, and almost made, 13-6.

Neither Williams' nor Hagan's performances qualify as records. All GSC records must be set in the league's annual track meet.

Hagan, a Brush, Colorado, senior, tied with Dave Styron in the unofficial individual point totals. Each had 16.

Hagan, besides winning the vault ,was first in the shot put tied for second in the high jump, took third in the low hurdles and fourth in the javelin and discus.

Dave Styron won the 100 and 220, was second in the broad jump, tied for second in the high jump and was fourth in the vault.

Don Syron picked up 13 points with wins in both hurdle events and a second in the 220.

Dave won the century with about four feet to spare over Garrett. He edged brother Don by about four inches in the 220 in the first meet duel between the two since their high school days at Wheatridge, Colorado. Garrett did not participate in the 220.

As expected, Brown Stadium records fell like flies. New marks were set in the high and low hurdles, the mile, the 440 relay, the 440 dash, the 880 relay, the 880 run, the 220, the two-mile, the mile relay, the high jump, the broad jump, the pole vault and the javelin.

Northeast records were shattered in only three events, the vault and the 440 dash. Hagan's pole vault beat his old mark of 12-7. Dick Hays ran the 440 in 49.4, bettering Harper McKay's mark of 51.9. Williams' two-mile was short of Buddy Eiland's mark of 9:33.8.

Bob Jaenicke, although finishing second, set a Northeast record in the 880 run with a time of 1:57.5, shattering the mark of 2:07 set by Williams last year.

All told, Northeast took first place in 13 of the 17 events. Tech had four firsts and McNeese was shut out.

Cowboy coach Wayne Hanson brought only 14 boys to the meet. The McNeese team, which edged Northwestern for the loop title last season, has been hampered by bad weather most of the young season.

Don Troutman, GSC record holder in the broad jump, did not make the trip for McNeese. The versatile sophomore was held out of the meet because of an operation he underwent during the week to correct an old hand injury.

Northeast winners were Don Styron in both hurdle events, Dave in the century and 220, Hagan in the vault and shot, Dick Hays in the 440, Jerry Ivy in the broad jump, Robert McGough in the javelin and Williams in the two-mile. Northeast's Dave Styron, Ivy, Roger Beumer and Don Styron won the 440 relay, Byron Pearson, Beumer, Ivy and Hays took the 880 relay and the Sugar Bowl champions, Dave Styron, Mouser, Hays and Don Styron won the mile relay.

Bob Hayes won the mile, Russell Lewis the 880, Dave Tillinghast the high jump and Ken Strong the discus for Tech.

Williams jumped into a quick lead in the two-mile run, and had a 55-yard lead going into the fourth lap. He increased it every lap and was approximately 100 yards in front at the finish, drawing probably the day's heaviest applause.

Hartzog said he was pleased with his team's performance but added, "We're got a long way to go."

"We're in much better condition right now than Tech and McNeese and they'll come up on us as the season goes on," he said.

"Hagan was tremendous for so early in the season. I thought he would make 13-6."

The summary:

Rangers Turn Back Hawks In TV Scrap

CHICAGO (AP)—The New York Rangers combined the standout goalie play of Gump Worsley with a potent attack to whip the Chicago Black Hawks 6-1 in a televised National Hockey League game Saturday.

By handing second place Chicago its first home loss in eight games, the fourth place Rangers pulled to within five points of the Black Hawks' perch.

First period goals by Andy Bathgate, who picked up three points for the afternoon, Larry Popien, Ed Shack and Red Sullivan sent the Rangers on their way to victory.

Worsley turned back a blistering Hawks' attack in the scoreless second period, making 16 saves. Then the Rangers turned the game into a rout on goals by Dean Prentice and Andy Hebenton in the final period.

Although the game was not particularly rough, one player from each team was badly cut. Chicago's Pierre Pilote required eight stitches to close a cut ear, while Sullivan suffered a gashed forehead when hit by a flying puck near the Ranger cage.

Bathgate's performance gave him 34 goals and 42 assists for a total of 76 and a temporary lead in the NHL scoring race.

"Something has gotten into the boy that I am powerless to handle," Lang said.

Saturday the agent said he and Hartack, the nation's leading jockey in 1955, 1956 and 1957, have had a "man-to-man talk" and reached an understanding."

"We have had good business dealings for five years and although our relations have been strained before, I think we'll be able to make a go of it again," Lang said.

Beman Takes 3rd South Fla. Golf Crown

JUPITER, Fla. (AP) — Deane Beman, 20-year-old Walker Cup player from Bethesda, Md., won his third South Florida Amateur Golf Championship Saturday 6 and 5 over hometown rival, John Eisinger Jr.

Beman, winner every time he has entered this tourney, had little trouble repeating his 1955 and 1956 triumphs. He had a par 71 on the first 18 against Eisinger's 75 and went into the afternoon round 4-up.

The two Bethesda players maintained their relative positions until they completed the front nine. Then Eisinger sank 10 foot birdie putts on the 27th and 28th holes and cut his deficit to three down.

But Beman 3 under par at the finish, came back to wrap it up at the 31st hole with a series of iron shots and putts which Eisinger couldn't match.

Kerby Downs Judy Bell In Florida Meet

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Betty Kerby of Akron, Ohio, played a steady golf game Saturday for a 4 and 3 victory in the 18-hole final round of the Florida East Coast Women's Amateur.

Her victim was Judy Bell, 22-year-old Wichita, Kan. college senior who was erratic in her approach shots and her short game. The victory was the first in a Florida tournament for Miss Kerby, daughter of Ed Kerby, veteran Akron pro.

Miss Bell's trouble with her approach shots began on the first hole where she lost to Miss Kerby. At the turn Miss Kerby was two up with the aid of a birdie 2 on the ninth.

The 10th hole was a big one. Miss Kerby, off the green on her second shot, chipped up and was down in par 4 while Miss Bell needed three putts and lost the hole.

Miss Bell trimmed the margin to two temporarily on the 11th but dropped three back again on the 12th when her second shot went into a bunker. Miss Kerby took the hole with a par 4.

On the 14th Miss Bell again missed her approach shot and Miss Kerby stretched her advantage to four when she came through with a par 5. The match ended when the two finalists halved the 15th.

CARDINAL ACE TIRING

Stan Plans Slow Spring Schedule

By JOE REICHLER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Stan (The Man) Musial, the seemingly indestructible superstar of the St. Louis Cardinals, is finally giving ground. Grudgingly but surely.

The famed 3,000 hitmaker and holder of more records than any National League player in history, was 38 last Nov. 21 and there were times last year when he felt every month of it.

"I'm going to try to conserve my energy this season," he said. "I hope to play in fewer spring exhibition games. I definitely am not going to play both ends of doubleheaders. And I'm going to ask Solly (Manager Solly Hemus) for an occasional day off during the hot spells. I think in this way I'll be able to play in about 125 to 130 games and be more valuable to the club.

"I got awfully tired last year. The last two months I was really worn out. I lost my power."

Musial batted a highly respectable .337, a figure good enough to place him third among the leaders. But his runs batted in dropped from 102 to 62. It was his lowest RBI total since he began playing regularly in 1942.

Musial thinks the switch from first base to the outfield will help him.

"It's much more wearing on you to play first base," he explained. "You're in on almost every play and even when you're not you have to start in on every pitch. There's no such constant moving about in the outfield. You can relax more."

Musial had a hunch this will be a good year for him.

"I think I can do as well, if not better, than last year," he said. "I'd like very much to win the batting championship this year."

Stan has still another goal. He would like to reach 3,500 hits. That would put him ahead of Honus Wagner's 3,430 and make him the champion hit getter in National League history.

"I should make it in two years," said the man who accumulated 3,116 hits in 16 and a fraction seasons. "So I'm sure I'm going to play this year and next, at least. Then I'll wait and see.

"It's a challenge. I'll play as long as I can help the club."

Little Eight To Select New Name Monday

The Little Eight Baseball League will hold its final meeting under that name at 7 o'clock Monday night at the P&K Cafe in West Monroe, president Don Zeigler announced yesterday.

Zeigler said a new name for the circuit would be selected at the meeting and final organization plans made for the coming season.

Zeigler urged any teams interested in joining the amateur loop to attend the meeting.

Master Palynch Wins La. Derby

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Master Palynch, an import from Florida, jumped to an early lead and outlasted the favored Sputnik's stretch charge to win the $50,425 Louisiana Derby at the Fair Grounds Saturday.

The 3-year-old son of Attention was a nose to the good as he and Sputnik went under the wire. Festival King took the show spot.

Master Palynch shattered the track record for the mile and one-eighth as the Fair Grounds closed its 85-day winter meeting. His time of 1:49 2-5 knocked one-fifth of a second off the track standard.

The oddly-named colt, owned by the Sair and Watkins Stable, was overlooked by the 17,000 fans who installed Sputnik a 3-2 favorite. Master Palynch returned $13.40, $6.40 and $4. Sputnik, whose three earlier victories at the Fair Grounds convinced the big crowd, paid $3.60 and $2.60. Festival King, owned by C. D. Fischbach and winner of the Derby Trial last Monday, returned $3.20.

Preston Madden s Dhaulagiri held the second spot for the first mile and had Broussard pushing Master Palynch on the lead. Jockey Johnny Heckmann held Sputnik back in fifth place during the early running and was waiting to make his charge at the head of the stretch.

Master Palynch swept around the final turn with a length lead as Dhaulagiri and Copalan Stables' Joe's Master faded. But Heckmann had Sputnik rolling on the outside.

Sputnik caught up with Master Palynch inside the last sixteenth of a mile but Broussard had Master Palynch stretching for all he was worth and the Florida invader had the shade at the wire.

A check for $35,600 was waiting his Canadian owners at the finish line. The decision thrust the colt into consideration for the spring classics—the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

Trailing the top quartet were Dhaulagiri, Frosty Star, who was an entry with Festival King; Paxton Harghill's That Black One; Reverie Knoll Farms' Smoke Stream; Mrs. Roger Wilson's Jackie Price; Joe's Master; and Briarwood, Jackie Price's running mate and the field's only filly.

Monroe's nine - Year - olds triumphed 18-6, and the ten - year - olds won 18-14.

MEET STRONG, CURTIS

Petroff, Laye In Tag Team Tangle

An unhappy Serg Petroff and Charley Laye, back wrestling after a stormy stint as a referee, meet Jack Curtis and Bill Strong in Monday's main event at B&B Arena.

This 90-minute, two-falls-to-win bout heads a card also featuring a pair of 10-minute prelims involving the main event gladiators.

Petroff claims he was "double-crossed" last week. Being a Russian, he should know.

Petroff and Brummett lost to the Curtis brothers last week and Serg feels Phil did not put forth his best effort.

Serg is quite pleased with the prospect of teaming with Laye, believing bad Charley worthy of trust.

Laye appeared here a couple of weeks ago as a ref, and made about as big a hit with the fans as he does as a wrestler.

Promoter August Baumgartner says local fans will be well pleased with Strong, Curtis' partner, calling him a strong, nice-looking grappler.

Michigan In 18th Big Ten Track Victory

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — With sophomore Tom Robinson of Nassau shattering the 300-yard dash record and matching the 60-yard sprint mark, Michigan Saturday swept to its 18th Big Ten indoor track title since 1911.

Robinson, the British Empire Games 220-yard winner, was the meet's only double winner and individual record smasher in leading the Wolverines to 71 points while defending champion Illinois took 48 for second place.

He drilled through the 60-yard dash in :06.1 to match the meet record set by Ohio State's Jesse Owens in 1935 and equalled the next year by Michigan's Sam Stoller.

Twenty minutes later, the husky Robinson flashed the 300 yards in :30.3, knocking five - tenths of a second from the Big Ten mark set by Illinois' Ralph Fessenden in 1955 and matching the American record booked by Herb McKinley of Illinois in 1947.

A 300-yard time of :30.0 by Bill Barnwell of Pitt in the recent Michigan State Relays has been submitted for recognition as an American record.

Foreign athletes proved to be the big stars of the meet.

Tony Seth of British Guiana, another Michigan sophomore, won the 880 by a step from George Kerr, Illinois Jamaican sophomore. The time of 1:55.3 was comparatively slow.

Michigan captured 6 firsts and 5 seconds in winning the team title with the second highest point tally in the meet's history. The all time high was 75¼ by Michigan in 1944.

RUNAWAY SCRATCHED

MIAMI (UPI) — Trainer Eddie Holton offered an unusual excuse when he scratched Matisse from the Hibiscus Stakes in Hialeah. "He was frightened by a lion and ran away," he said. The lion, in a circus playing at Tropical Park where Matisse was stabbed, roared during a workout and the colt took off.

Kansas State Romps Over Tigers, 108-69

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—The Kansas State Wildcats, packed by All - America Bob Boozer's 32 points, crushed the Missouri Tigers 108-69 in a Big Eight basketball game that saw the nation's No. 2 team use its reserves freely.

It was the first time this year the Wildcats had scored more than 100 points and the mark of 108 points tied a previous conference record, also made by Kansas State, against Nebraska in 1953.

All-America Bob Boozer got 21 of his points in the first half. He saw less action in the second half as Coach Tex Winter cleaned his bench to put more players in.

The Tigers, winners of only two conference games, scored the first field goal but that was the only time they had a lead. Once, midway in the first half they got up to within one point of the Wildcats, 20-21, but the Kansans quickly pulled away and held a 59-37 lead at the half.

Twice toward the end of the game the Wildcats had leads of 41 points.

Kansas State hit 53.8 for the game, while the visitors hit 41.

CARDINAL ACE TIRING

Stan Plans Slow Spring Schedule

By JOE REICHLER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Stan (The Man) Musial, the seemingly indestructible superstar of the St. Louis Cardinals, is finally giving ground. Grudgingly but surely.

The famed 3,000 hitmaker and holder of more records than any National League player in history, was 38 last Nov. 21 and there were times last year when he felt every month of it.

"I'm going to try to conserve my energy this season," he said. "I hope to play in fewer spring exhibition games. I definitely am not going to play both ends of doubleheaders. And I'm going to ask Solly (Manager Solly Hemus) for an occasional day off during the hot spells. I think in this way I'll be able to play in about 125 to 130 games and be more valuable to the club.

"I got awfully tired last year. The last two months I was really worn out. I lost my power."

Musial batted a highly respectable .337, a figure good enough to place him third among the leaders. But his runs batted in dropped from 102 to 62. It was his lowest RBI total since he began playing regularly in 1942.

Musial thinks the switch from first base to the outfield will help him.

"It's much more wearing on you to play first base," he explained. "You're in on almost every play and even when you're not you have to start in on every pitch. There's no such constant moving about in the outfield. You can relax more."

Musial had a hunch this will be a good year for him.

"I think I can do as well, if not better, than last year," he said. "I'd like very much to win the batting championship this year."

Stan has still another goal. He would like to reach 3,500 hits. That would put him ahead of Honus Wagner's 3,430 and make him the champion hit getter in National League history.

"I should make it in two years," said the man who accumulated 3,116 hits in 16 and a fraction seasons. "So I'm sure I'm going to play this year and next, at least. Then I'll wait and see.

"It's a challenge. I'll play as long as I can help the club."

Little Eight To Select New Name Monday

The Little Eight Baseball League will hold its final meeting under that name at 7 o'clock Monday night at the P&K Cafe in West Monroe, president Don Zeigler announced yesterday.

Zeigler said a new name for the circuit would be selected at the meeting and final organization plans made for the coming season.

Zeigler urged any teams interested in joining the amateur loop to attend the meeting.

Master Palynch Wins La. Derby

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Master Palynch, an import from Florida, jumped to an early lead and outlasted the favored Sputnik's stretch charge to win the $50,425 Louisiana Derby at the Fair Grounds Saturday.

The 3-year-old son of Attention was a nose to the good as he and Sputnik went under the wire. Festival King took the show spot.

Master Palynch shattered the track record for the mile and one-eighth as the Fair Grounds closed its 85-day winter meeting. His time of 1:49 2-5 knocked one-fifth of a second off the track standard.

The oddly-named colt, owned by the Sair and Watkins Stable, was overlooked by the 17,000 fans who installed Sputnik a 3-2 favorite. Master Palynch returned $13.40, $6.40 and $4. Sputnik, whose three earlier victories at the Fair Grounds convinced the big crowd, paid $3.60 and $2.60. Festival King, owned by C. D. Fischbach and winner of the Derby Trial last Monday, returned $3.20.

Preston Madden s Dhaulagiri held the second spot for the first mile and had Broussard pushing Master Palynch on the lead. Jockey Johnny Heckmann held Sputnik back in fifth place during the early running and was waiting to make his charge at the head of the stretch.

Master Palynch swept around the final turn with a length lead as Dhaulagiri and Copalan Stables' Joe's Master faded. But Heckmann had Sputnik rolling on the outside.

Sputnik caught up with Master Palynch inside the last sixteenth of a mile but Broussard had Master Palynch stretching for all he was worth and the Florida invader had the shade at the wire.

A check for $35,600 was waiting his Canadian owners at the finish line. The decision thrust the colt into consideration for the spring classics—the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

Trailing the top quartet were Dhaulagiri, Frosty Star, who was an entry with Festival King; Paxton Harghill's That Black One; Reverie Knoll Farms' Smoke Stream; Mrs. Roger Wilson's Jackie Price; Joe's Master; and Briarwood, Jackie Price's running mate and the field's only filly.

MEET STRONG, CURTIS

Petroff, Laye In Tag Team Tangle

An unhappy Serg Petroff and Charley Laye, back wrestling after a stormy stint as a referee, meet Jack Curtis and Bill Strong in Monday's main event at B&B Arena.

This 90-minute, two-falls-to-win bout heads a card also featuring a pair of 10-minute prelims involving the main event gladiators.

Petroff claims he was "double-crossed" last week. Being a Russian, he should know.

"You can't trust anybody," says the rude Russian. "Phil Brummett sold out on me last week. Someday, I'll get even with that dirty fire eater."

Petroff and Brummett lost to the Curtis brothers last week and Serg feels Phil did not put forth his best effort.

Serg is quite pleased with the prospect of teaming with Laye, believing bad Charley worthy of trust.

Laye appeared here a couple of weeks ago as a ref, and made about as big a hit with the fans as he does as a wrestler.

Promoter August Baumgartner says local fans will be well pleased with Strong, Curtis' partner, calling him a strong, nice-looking grappler.

Lickert Named Top Sophomore Player In SEC

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Southeastern Conference basketball coaches have picked Kentucky's Bill Lickert as the outstanding sophomore player in the league.

Lickert topped the voting for the fourth annual All-SEC sophomore team selected by the coaches for the Knoxville News-Sentinel. Others named to the first team were Jerry Graves, Mississippi State; Jack Waters, Mississippi: Jimmy Fibbe, Auburn, and Gordon Darrah, Georgia.

RUNAWAY SCRATCHED

MIAMI (UPI) — Trainer Eddie Holton offered an unusual excuse when he scratched Matisse from the Hibiscus Stakes in Hialeah. "He was frightened by a lion and ran away," he said. The lion, in a circus playing at Tropical Park where Matisse was stabbed, roared during a workout and the colt took off.

Michigan In 18th Big Ten Track Victory

Robinson, the British Empire Games 220-yard winner, was the meet's only double winner and individual record smasher in leading the Wolverines to 71 points while defending champion Illinois took 48 for second place.

He drilled through the 60-yard dash in :06.1 to match the meet record set by Ohio State's Jesse Owens in 1935 and equalled the next year by Michigan's Sam Stoller.

Twenty minutes later, the husky Robinson flashed the 300 yards in :30.3, knocking five - tenths of a second from the Big Ten mark set by Illinois' Ralph Fessenden in 1955 and matching the American record booked by Herb McKinley of Illinois in 1947.

A 300-yard time of :30.0 by Bill Barnwell of Pitt in the recent Michigan State Relays has been submitted for recognition as an American record.

Foreign athletes proved to be the big stars of the meet.

Tony Seth of British Guiana, another Michigan sophomore, won the 880 by a step from George Kerr, Illinois Jamaican sophomore. The time of 1:55.3 was comparatively slow.

Michigan captured 6 firsts and 5 seconds in winning the team title with the second highest point tally in the meet's history. The all time high was 75¼ by Michigan in 1944.

Kansas State Romps Over Tigers, 108-69

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—The Kansas State Wildcats, packed by All - America Bob Boozer's 32 points, crushed the Missouri Tigers 108-69 in a Big Eight basketball game that saw the nation's No. 2 team use its reserves freely.

It was the first time this year the Wildcats had scored more than 100 points and the mark of 108 points tied a previous conference record, also made by Kansas State, against Nebraska in 1953.

All-America Bob Boozer got 21 of his points in the first half. He saw less action in the second half as Coach Tex Winter cleaned his bench to put more players in.

The Tigers, winners of only two conference games, scored the first field goal but that was the only time they had a lead. Once, midway in the first half they got up to within one point of the Wildcats, 20-21, but the Kansans quickly pulled away and held a 59-37 lead at the half.

Twice toward the end of the game the Wildcats had leads of 41 points.

Kansas State hit 53.8 for the game, while the visitors hit 41.

EIGHT-UNDER-PAR 64

Littler Cracks Course Mark; Takes New Orleans Lead

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—California s Gene Littler, a cool competitor with a blazing putter, smashed a course record with an 8-under-par 64 Saturday and soared into the second round lead of the $20,000 New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.

The former National Open champion from Singing Hills was well back in the pack at the end of Friday's first round with a 73. But his record-breaking performance over the 6,700-yard City Park course shot him to the top of the field with 137 for 36 holes.

Littler's putting bordered on the phenominal. He one-putted all nine greens coming in and had 13 one putt greens in all. He came in with 23 putts for the round, the best putting performance on this year's winter tour.

A crowd of about 2,000 circled the 18th green as the 28-year old Littler, playing in a threesome with Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex., and Art Doering of Pittsburgh, came up for his final shots. Littler's approach shot dovetailed into a sand trap below a bunker, but he blasted the ball to within 20 feet of the cup and sent the putt arrow straight for a birdie on the 485-yard hole.

The field was trimmed to 60 low scorers and leading amateurs for the final rounds Sunday and Monday.

Littler's round matched the 65 posted by Henry Picard in the 1941 tournament. But City Park host professional Henry Thomas said the course is a good deal more difficult now.

Defending champion Billy Casper of Chula Vista, Calif., and last year's runner-up, Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., failed to qualify for the final 36 holes. Casper showed a 153 for his two rounds while Venturi had a 150. The cut-off point was 148.

TIGERS BEAT NATS

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers turned three Washington errors and a passed ball into four unearned runs and defeated the Senators 8-5 in a Grapefruit League opener Saturday.

A passed ball by Senators catched J. W. Porter in the first inning led to two tainted runs for Detroit in the first inning. The Tigers made it 5-0 with three more runs in the second, ex-Senator Ed Yost doubling in a pair, the third coming home on Harvey Kuenn's infield out.

The Senators bounced back with three runs in their second, Harmon Killebrew doubling one home and Bob Allison and Reno Bertoia singling in the others. Dan Dobbek singled in another Washington run in the fourth to cut Washington's deficit to 5-4 but errors by Killebrew and Bertoia in the sixth gave two runs back to Detroit, and put the Tigers out of reach. Detroit added another in the seventh.

The Senators outhit the Tigers 11-9.

REDS TRIUMPH

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Rookie Vada Pinson drove in the winning run Saturday with an eighth-inning, bases-loaded poke over the right field fence. It gave the Cincinnati Reds a 4-3 victory over Chicago White Sox in spring training's first exhibition game.

But Pinson fixed it so his hit wasn't a grand-slammer or any other kind of homer.

Two singles and a walk off Chicago's Stover McIlwaom jammed the bases and another pass, to Red's rookie Elio Chacon, forced in the tying run.

The White Sox outhit the Reds 11-9.

Slugger Frank Thomas, acquired from Pittsburgh in a trade, homered for Cincinnati in the second inning.

The Pirates scored twice in the third, three times in the fifth and added a final tally in the seventh.

Bennie Daniels started for the Pirates and pitched three innings of shutout ball. The Braves scored two runs off of Joe Gibbon in the sixth inning and added single runs in the seventh and eighth innings after Vernon Law took over the pitching chores.

N. C. State Crushes Tars For ACC Title

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State crushed NCAA tournament bound North Carolina 80-56 Saturday night to win the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball championship tournament.

North Carolina will represent the ACC against Navy in Eastern NCAA play opening Tuesday in New York, State being on probation and ineligible.

N. C. State led from the opening minute in a weird game which was delayed about 10 minutes in the closing stages by a power failure that left Reynolds Coliseum in darkness for about four minutes. When the lights returned a dispute over the time remaining had to be resolved before play resumed.

After a few minutes the scoreboard lighting system again failed and play continued for a few minutes with the aid of a stopwatch before the big switchboard resumed operating.

In absorbing its fourth loss in 24 games, North Carolina dropped steadily out of contention after pulling up to 50-47 with 11:10 remaining.

The Tar Heels played in spurts throughout a first half that saw them hit only seven of 25 shots.

Coach Frank McGuire used 10 players in the first 20 minutes, making numerous line-up changes in an apparent effort to avoid over-taxing his squad with the Navy game only three nights away.

Starting the second half McGuire reinserted his regular line-up and, except for a couple of minutes rest for soph Doug Moe, they played more than 15 minutes as a unit.

But the inspired Wolfpack, cheered on by its supporters in the capacity crowd of 12,400, poured it on against the team it has lost to twice earlier this year.

State hit a scorching 62 per cent in the last half for an over-all 43 per cent against North Carolina's 30.

Bob MacGillivray contributed 18 points. John Richter, who sat out 13 minutes after drawing his fourth foul, tallied 15. Richter also hauled in 12 rebounds.

Dick Kepley had 14 points and Lee Shaffer 11 for the Tar Heels whose reserves played the last four minutes.

The championship was the 10th in 13 years for State Coach Everett Case. These include seven years in the Southern Conference and the last six in the ACC.

McKoin Predicts Victory Over Cook In Title Fight

Irish Johnny McKoin, confidently predicting a victory in 10 rounds or less, puts his Louisiana welterweight championship on the line against the veteran Clarence Cook Tuesday night in a scheduled 12-rounder at B&B Arena.

McKoin, shorter, lighter and younger than his opponent, will be making the first defense of the crown he won from Al Boudreaux here several weeks ago.

Cook, once near top 10 rating in both the welter and middleweight divisions, seeks to add a title win to his string of victories in his latest comeback.

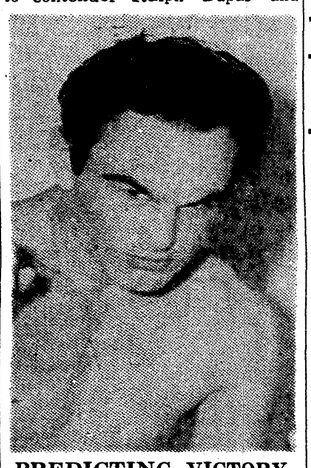
McKoin, a cutting puncher who chopped up Boudreaux in winning his state title, vows he will stop Cook inside of 10. Whether Johnny stops Cook or vice versa, most don't expect the fight to go the limit.

Cook, like McKoin, from Bastrop, is something of a puncher himself. If he can get rid of Johnny before the end, it will be only the second time the bruising Celt has failed to finish a fight.

McKoin, only 20 years old, has never been knocked out. He was stopped once on cuts.

Cook has been stopped four times in 52 bouts. The Bastrop policeman has won 45 and lost seven as a professional, meeting some of the best, boys like Del Flanagan, Jimmy Martinez, Virgil Akins. Al Andrews, etc.

Although he has not met fighters as good as some Cook has fought, McKoin did well against two of the best men he tackled. He drew with both Manuel Gonzales and Guy Sumlin, two of the South's top welters. Sumlin has lost only to contender Ralph Dupas and Gonzales has lost, at last count, only one bout.



PREDICTING VICTORY — Irish Johnny McKoin predicts he'll stop Clarence Cook in 10 rounds or less in their battle for the Louisiana welterweight championship here Tuesday night. The fight is scheduled for 12 rounds.

Advance tickets for the fight card are now on sale in Monroe at Fink's Mens Store on DeSiard and in Bastrop at the City C&A Club and Boone's Barber Shop.

Ringside seats will sell for $4.00, reserve seats for $3.00, and general admission seats for $2.00.

Children seven to 13 years of age will be charged one dollar and children under seven will be admitted free of charge.

Grantland Rice Handicap Won By Eric's Pet

OLDSMAR, Fla. (AP) — Eric's Pet, a rank outsider from Bayside Stables, put on a great stretch drive to win the $3,500 Grantland Rice Handicap by half a length Saturday at Sunshine Park.

Apprentice jockey Robert Green brought the 2-year-old winner up strong on the outside in the final 100 yards after running with the pack most of the 4½ furlongs. Mo Supreme finished second and Statistician third.

Eric's Pet paid $40.40, $17.40 and $6.20. He set a track record of 53 2-5, bettering the old mark by 2 4-5 seconds.

All-Star Game Pits Teacher Against Pupil

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—It will be the teacher vs. the pupil when the University of Maryland Alumni M Club stages an East-West College All-Star basketball game here March 25.

The teacher is Hank Iba, veteran coach of Oklahoma State University, who will coach the West squad. Bud Millikan, Maryland basketball coach who played for Iba at what was formerly Oklahoma A&M will handle the East team.

The game is set for 8 p.m. in the 12,500 - capacity Cole Field House on the Maryland campus. There will be 10 men on each team to be announced later. Game Chairman George Knepley, former club president and one-time Maryland basketball star, said it is planned to make the game an annual event.

It was Iba who recommended his former All America star—Millikan—to Maryland's Jim Tatum in 1950 when Tatum was looking for a coach.

Millikan, in the nine years before this week's Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, has compiled a record of 145 victories and 79 defeats.

TV BIG AID

Basketball Back To Highest Peak

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (AP)—College basketball this season raached its highest peak of national interest since the shocking scandals of 1950-51 knocked it out of big arenas and back into the gymnasiums.

Always fiercely regional in its appeal and style, college basketball, through a nationwide series of televised games, was seen, compared and judged by fans of all regions.

The New Englander got a good look at how they play the game in Lubbock, Tex., and Ivy League ball came to the Rocky Mountain States.

Backing up the national Saturday afternoon series televised by NBC were three outstanding regional games-of-the-week. The Atlantic Coast Conference had one, the Big Ten another and the Big Eight, Southwest and Missouri Valley conferences combined for a third called the Mid-Southwest regional. The Big Ten regional was even piped into New York City, and the Easterners saw Michigan State win the Big Ten title.

The nationwide interest, and the accompanying increased knowledge of the game, was reflected in the All-America ballots that poured into The Associated Press.

Many players with outstanding regional reputations got an opportunity to display their talents nationally, and the sports writers and broadcasters who voted, consequently, were able to assess regional strength and ability with more authority than ever before.

The increased television also had another effect on the college game. More games were scheduled on Saturday afternoon so that the schools could take advantage of the TV revenue. And the students found that with the games being played in the daylight, there was more time left for after-dark social activities.

The regional programs are finished for the season, but there are two big afternoons left nationally. Next Saturday NBC will televise a first round game of the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden and the following Saturday, March 21, the NIT final will be televised.

The perfect climax to the season would be a telecast of the big one, the NCAA championship final at Louisville, Ky., the night of March 21.

The NCAA gave the American Broadcasting Co. an option on the rights. The network cleared the time, but couldn't find a sponsor to come up with the money, reportedly about $25,000, to purchase the rights.

Saturday night TV time is expensive, and for that kind of money a sponsor must know what he is buying.

With 23 teams entered in the NCAA tournament, there is always the possibility that two teams from low population areas and with little national appeal might reach the final. A sponsor isn't interested merely in the quality of the basketball they play. He also must be guaranteed that a lot of people will be attracted by the game before its played.

Avila Retires From Baseball

The 32-year-old former second baseman, traded to Baltimore by Cleveland, said he was going into business.

"I've already decided," he said. "I m hanging up the glove to devote myself completely to business affairs. I've already sent a couple of telegrams to the United States giving my final decision—one to Ford Frick, the baseball commissioner, and the other to Lee MacPhail, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles."

EIGHT-UNDER-PAR 64

Littler Cracks Course Mark; Takes New Orleans Lead

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—California s Gene Littler, a cool competitor with a blazing putter, smashed a course record with an 8-under-par 64 Saturday and soared into the second round lead of the $20,000 New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.

The former National Open champion from Singing Hills was well back in the pack at the end of Friday's first round with a 73. But his record-breaking performance over the 6,700-yard City Park course shot him to the top of the field with 137 for 36 holes.

Littler's putting bordered on the phenominal. He one-putted all nine greens coming in and had 13 one putt greens in all. He came in with 23 putts for the round, the best putting performance on this year's winter tour.

A crowd of about 2,000 circled the 18th green as the 28-year old Littler, playing in a threesome with Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex., and Art Doering of Pittsburgh, came up for his final shots. Littler's approach shot dovetailed into a sand trap below a bunker, but he blasted the ball to within 20 feet of the cup and sent the putt arrow straight for a birdie on the 485-yard hole.

The field was trimmed to 60 low scorers and leading amateurs for the final rounds Sunday and Monday.

Littler's round matched the 65 posted by Henry Picard in the 1941 tournament. But City Park host professional Henry Thomas said the course is a good deal more difficult now.

Defending champion Billy Casper of Chula Vista, Calif., and last year's runner-up, Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., failed to qualify for the final 36 holes. Casper showed a 153 for his two rounds while Venturi had a 150. The cut-off point was 148.

Bob Boyd for Baltimore had four hits in as many times at bat, and Hal Smith of the Athletics had 4 for 5.

DODGERS NIP PHILLIES

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Don Cardwell and Seth Morehead held Los Angeles to two hits but the Dodgers posted a 2-1 victory over Philadelphia with the help of a seventh inning error in the teams' opening game of the exhibition baseball season Saturday.

Cardwell, working the first five innings, didn't give up a hit, although four Dodgers got on base.

Harry Anderson singled and Bob Bowman doubled him across for the Phils tally in the seventh inning. The Dodgers' Frank Howard, led off the LA seventh with a walk, and advanced on catcher Norm Sherry's sacrifice bunt. Gil Hodges singled and Howard came in with the tying run.

Wally Moon hit into what looked like a sure double play, but Pancho Herrera at first threw wild to Chico Fernandez at second and Hodges streaked home with the winning run.

The Phils got six hits, including a double and a single by National League batting champion Richie Ashburn. Stan Williams, who succeeded Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax on the mound, got credit for the victory. Morehead was the loser.

CUBS BEATEN

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Boston defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-2 to successfully launch its Cactus League exhibition baseball season Saturday as Marty Keough smashed a home run and his two rivals for the vacant centerfield job each collected a pair of hits.

An overflow crowd of 5,612 saw Keough sock a drive over the wall with the bases empty. Gene Stephens and Gary Geiger, Keough's rivals, chipped in with two blows apiece.

The Sox picked up two more runs in the fifth on singles by Geiger and Stephens, a balk and a wild pitch.

Chicago's Lee Walls accounted for his team's scoring with a homer in the ninth and double in the third.

Murray Wall, Ted Wills and Jerry Casale scattered nine Cubs hits while Boston got the same number of safeties off Bob Anderson, Taylor Phillips and Darius Hillman.

A crowd of 5,623, saw Bob Turley blank the Red Birds on three hits through the first four innings. He fanned four.

TIGERS BEAT NATS

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers turned three Washington errors and a passed ball into four unearned runs and defeated the Senators 8-5 in a Grapefruit League opener Saturday.

A passed ball by Senators catched J. W. Porter in the first inning led to two tainted runs for Detroit in the first inning. The Tigers made it 5-0 with three more runs in the second, ex-Senator Ed Yost doubling in a pair, the third coming home on Harvey Kuenn's infield out.

The Senators bounced back with three runs in their second, Harmon Killebrew doubling one home and Bob Allison and Reno Bertoia singling in the others. Dan Dobbek singled in another Washington run in the fourth to cut Washington's deficit to 5-4 but errors by Killebrew and Bertoia in the sixth gave two runs back to Detroit, and put the Tigers out of reach. Detroit added another in the seventh.

The Senators outhit the Tigers 11-9.

REDS TRIUMPH

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Rookie Vada Pinson drove in the winning run Saturday with an eighth-inning, bases-loaded poke over the right field fence. It gave the Cincinnati Reds a 4-3 victory over Chicago White Sox in spring training's first exhibition game.

But Pinson fixed it so his hit wasn't a grand-slammer or any other kind of homer.

Two singles and a walk off Chicago's Stover McIlwaom jammed the bases and another pass, to Red's rookie Elio Chacon, forced in the tying run.

The White Sox outhit the Reds 11-9.

Slugger Frank Thomas, acquired from Pittsburgh in a trade, homered for Cincinnati in the second inning.

Cook, like McKoin, from Bastrop, is something of a puncher himself. If he can get rid of Johnny before the end, it will be only the second time the bruising Celt has failed to finish a fight.

McKoin, only 20 years old, has never been knocked out. He was stopped once on cuts.

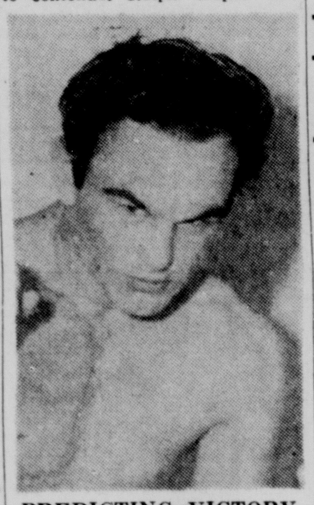
Cook has been stopped four times in 52 bouts. The Bastrop policeman has won 45 and lost seven as a professional, meeting some of the best, boys like Del Flanagan, Jimmy Martinez, Virgil Akins. Al Andrews, etc.

Although he has not met fighters as good as some Cook has fought, McKoin did well against two of the best men he tackled. He drew with both Manuel Gonzales and Guy Sumlin, two of the South's top welters. Sumlin has lost only to contender Ralph Dupas and Gonzales has lost, at last count, only one bout.

Advance tickets for the fight card are now on sale in Monroe at Fink's Mens Store on DeSiard and in Bastrop at the City C&A Club and Boone's Barber Shop.

Ringside seats will sell for $4.00, reserve seats for $3.00, and general admission seats for $2.00.

Children seven to 13 years of age will be charged one dollar and children under seven will be admitted free of charge.



PREDICTING VICTORY — Irish Johnny McKoin predicts he'll stop Clarence Cook in 10 rounds or less in their battle for the Louisiana welterweight championship here Tuesday night. The fight is scheduled for 12 rounds.

N. C. State Crushes Tars For ACC Title

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State crushed NCAA tournament bound North Carolina 80-56 Saturday night to win the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball championship tournament.

North Carolina will represent the ACC against Navy in Eastern NCAA play opening Tuesday in New York, State being on probation and ineligible.

N. C. State led from the opening minute in a weird game which was delayed about 10 minutes in the closing stages by a power failure that left Reynolds Coliseum in darkness for about four minutes. When the lights returned a dispute over the time remaining had to be resolved before play resumed.

After a few minutes the scoreboard lighting system again failed and play continued for a few minutes with the aid of a stopwatch before the big switchboard resumed operating.

In absorbing its fourth loss in 24 games, North Carolina dropped steadily out of contention after pulling up to 50-47 with 11:10 remaining.

The Tar Heels played in spurts throughout a first half that saw them hit only seven of 25 shots.

Coach Frank McGuire used 10 players in the first 20 minutes, making numerous line-up changes in an apparent effort to avoid over-taxing his squad with the Navy game only three nights away.

Starting the second half McGuire reinserted his regular line-up and, except for a couple of minutes rest for soph Doug Moe, they played more than 15 minutes as a unit.

But the inspired Wolfpack, cheered on by its supporters in the capacity crowd of 12,400, poured it on against the team it has lost to twice earlier this year.

State hit a scorching 62 per cent in the last half for an over-all 43 per cent against North Carolina's 30.

Bob MacGillivray contributed 18 points. John Richter, who sat out 13 minutes after drawing his fourth foul, tallied 15. Richter also hauled in 12 rebounds.

Dick Kepley had 14 points and Lee Shaffer 11 for the Tar Heels whose reserves played the last four minutes.

The championship was the 10th in 13 years for State Coach Everett Case. These include seven years in the Southern Conference and the last six in the ACC.

Basketball Back To Highest Peak

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (AP)—College basketball this season raached its highest peak of national interest since the shocking scandals of 1950-51 knocked it out of big arenas and back into the gymnasiums.

Always fiercely regional in its appeal and style, college basketball, through a nationwide series of televised games, was seen, compared and judged by fans of all regions.

The New Englander got a good look at how they play the game in Lubbock, Tex., and Ivy League ball came to the Rocky Mountain States.

Backing up the national Saturday afternoon series televised by NBC were three outstanding regional games-of-the-week. The Atlantic Coast Conference had one, the Big Ten another and the Big Eight, Southwest and Missouri Valley conferences combined for a third called the Mid-Southwest regional. The Big Ten regional was even piped into New York City, and the Easterners saw Michigan State win the Big Ten title.

The nationwide interest, and the accompanying increased knowledge of the game, was reflected in the All-America ballots that poured into The Associated Press.

Many players with outstanding regional reputations got an opportunity to display their talents nationally, and the sports writers and broadcasters who voted, consequently, were able to assess regional strength and ability with more authority than ever before.

The increased television also had another effect on the college game. More games were scheduled on Saturday afternoon so that the schools could take advantage of the TV revenue. And the students found that with the games being played in the daylight, there was more time left for after-dark social activities.

The regional programs are finished for the season, but there are two big afternoons left nationally. Next Saturday NBC will televise a first round game of the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden and the following Saturday, March 21, the NIT final will be televised.

The perfect climax to the season would be a telecast of the big one, the NCAA championship final at Louisville, Ky., the night of March 21.

The NCAA gave the American Broadcasting Co. an option on the rights. The network cleared the time, but couldn't find a sponsor to come up with the money, reportedly about $25,000, to purchase the rights.

Saturday night TV time is expensive, and for that kind of money a sponsor must know what he is buying.

With 23 teams entered in the NCAA tournament, there is always the possibility that two teams from low population areas and with little national appeal might reach the final. A sponsor isn't interested merely in the quality of the basketball they play. He also must be guaranteed that a lot of people will be attracted by the game before its played.

Avila Retires From Baseball

The 32-year-old former second baseman, traded to Baltimore by Cleveland, said he was going into business.

"I've already decided," he said. "I m hanging up the glove to devote myself completely to business affairs. I've already sent a couple of telegrams to the United States giving my final decision—one to Ford Frick, the baseball commissioner, and the other to Lee MacPhail, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles."

All-Star Game Pits Teacher Against Pupil

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—It will be the teacher vs. the pupil when the University of Maryland Alumni M Club stages an East-West College All-Star basketball game here March 25.

The teacher is Hank Iba, veteran coach of Oklahoma State University, who will coach the West squad. Bud Millikan, Maryland basketball coach who played for Iba at what was formerly Oklahoma A&M will handle the East team.

The game is set for 8 p.m. in the 12,500 - capacity Cole Field House on the Maryland campus. There will be 10 men on each team to be announced later. Game Chairman George Knepley, former club president and one-time Maryland basketball star, said it is planned to make the game an annual event.

It was Iba who recommended his former All America star—Millikan—to Maryland's Jim Tatum in 1950 when Tatum was looking for a coach.

Grantland Rice Handicap Won By Eric's Pet

OLDSMAR, Fla. (AP) — Eric's Pet, a rank outsider from Bayside Stables, put on a great stretch drive to win the $3,500 Grantland Rice Handicap by half a length Saturday at Sunshine Park.

Apprentice jockey Robert Green brought the 2-year-old winner up strong on the outside in the final 100 yards after running with the pack most of the 4½ furlongs. Mo Supreme finished second and Statistician third.

Eric's Pet paid $40.40, $17.40 and $6.20. He set a track record of 53 2-5, bettering the old mark by 2 4-5 seconds.

HITS DEMO PROPOSALS

Dirksen Points Out Spending Hazards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen replied to new Democratic spending proposals Saturday by warning that 15 bills already offered would cost more than 190 billion dollars over the next five years.

He said such measures "completely substantiate" President Eisenhower's expressed fear that more big spending will dilute the dollar's value and jeopardize fiscal integrity.

Dirksen's statement was aimed at a sweeping proposal by Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.). Clark called for increasing the President's 77 billion dollar budget by $4,170,000,000 while balancing it with seven billion dollars in new revenue raised by plugging tax loopholes.

Clark said the defense program should be increased by two billion dollars. The rest of his increases would go for education, housing, a development loan fund, airport construction, water resources, and public health needs.

Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) also endorsed spending programs and urged that taxes and postal rates be hiked by three billion dollars a year to meet cold war requirements.

Dirksen, who has found that some of his GOP colleagues are co-sponors on some spending bills, made it clear he will oppose such measures, regardless of whom it hits.

One instance of this political cross-fire was given this week when Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel (R-Kan.) recent GOP campaign chairman, urged Congress to authorize 51 million dollars in federal grants for educational television stations, despite administration opposition. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare contends educational TV can develop without such federal aid. Dirksen agrees.

Dirksen cited six House and nine Senate bills which he said would cost over five years, if enacted, from 193 to 196 billion dollars.

In the list were a number of bills favored by Clark and Neuberger, including housing, area redevelopment, education and airport aid.

Biggest of the measures is what Dirksen called a "truly astronomical" plan for old age pensions for all persons over 65. He said it would cost 66 billion dollars over five years. Another was a World War I veterans pension bill costing nine to 10 billions.

Dirksen conceded that "much of this will not be enacted."

Public Welfare Payments Drop In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Public welfare payments in Mississippi during February dropped $32,989 under the January payments, mainly because 553 persons were dropped from the old age pension rolls.

Commissioner W. E. Holcomb of the Department of Public Welfare said Saturday the total February payments were $3,514,112.

Old age pensions totaled $2,358,116 during February. The department listed 80,649 recipients and said the average grant was $29.24.

Other aid included:

Aid to the 5,570 blind, $222,500, for an average of $38.50; aid to the 7,313 permanently and totally disabled, $215,512, for an average of $29.47; and aid to the 52,982 dependent children in 17,634 families, $717,934, for an average of $13.55 per child and $40.71 per family.

Holcomb said the department paid $15,537 in state matching funds for foster boarding care for 608 children in 252 homes during January, a drop of 25 children and $1,835 under December.

Rally For Nikita Reminiscent Of Hitler's Heyday

BERLIN (UPI) — The mass Communist rally for Nikita Khrushchev in East Berlin Saturday night was strangely reminiscent of the Nazi meetings here in Hitler's heyday.

Cheering crowds of Communist activities chanted "Khrushchev, Khrushchev," in a tone and rhythm that sounded like the "Sieg Heil" shouted for Hitler.

Thousands of banners and propaganda posters were part of the crowd scene in Stalin Allee, the single showcase avenue of East Berlin.

The searchlights and torches that lit the scene also gave it the flavor of old stormtrooper rallies.

Body Of Tugboat Captain Is Found

MOBILE (UPI)—The body of tugboat Capt. J.E. Davis, of Gulfport, Miss., was recovered Saturday afternoon. It had been missing since Feb. 25 when he drowned in a capsizing accident.

The Coast Guard recovered the body in Mobile Bay. It had been sighted Friday by persons aboard a small yacht near the mouth of Dog River.

The body of the other drowning victim in the mishap, John Padgett, was found Thursday.

LOCAL TAXES COST U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Any rise in state or local government income or excise taxes means a revenue loss to the Federal government because local taxes are deductible on Federal returns, according to the Tax Foundation.

However, only taxpayers who itemize their deductions get the benefits, and the Foundation notes that only half of the tax-payers in New York State are expected to do so.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare contends educational TV can develop without such federal aid. Dirksen agrees.

Dirksen cited six House and nine Senate bills which he said would cost over five years, if enacted, from 193 to 196 billion dollars.

In the list were a number of bills favored by Clark and Neuberger, including housing, area redevelopment, education and airport aid.

Biggest of the measures is what Dirksen called a "truly astronomical" plan for old age pensions for all persons over 65. He said it would cost 66 billion dollars over five years. Another was a World War I veterans pension bill costing nine to 10 billions.

Dirksen conceded that "much of this will not be enacted."

Public Welfare Payments Drop In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Public welfare payments in Mississippi during February dropped $32,989 under the January payments, mainly because 553 persons were dropped from the old age pension rolls.

Commissioner W. E. Holcomb of the Department of Public Welfare said Saturday the total February payments were $3,514,112.

Old age pensions totaled $2,358,116 during February. The department listed 80,649 recipients and said the average grant was $29.24.

Other aid included:

Aid to the 5,570 blind, $222,500, for an average of $38.50; aid to the 7,313 permanently and totally disabled, $215,512, for an average of $29.47; and aid to the 52,982 dependent children in 17,634 families, $717,934, for an average of $13.55 per child and $40.71 per family.

Holcomb said the department paid $15,537 in state matching funds for foster boarding care for 608 children in 252 homes during January, a drop of 25 children and $1,835 under December.

Rally For Nikita Reminiscent Of Hitler's Heyday

BERLIN (UPI) — The mass Communist rally for Nikita Khrushchev in East Berlin Saturday night was strangely reminiscent of the Nazi meetings here in Hitler's heyday.

Cheering crowds of Communist activities chanted "Khrushchev, Khrushchev," in a tone and rhythm that sounded like the "Sieg Heil" shouted for Hitler.

Thousands of banners and propaganda posters were part of the crowd scene in Stalin Allee, the single showcase avenue of East Berlin.

The searchlights and torches that lit the scene also gave it the flavor of old stormtrooper rallies.

Body Of Tugboat Captain Is Found

MOBILE (UPI)—The body of tugboat Capt. J.E. Davis, of Gulfport, Miss., was recovered Saturday afternoon. It had been missing since Feb. 25 when he drowned in a capsizing accident.

The Coast Guard recovered the body in Mobile Bay. It had been sighted Friday by persons aboard a small yacht near the mouth of Dog River.

The body of the other drowning victim in the mishap, John Padgett, was found Thursday.

LOCAL TAXES COST U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Any rise in state or local government income or excise taxes means a revenue loss to the Federal government because local taxes are deductible on Federal returns, according to the Tax Foundation.

However, only taxpayers who itemize their deductions get the benefits, and the Foundation notes that only half of the tax-payers in New York State are expected to do so.

Dulles, Wife Take Hour's Drive In Sun

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles left Walter Reed Hospital Saturday for an hour's drive with his wife through sun - swept Rock Creek Park.

State Department spokesman Joseph Reap said the cancer-stricken secretary "thoroughly enjoyed" the ride in a chauffeur-driven limousine—and "felt refreshed" on his return to the hospital.

It was the first time the 71-year-old statesman had been out of the hospital since he entered it Feb. 10 for a hernia operation that disclosed a recurrence of abdominal cancer.

The brief respite came after radiation treatments were resumed at a reduced level because Dulles previously had received an injection of radioactive gold.

The X-ray treatments were suspended last Monday so the gold could be injected.

In the early treatments, Dulles underwent a massive three minute exposure to the radiation which is administered in a lead-lined room.

Reap declined to say how long the new series of treatments will continue but doctors have announced they may last from three to four weeks.

Meantime the White House said that it is hoped that Dulles can take part to some extent in forthcoming Berlin strategy talks between Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said it will "depend entirely on his condition."

PLANS EXPANSION

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Armco Steel Corp. announced plans for a $775,000 expansion of stainless steel facilities at its Baltimore works. Two new double ingot heating furnaces and three new heat-treating furnaces will be installed, the company said.

La. Tech To Hold Student Stunt Night

RUSTON, (Special) — Stunt Night, an annual Louisiana Tech spring event, has been scheduled for Friday, March 13, in Howard Auditorium by the Student Union.

The competition has been divided into male and female groups, and two trophies will be given in each division. In previous years only three trophies were awarded, and male organizations competed against female organizations. If a mixed group participates, it will be classified either male or female according to the sex of the majority of the organization's membership.

A committee of the Student Union will check scripts before further checking by a faculty committee, which was appointed last spring by the Organizations Committee.

A joint meeting of the Student Union, faculty committee and participating organizations' presidents will be held Thursday, March 5, at 4:30 p.m. in the dean of men's office.

Fred Stone, 85, 'Grand Old Man' Of Stage, Dies

NORTH HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Fred Stone, one of the all-time greats of the musical comedy stage and the original straw man in "The Wizard of Oz," died Friday. He was 85.

Blind for the past two years, he often was referred to as the "grand old man" of the stage.

Stone's stage career spanned more than 70 years. He had starred in almost every phase of show business from carnivals to the legitimate stage and motion pictures.

Ill and semi-retired for many years, Stone made a brief comeback in revivals of "You Can't Take It with You" in 1942 and 1950.

SIX MURDERS, SUICIDE

Neighbor Stumbles On Rural Tragedy

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — A neighbor woman worried over disappearance of "five wonderful kids" Saturday stumbled on a days-old rural tragedy that had ended in six murders and a suicide.

Sheriff Dale George said Roland Soper, 28, unemployed, depressed over automobile accident injuries and facing a divorce suit, had killed himself, his wife Viola, 29, and her five children by a previous marriage.

All of the deaths probably took place late Wednesday or early Thursday, the sheriff said. This was indicated by the condition of the bodies.

Two, Mrs. Soper and a daughter, Laura, 11, died more violent deaths than the others. Officers said they were beaten on the head with a hammer. They were found in a blood-stained bed on the second floor of the two-story frame house on the Colfax-Pleasantville road eight miles northeast of here.

Soper and the other four children were found in Soper's locked automobile parked by the house. All had died from carbon monoxide fumes.

The neighbor, Mrs. David Might, had missed seeing the children, described by others living in the area as "just wonderful kids." Mrs. Might went to the Soper house Saturday and discovered bodies in the automobile.

The sheriff said all the details of what happened at the rural home may never be known. He theorized that Mrs. Soper and Laura were the first to die.

After killing them, Sheriff George theorized Soper placed a blanket around each of the four smaller children, Roxanne, 6; Vickie, 8; Bobby, 10, and Sharon Walls, 9, and carried them to the automobile. He then got into the car himself, locked the doors and windows and started the motor.

Apparently all the children were asleep as he placed them in the car, officers said.

A note written by Mrs. Soper to a sister, and not yet mailed, indicated she had some fears of what was to happen. The sheriff said the note told the sister Mrs. Soper expected to be killed and asked that her parents take custody of the children.

Soper suffered severe head injuries in an automobile accident last August. He spent three months in a hospital and had been unemployed since that time Tuesday, Mrs. Soper filed divorce proceedings against him.

VICE CHAIRMAN SHOCKED

Probers May Quiz Kennedy On Offers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) demanded Saturday that chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy tell members of the Senate Rackets Committee which witnesses asked for leniency in exchange for political support of his brother, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

Mundt, vice chairman of the committee, said "this is by far the most shocking development in the two-year history of our committee."

"I shall ask the chairman to hold an executive meeting of the committee early next week to learn the identity of the culprits who had so much to conceal that they tried to bribe the counsel and to circumvent our committee," Mundt told newsmen.

Chairman John L. McClellan D-Ark.) said the committee has a closed-door session scheduled for 10 a.m., EST, Tuesday. He said members "can bring up any business matters they think proper or of interest" at that time.

"I know of no 'bribe' being offered," McClellan said. "I am sure if there had been, Mr. Kennedy would have reported it."

Kennedy disclosed in Milwaukee Friday that he had received "several" offers of 1960 campaign support for his older brother if he would go easy on some witnesses. He said he "dismissed" such questions and "the investigation went ahead—they were all called."

Sen. Kennedy is among Democrats prominently mentioned as a presidential candidate next year.

Robert Kennedy said he had not told McClellan of the alleged offers because he did not want "to make a big thing out of it." The young attorney said he did discuss them with his brother.

He said "the most serious" offer came from a management witness but that several came from labor people within the last year.

Mundt said he was "disappointed that these bribes have not been reported to chairman McClellan and to the committee."

"This report from the political meeting in Milwaukee is my first knowledge of them," Mundt said. Kennedy was in Milwaukee taking part in a labor panel at the 13-state Mid - West Democratic Conference when he made his statements.

Mundt declared that "the whole nauseating affair should be fully explored and publicly exposed."

He said members of the committee "clearly cannot ignore our responsibilities . . . in connection with this effort to subvert justice by bribing an agent of the federal government."

"Let the chips fall where they will," Mundt said, "our committee must not keep them concealed by the moss of indifference or the fog or anonymity."

He said he was sure McClellan "will share this conviction."

Kennedy, in Milwaukee, had declined to tell newsmen the names of the witnesses involved. He said that in two cases the offers "were rather specific" and that "one was by a man who was going to take the Fifth Amendment."

IN STATE LEGISLATURE

Beer Tax Surplus Diversion Bid Due

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Rep. James Beeson of Jefferson Parish said Friday he'll seek legislation to divert surpluses from the state beer tax to the proposed 40 million dollar construction program at Louisiana State University in New Orleans.

He said Rep. John Rau, also of Jefferson, will co-sponsor the constitutional amendment proposal in the May fiscal Legislature.

Beeson, sponsor of the original legislation creating LSUNO, said many other lawmakers are in favor of using the surplus beer revenues.

Gov. Earl Long put on the beer tax in 1948 and dedicated its revenues to payment of war veterans' bonuses. Surpluses are accruing as the bonuses are paid out.

Last September, LSUNO opened to freshman students. Plans were to open it to sophomores also this fall, and higher classes in successive years.

A plan was submitted last month for 28 additional buildings at the school by 1970, with the first phase ending in 1963 at a cost if 22 million dollars. Methods of financing it were not offered.

The LSU Board of Supervisors took the construction program plan under study.

Gov. Long had expressed opposition to bond issues.

DR. JOHN E. ROSS

Missionary To Address Local Church

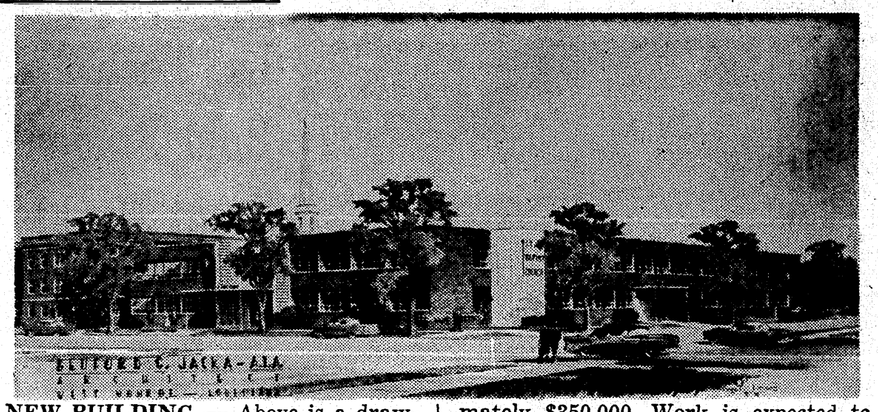
Dr. John E. Ross will speak at the Morning Worship Service, 10:45 today at the St. John's Christian Church, Forsythe at Westminster; Rev. C. R. Burcham, Minister. He will also speak at the Evening Service at 7:00 p.m. at the First Christian Church, St. John at Oak; Rev. J. O. Stewart, Minister.

Dr. Ross is a Chrisitan (Disciples of Christ) missionary to the Belgian Congo. He has been stationed at Lotumbe (pronounded Loh-toom'beh) in medical and evangelistic work.

Going to the Congo in 1948, Dr. Ross took up work at Lotumbe, a settlement of about 1,000 Congolese some 800 miles east of the mouth of the Congo river, or 100 miles up the Bomboyo tributary. For most of the intervening period he has been the only medical doctor in an 18,000 square - mile area extending 250 miles upriver and 50 miles downriver.

Dr. Ross and his wife serve alongside 90 other Disciple missionaries and 1,275 full-time national teachers and preachers in Christian work stemming from 10 major centers in a north-central Congo area about the size of the state of Kansas. There are 93,000 Protestant Christians, 311 schools and 934 places of Christian worship in this area.

The hospital which Dr. Ross supervises is a rapidly-expanding service institution. A maternity building, a clinical building, a surgery building and hospital chapel have been completed recently or are near completion. Dr. Ross also operates a rural dispensary and a leprosarium, three miles from Lotumbe. Nine new duplex dwellings have been completed for housing patients at the leprosarium. A total of 303 leprosy patients were under treatment in 1957. Dr. Ross also has helped in evangelism, education and construction.



NEW BUILDING — Above is a drawing of the new proposed Education and Recreation Building of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe. The building and equipment will cost approximately $350,000. Work is expected to start soon on the new building, which will house, among other things, 44 classrooms, a cafeteria, a stage, full-size gym.

Bargain In Charity To Be Available

By LOUIS CASSELS

The biggest bargain available to Americans this week end will be offered on Sunday morning in thousands of Protestant and Catholic churches.

It's a bargain in charity. Each dollar you contribute will buy at least $10 worth of food, clothing, medicine and other help for needy families abroad.

This is the Sunday on which all Catholic churches and many Protestant denominations conduct their simultaneous annual appeals for support of religious relief agencies which are extending aid to some 50 million persons in 60 countries.

The Protestant appeal is called "one great hour of sharing." Its proceeds support the work of Church World Service, a cooperative agency representing 35 major denominations.

Catholics will be asked to give to "the bishops' relief fund" which supports the operations of Catholic Relief Services.

MAIN AID CHANNEL

The third major religious relief agency—The United Jewish Appeal—began its annual drive for funds some time ago, but will still be accepting contributions this week end.

Performing a traditional church function on a global scale, the religious relief agencies have become the main channel for "person to person" American aid to the hungry and homeless of other lands.

This year they are distributing about 1,500,000,000 pounds of food . . .more than 25 million pounds of clothing. . .thousands of shipments of vaccines, vitamins and other medical supplies.

They are providing toys, books, and other supplies for countless orphanages. . .teachers and training materials for vocational schools. . .resettlement help for refugees. They are operating health clinics, digging wells, and conducting demonstrations in modern farming and canning methods.

HAS WON GOODWILL

Because it is conducted with no motive other than compassion for fellow human beings in need, this vast private aid program has won goodwill for America in many lands where government - sponsored aid projects are viewed with suspicion.

The most impressive aspect of the religious relief program is that so much is accomplished with so little. The funds available for overseas relief, through all three major faiths, total about 35 million dollars a year. But the services rendered by these agencies would cost at least 350 million dollars if they were valued on a straight commercial basis.

Hypnosis Tool Of Clergyman In Counseling

By GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

He hypnotizes them.

It's a "new approach to God," said the Rev. Mr. J. Douglas Gibson, of the First Methodist church, Conyers ,Ga.

"I have found it possible by this means to help people feel much closer to God than ever before."

"The results to date justify all the time it has taken to learn the use of hypnosis," he said.

Of about 460 members of his congregation, he has used the method on about 65 of them for various causes ranging from biting finger nails to deep inner fears.

Many others outside his church also have come to him for help—some of them referred to him by doctors with whom he works closely. Altogether in the past two years, he has used the system for about 200 persons.

"Most of them have turned to hypnosis after everything else has failed," he said.

Although the ancient process once was surrounded with superstitions and taboos, it is being used increasingly in medicine today.

But it rarely has been espoused as a tool of religion, even though church authorities lately have stressed the need of ministers for thorough training in psychology and personal counseling.

"From my experiences with hypnosis," the Rev. Mr. Gibson said, "I am convinced there is a definite need for more of our ministers to train in this field."

But it's not something to be approached lightly, he emphasized, but only after full backgrounding, and practice in regular counseling.

Before putting anyone into a hypnotic trance — that half-way sleep of subconscious awareness —he explains the process fully, and answers any questions about it, stressing that he's using it strictly as a minister of the Gospel.

He has worked with many couples whose marriages were floundering.

"I can hypnotize them both at once and we can discuss their problems," he said. "I can have them recall happy experiences which usually outweigh the unhappy ones and thus put their bad experiences in perspective.

"I give them suggestions while they're under hypnosis just like I would in regular counselling. But these post hypnotic suggestions are itched more strongly on their minds and they find it harder to break them."

Other problems which the Rev. Mr. Gibson has dealt with through this means include:

Teaching Clinic Starts Monday

The Northeast Bible Teaching and Administration clinic will be held March 9-13 at the West Monroe First Baptist Church and will feature some of the outstanding leaders in the Southern Baptist Convention.

Jimmy Neyland, educational director of the church, said morning sessions will be held from 9:30 a.m. until noon and evening sessions from 7 until 9 p.m.

Dr. J. M. Price Sr., dean emeritus of the School of Religious Education of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary will be the featured speaker of the week, along with Dr. Joe Davis Heacock who is president of the School of Religious Education.

Other specialists to appear on the program will include Mrs. Wilburn Buckley, extension work in local church and approved worker for Mississippi; Georgia Ruth Lee, youth director at Highland Baptist Church, Shreveport; J. L. Pollard, secretary of the Sunday School Department, Louisiana Baptist Convention; Rowland E. Crowder, consultant, Department of Church Architecture, Baptist Sunday School Board; and Mrs. Erle Dickson, director of Elementary Activities, First Baptist Church, Shreveport.

Bishop Martin Will Dedicate New Building

Bishop Paul E. Martin will dedicate the Parsonage, Educational Building, and lots of the Southside Methodist Church, today at 7:00 p.m.

The Parsonage will be dedicated in honor of George W. Crow as a result of a large contribution made by his wife, Callie. Open House will be held in the Parsonage from 5:00-7:00 p.m. At the evening service, Bishop Martin will bring the message. Members and friends of the Church are invited to attend.

The Parsonage was built in 1954. It was the second unit of the building program at the Southside Methodist Church and is presently valued at $23,800.

The Educational Building built in 1956 was the fourth unit in the building program and is valued at $12,300.

The Southside Methodist Church plant is valued at $135,000. The Church was organized July 13th, 1952 with Lea Joyner, its present pastor, as the minister.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I am married to a man who is a good father and provider for our family. He is a bit domineering. Right now I am interested in becoming a Christian as you explain it over the radio. He is of another faith, and I'm afraid to make the decision because it may wreck our home. Should I become a secret Christian?

ANSWER: There is no such thing as a secret Christian, for we are told over and over in the Bible to make known our personal faith. The Bible says, "With the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." (Romans 10:10) There is always a certain kind of risk involved when one member of a family makes such a decision, for it's possible that division may take place. Jesus predicted that such things might take place. (Matt. 10:34-39)

But there is another question before you. What will be the chances that your family will come to Christ if you do not make the decision, or if you try to be secretive about it. They need the witness of a Christian in the home. I would certainly counsel you to make the decision, leaving the results in the hands of God. Having then become a Christian in the true and Scriptual way, your conduct in the home is outlined for you in the letter of Peter. (I Peter 3:1-6) If you carefully follow God's directions, then we can pray that through you, your entire family wil be directed into a vital faith that delivers from every fear and gives hope of eternal life.

VENUS CAUSES EXCITEMENT

LONDON (UPI) — A strange yellow disk reported as an "unidentified object" over London Airport turned out to be the planet Venus, the British Air Ministry admitted sheepishly Friday. Sighting of the object the night of Feb. 26 set off an excited chain reaction. Venus cast a reflection that intermingled with the light from the nose cone of a civilian plane and just looked strange, a spokesman said Friday.

DR. JOHN E. ROSS

Missionary To Address Local Church

Dr. John E. Ross will speak at the Morning Worship Service, 10:45 today at the St. John's Christian Church, Forsythe at Westminster; Rev. C. R. Burcham, Minister. He will also speak at the Evening Service at 7:00 p.m. at the First Christian Church, St. John at Oak; Rev. J. O. Stewart, Minister.

Dr. Ross is a Chrisitan (Disciples of Christ) missionary to the Belgian Congo. He has been stationed at Lotumbe (pronounded Loh-toom'beh) in medical and evangelistic work.

Going to the Congo in 1948, Dr. Ross took up work at Lotumbe, a settlement of about 1,000 Congolese some 800 miles east of the mouth of the Congo river, or 100 miles up the Bomboyo tributary. For most of the intervening period he has been the only medical doctor in an 18,000 square - mile area extending 250 miles upriver and 50 miles downriver.

Dr. Ross and his wife serve alongside 90 other Disciple missionaries and 1,275 full-time national teachers and preachers in Christian work stemming from 10 major centers in a north-central Congo area about the size of the state of Kansas. There are 93,000 Protestant Christians, 311 schools and 934 places of Christian worship in this area.

The hospital which Dr. Ross supervises is a rapidly-expanding service institution. A maternity building, a clinical building, a surgery building and hospital chapel have been completed recently or are near completion. Dr. Ross also operates a rural dispensary and a leprosarium, three miles from Lotumbe. Nine new duplex dwellings have been completed for housing patients at the leprosarium. A total of 303 leprosy patients were under treatment in 1957. Dr. Ross also has helped in evangelism, education and construction.

Hypnosis Tool Of Clergyman In Counseling

By GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

He hypnotizes them.

It's a "new approach to God," said the Rev. Mr. J. Douglas Gibson, of the First Methodist church, Conyers ,Ga.

"I have found it possible by this means to help people feel much closer to God than ever before."

"The results to date justify all the time it has taken to learn the use of hypnosis," he said.

Of about 460 members of his congregation, he has used the method on about 65 of them for various causes ranging from biting finger nails to deep inner fears.

Many others outside his church also have come to him for help—some of them referred to him by doctors with whom he works closely. Altogether in the past two years, he has used the system for about 200 persons.

"Most of them have turned to hypnosis after everything else has failed," he said.

Although the ancient process once was surrounded with superstitions and taboos, it is being used increasingly in medicine today.

But it rarely has been espoused as a tool of religion, even though church authorities lately have stressed the need of ministers for thorough training in psychology and personal counseling.

"From my experiences with hypnosis," the Rev. Mr. Gibson said, "I am convinced there is a definite need for more of our ministers to train in this field."

But it's not something to be approached lightly, he emphasized, but only after full backgrounding, and practice in regular counseling.

Before putting anyone into a hypnotic trance — that half-way sleep of subconscious awareness —he explains the process fully, and answers any questions about it, stressing that he's using it strictly as a minister of the Gospel.

He has worked with many couples whose marriages were floundering.

"I can hypnotize them both at once and we can discuss their problems," he said. "I can have them recall happy experiences which usually outweigh the unhappy ones and thus put their bad experiences in perspective.

"I give them suggestions while they're under hypnosis just like I would in regular counselling. But these post hypnotic suggestions are itched more strongly on their minds and they find it harder to break them."

Other problems which the Rev. Mr. Gibson has dealt with through this means include:

NEW BUILDING — Above is a drawing of the new proposed Education and Recreation Building of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe. The building and equipment will cost approximately $350,000. Work is expected to start soon on the new building, which will house, among other things, 44 classrooms, a cafeteria, a stage, full-size gym.

Bargain In Charity To Be Available

By LOUIS CASSELS

The biggest bargain available to Americans this week end will be offered on Sunday morning in thousands of Protestant and Catholic churches.

It's a bargain in charity. Each dollar you contribute will buy at least $10 worth of food, clothing, medicine and other help for needy families abroad.

This is the Sunday on which all Catholic churches and many Protestant denominations conduct their simultaneous annual appeals for support of religious relief agencies which are extending aid to some 50 million persons in 60 countries.

The Protestant appeal is called "one great hour of sharing." Its proceeds support the work of Church World Service, a cooperative agency representing 35 major denominations.

Catholics will be asked to give to "the bishops' relief fund" which supports the operations of Catholic Relief Services.

MAIN AID CHANNEL

The third major religious relief agency—The United Jewish Appeal—began its annual drive for funds some time ago, but will still be accepting contributions this week end.

Performing a traditional church function on a global scale, the religious relief agencies have become the main channel for "person to person" American aid to the hungry and homeless of other lands.

This year they are distributing about 1,500,000,000 pounds of food . . .more than 25 million pounds of clothing. . .thousands of shipments of vaccines, vitamins and other medical supplies.

They are providing toys, books, and other supplies for countless orphanages. . .teachers and training materials for vocational schools. . .resettlement help for refugees. They are operating health clinics, digging wells, and conducting demonstrations in modern farming and canning methods.

HAS WON GOODWILL

Because it is conducted with no motive other than compassion for fellow human beings in need, this vast private aid program has won goodwill for America in many lands where government - sponsored aid projects are viewed with suspicion.

The most impressive aspect of the religious relief program is that so much is accomplished with so little. The funds available for overseas relief, through all three major faiths, total about 35 million dollars a year. But the services rendered by these agencies would cost at least 350 million dollars if they were valued on a straight commercial basis.

Teaching Clinic Starts Monday

The Northeast Bible Teaching and Administration clinic will be held March 9-13 at the West Monroe First Baptist Church and will feature some of the outstanding leaders in the Southern Baptist Convention.

Jimmy Neyland, educational director of the church, said morning sessions will be held from 9:30 a.m. until noon and evening sessions from 7 until 9 p.m.

Dr. J. M. Price Sr., dean emeritus of the School of Religious Education of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary will be the featured speaker of the week, along with Dr. Joe Davis Heacock who is president of the School of Religious Education.

Other specialists to appear on the program will include Mrs. Wilburn Buckley, extension work in local church and approved worker for Mississippi; Georgia Ruth Lee, youth director at Highland Baptist Church, Shreveport; J. L. Pollard, secretary of the Sunday School Department, Louisiana Baptist Convention; Rowland E. Crowder, consultant, Department of Church Architecture, Baptist Sunday School Board; and Mrs. Erle Dickson, director of Elementary Activities, First Baptist Church, Shreveport.

Bishop Martin Will Dedicate New Building

Bishop Paul E. Martin will dedicate the Parsonage, Educational Building, and lots of the Southside Methodist Church, today at 7:00 p.m.

The Parsonage will be dedicated in honor of George W. Crow as a result of a large contribution made by his wife, Callie. Open House will be held in the Parsonage from 5:00-7:00 p.m. At the evening service, Bishop Martin will bring the message. Members and friends of the Church are invited to attend.

The Parsonage was built in 1954. It was the second unit of the building program at the Southside Methodist Church and is presently valued at $23,800.

The Educational Building built in 1956 was the fourth unit in the building program and is valued at $12,300.

The Southside Methodist Church plant is valued at $135,000. The Church was organized July 13th, 1952 with Lea Joyner, its present pastor, as the minister.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I am married to a man who is a good father and provider for our family. He is a bit domineering. Right now I am interested in becoming a Christian as you explain it over the radio. He is of another faith, and I'm afraid to make the decision because it may wreck our home. Should I become a secret Christian?

ANSWER: There is no such thing as a secret Christian, for we are told over and over in the Bible to make known our personal faith. The Bible says, "With the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." (Romans 10:10) There is always a certain kind of risk involved when one member of a family makes such a decision, for it's possible that division may take place. Jesus predicted that such things might take place. (Matt. 10:34-39)

But there is another question before you. What will be the chances that your family will come to Christ if you do not make the decision, or if you try to be secretive about it. They need the witness of a Christian in the home. I would certainly counsel you to make the decision, leaving the results in the hands of God. Having then become a Christian in the true and Scriptual way, your conduct in the home is outlined for you in the letter of Peter. (I Peter 3:1-6) If you carefully follow God's directions, then we can pray that through you, your entire family wil be directed into a vital faith that delivers from every fear and gives hope of eternal life.

VENUS CAUSES EXCITEMENT

LONDON (UPI) — A strange yellow disk reported as an "unidentified object" over London Airport turned out to be the planet Venus, the British Air Ministry admitted sheepishly Friday. Sighting of the object the night of Feb. 26 set off an excited chain reaction. Venus cast a reflection that intermingled with the light from the nose cone of a civilian plane and just looked strange, a spokesman said Friday.

THE HOME SHIFT

By MILDRED SWIFT

My! North Louisiana is beautiful now. Every morning there's something new in bloom. Pear and plum trees, pearl bushes, flowering quince, baby breath and popcorn spirea and flowering almond. The bulbs are sheets of color.

Time goes by in a hurry. A rather "corny" statement. But, I can remember so well about ten years back when we all got the "crave" for the Japanese Magnolia (often incorrectly called tulip tree). Many gardeners said, "Oh! they grow too slowly." The small bushes planted at that time are now trees, blazing forth their beauty. So easy to grow, this tree. Responds well to fertilization twice yearly.

There are so many varieties. Just get a catalogue and study them. To be honest with you — I don't see a lot of difference in the varieties. The white is white of course. The Niegra is a blackish purple. From there on they all look very much like this one in bloom now — the saucer soulangeana.

The Alexandrine is a little pinker and the buds longer and more pointed. Still not a great deal of difference.

LECTURE

In a recent lecture given at the Monroe Garden Club, the speaker gave us some fine points on Louisiana trees. He said, in part:

Live oak is the main ornamental tree for this area. It is not adaptable for a street tree or small garlens. It is a faster growing tree than most people think.

The tulip tree is interesting. Usually it is twenty years old before it blooms.

There are a number of different varieties of magnolia grandiflora. The difference is in the shape of the leaf, the density of the plant, the shape of blooms and time of blooming.

Somebody asked the lecturer about cypress knees. He said nobody is sure why the knees appear. However, it is believed that they are sent up to help the tree breathe. He also said the cypress is a faster growing tree than most people realize.

GARDEN JOBS

You can continue to plant galdiolus for a few weeks. You can still set out dahlias. Fertilize any shrubs and trees you have missed. Fertilize lawn.

Work lime around clematis vines. Remember they like a sweet soil, their head in the sun, their roots in the shade.

Continue or begin sprigging St. Augustine, zoyzia or centipede grass. Keep watered. Do not fertilize until sprigs have rooted and started growing.

Divide and reset cannas now. If you want quality blooms, divide and thin out the bulbs. There are lots of new varieties.

Plant nasturtiums right away. They don't like the hot sun of June. The seed are large and can be planted when the soil is rather heavy.

No — don't put out caladium bulbs yet. The ground is too cold.

No, it is too early to plant hibiscus. They belong to the cotton family and can't stand the cold weather in March.

March or April are the months for dividing and resetting violets. This plant just seems to disappear unless reset every three years. Violets love plenty of humus worked in the soil. Some cottonseed meal and bonemeal (half and half) will help make the plants healthy and they'll give you more blooms. Watch for red spider when the weather gets warm. Spray with Malathion.

Prune popcorn spirea the same way. Old wood in any plant is not going to give you much bloom.

When selecting fall blooming bulbs, remember lycoris or spider lily. You're familiar with the old fashioned red one that blooms in late summer. This spider lily also comes in wellow, pink and white.

The pink ones are really gorgeous. The blooms are much larger than the red. All in all this is a dazzling kind of flower because it blooms on a naked stem.

NEW PRODUCTS

Fiber glass now comes in colors. This introduction of fiber glass dyed yarns makes possible new range of style and color for the familiar casement and drapery fabrics. The development means that for the first time color is applied prior to weaving.

Many or us will not be in this world to enjoy the dream house of the future that industrial designer, Henry Dreyfuss, says will actually come true. Sounds fantastic to me, but so did Robert Fulton's steamboat seem foolish to the people at that time. If we say anything "can't be done" that brands us as old fashioned, not modern or stupid.

Well here is the dream house. There will be less work because a walk through the foyer electronically removes dirt and mud from feet and clothing.

Moulded plastic baths and kitchens, with no dust collecting crevices have self - cleaning features. Press a button and a mixture of detergent and water swishes over the floor, dissolves the dirt and disappears down a concealed drain. Then there's a year - round air conditioning that keeps the air itself dust free and pollen free.

This home of tomorrow will have sheets and towels made of soft cellulose — so they can be thrown away after every use.

TILE MOSAICS

Mary Moore charmed her audience with tile mosaic work. For more information on how to do this work, go to the Monroe Community Center on 113 Catalpa on Friday at 1:00 p.m. This is an excellent project for those of you who teach church school in the summer.

While you're there, be sure to get Peggy Garnett to show you how to make a "tote" bag. Nice for Christmas presents.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Some very kind person called me and extended an invitation to you to see her many varieties of camellias. I'm so sorry — I misplaced the name. Please call again.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Mrs. Eloise Edwards will give us "Requirements for a Successful Garden"; Tuesday, Patsy Johnson will give us a style show of hair styles for little girls; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday, Marketing with Mildred; Friday, Ouachita Parish Library activities with Frances Flanders. See you next Sunday.

OPORTO, Portugal (UPI)—Rescue workers dug through massive piles of rubble Friday for the bodies of eight persons killed on Thursday night when a centuries-old stone wall collapsed and crushed their homes in a slum here.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Orange Hedge Mark Borders

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Some of the old Southern plantations used to be hedged off from the highways by large boundary plantings of osage orange trees. Mccartney roses, trifoliate orange and other prickly shrubs and trees. Here and there, as one rides over the countryside, sections of osage orange hedges — now grown into trees — can still be seen. In Georgia where the Mccartney rose hedges were so popular, these Chinese plants got into the pastures and had to be removed with bulldozers!

SHRUBS

We have much more beautiful shrubs and small trees for large boundary plantings today. Sasanqua, camellias, yaupon holly, Chinese holly, Japanese holly are all handsome broadleaf evergreens that have either flowers or berries. They will all grow in some shade, too. If care is taken to keep them fed in competition with the shade trees, they can become dense and beautiful indeed. Where there is room for it and where some pruning can be given, evergreen sorts of elaeagnus are very beautiful. One has to remember that all these shrubs are scramblers that will sooner or later scramble up trees and over other plants if they are not controlled. They are able to hold their own where there is already a jungle, and they are ideal bird nesting sites.

For smaller properties, there are numerous beautiful shrubs that make a beautiful boundary planting of some size. A very handsome boundary shrubbery can be made up of several of these, with some of the evergreen shrubs for winter interest. The shrub roses like chinquapen rose, Father Hugo's rose, the large old-fashioned tea roses, moss roses, sweetheart rose and many others are all really happier in a big space than all crumpled up in some place in a garden. All of these need space for their real development. Most of them are prickly enough to keep animals out, once the bushes have grown large enough. Of course, there is no better protective boundary than the multiflora rose fences we are being encouraged to plant for the game these days. If we are not careful, however, we shall soon have too much of this species.

SMALL TREES

In a mixed boundary planting of large shrubs, an occasional small tree is charming and in scale with the other plants. Dogwoods and redbuds are the right size for this and willing to live in sun or in some shade. The so-called dwarf Chinese redbud has the virtue of blooming lustily as a small shrub or as a slow-growing small tree. When kept pruned down, it will make a flowering hedge that has no peer, for the flowers literally come out down to the ground on the trunks. Our native redbud will not usually flower until it has attained some height.

Little Early For Planting

By AUDREY DAWSON

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

At this writing, spring is really in the air and of course that brings gardening to our minds. Everyone wants to get busy, and some of us may get too anxious. One homemaker called and said she just wanted to get in her yard to work and wanted to know if it would be all right to plant her caladium bulbs. It's a little early for planting these, but there are a lot of jobs we can do right now. One is to feed our lawns and trees and there's a new fertilizer on the market today — 14-14-14. It's been available earlier but not in quantity.

Then those gardeners who had trouble with chinch bugs in St. Augustine grass last year, this is the recommended time to treat your lawn. Dust with 5 per cent DDT or 6 per cent Chlordane dust at the rate of 5 pounds per 1000 square feet. For spray use 4 ounces DDT or Chlordane per 1000 square feet.

If you are selecting plants for your yard and you want year around screening you should include cherry laurel, holly trees, sweet myrtle, eleagnus, pungens, untrimmed if there is plenty of room. If you have too small an area then include these evergreens: red leaf photenia, viburnum, titnus, and sasanqua. Evergreen vines such as yellow jasmine and confederate jasmine on fence or fence panels make a desirable screen for economy of space.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

Our American Home Economics Association is 50 years old this year and we, in Louisiana, will celebrate the golden anniversary at our annual spring meeting which will be held in Alexandria, March 13, 14th. One of the events during the celebration is a luncheon honoring pioneer Home Economist in Louisiana. Three of the 18 to be honored are centainly not new names to us in this section. Mrs. Euna Spielman, 603 South 3rd Street, retired Home Demonstration Agent of Ouachita Parish; Miss Pearl LeFevre, 2702 South Grand, retired Home Demonstration Agent of Richland Parish, and Mrs. Sara Bres, retired Home Economics teacher of Neville High School, whose address is shown as Opelousas. The three Home Economists in our office will attend the Golden Anniversary meeting.

MARCH — EGG MONTH

March has been proclaimed as National Egg Month. You saw in our local paper that Mayor Howard and Mayor Norris signed the proclamation and urged the people of the Twin Cities to become aware of the value of eggs in our diet. Our own Clyde Ingram, Extension Poultry Specialist, is serving as chairman for Louisiana.

Here are a few suggestions to you, Mrs. Homemaker, using eggs — put them into the refrigerator quickly. Eggs lose quality rapidly if left in warm kitchen.

In separating yolks and whites if you should get some of the yolk into the whites you'll find it easy to remove every trace of it with a piece of egg shell or paper towel.

When cooking eggs in water you'll avoid that annoying discoloration on the inside of the sauce pan if you choose a stainless steel, enamel or top stove glass utensil.

Before washing beater and bowl in which eggs or egg yolks have been beaten, rinse in cold water first. This makes the job much easier. If you use hot water to start you'll cook the egg or yolk on beaters and bowl.

COTTON COLORS

Have you seen the colorful array of cottons this season? Brilliant colors, oriental prints and novel patterns and textures are shown. The pink family is of first importance, with hot pinks, cherry pinks, jewel like ruby tones, firecracker reds, raspberry and carnation shades most often seen.

Blues are highlighted in brilliant turquoise, true blue and exotic peacock. There is new appeal to the greens, with high style and green, citron and light avocado shown. For sunlit hours, the sunny yellows include oriental bright yellow and sun gold, as well as topaz and sophisticated grapefruit.

A THOUGHT — If you don't get your share of pay perhaps you don't help make it.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Jonesboro, Hodge Display

By MARY JARDINE

Our exhibitors this week, members of the Jonesboro - Hodge Garden Club, have as one of their civic projects, making and delivering three hospital arrangements each month to different hospitals in Jonesboro and Hodge.

For their display this week they made arrangements suitable for a hospital room, using throw - away containers with chicken wire as holders.

The containers were of papier mache and fruit juice cans painted to harmonize with the designs. The cost of painting is very little, if anything and they certainly are most effective and more attractive than a foil wrapped container.

FIRST PLACE

Mrs. Paul Bourg was awarded first place for her Hogarth design (the lazy S) in white and gold. A tall fruit juice can painted gold was used for a container. Tall curved branches of pear blossoms formed the vertical placements and the lazy S curve was achieved by bringing another branch forward and down the length of the container. Buds and blooms of the lovely white Leucantha camellias emphasized the line and created a most interesting focal point. The gold stamens picking up the gold of the container. Most attractive.

CAMELLIAS

Mrs. W. O. Corley's beautiful pink arrangement featured the luscious Dr. Tinsley camellias. The container in this instance was a round bowl of papier mache tinted pink to match the flowers. Mrs. Corley designed a symmetrical mass arrangement using pussy - willow buds for the background. Buds and blooms of the pink camellias were effectively massed in the foreground.

Mrs. Charles Barnum selected a boat shaped papier mache container painted a dark green for her arrangement of fruit and foliage. Buford holly branches were arranged in a crescent design forming a pleasing setting for the fruit in the center of the design. Fresh grapes, pears and apples were skillfully placed in the center of the crescent. A most appetizing design. All of these lovely arrangements would certainly add cheer to the sick room.

HORTICULTURE

In the horticulture section blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. Charles Barnum for Unsurpassable daffodil. Mrs. W. O. Corley for Duchess of Sutherland Special camellia. This is a large flat solid pink camellia, semi-double in form. Some of the inner petals curl around the stamens. Also to Mrs. Corley a blue ribbon for her large white hyacinth.

Now is the time to visit gardens of your friends and see all the daffodils and camellias in bloom, and select the varieties that you like for your own garden. Among the many blooming in our garden just now are San Francisco a golden yellow double, Carbineer, Flat golden yellow perianth with large bright orange red cup. Mrs. R. O. Backhouse one of the pink daffodils, and Music Hall, a large flower with pure white perianth and golden yellow nicely flanged trumpet.

For the beginner with camellias, it is best to start with the tried and true varieties in this area. Remember that camellias area. Remember that camellias must have some shade and buy smaller blooming size plants. The camellias on display at the Center this week do very well here. R. L. Wheeler, stands the cold well. It is a large semi-double of anemone form. The color is a rose pink and it is an early to medium bloomer. One of the most exquisite pinks is the above mentioned. Dr. Tinsley. Remember the State Flower Show in Hammond, March 14 and 15, in Hammond on the Southeastern Campus. Show opens at 4 p.m. on Saturday. Hope to see you there.

Different Uses Of Driftwood Shown At Club

The Town and Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. George Wright, who served as co-hostess with Mrs. Tom Shields and Mrs. W. A. Paris.

The guest speaker for the day was Mrs. W. P. Rushing who displayed her unusual collection of driftwood in the use of floral and fruit arrangements. The driftwood had been collected on the banks of Lake Providence and was different from many other collections found along rivers, as most of them were cypress knees, in whole or in part, in various shapes. Mrs. Rushing informed on the finishing of the wood, and she used "Four Seasons" as her theme in the floral and fruit displays. For spring, daffodils and blooms from other bulbs were used; for summer, roses and fruit were used; for fall, she used dried flowers, some of which she had collected near her home; and the winter arrangement was also of dried flowers.

Mrs. William Gore, president, conducted the meeting in the usual procedure, and announced March 16th as the date for the club's pilgrimage to the bulb gardens of Mrs. U. B. Evans, Haphazard Plantation at Vidalia. It was decided that about ten of the members planned to tour the gardens and make one tour of the homes at Natchez during the March Pilgrimage, and remain over - night for the Confederate pageant. Also, about five members planned to make the day tours and return home in the evening.

The president reminded the members of the flower workshop, sponsored by the East Carroll Garden Club to be held April 9th, and urged them to attend.

Members present included Mesdames: Phillip Brown, C. L. Clegg, Smiley Caruthers, J. H. Gilfoil, III, W. R. Gore, Jack Hamilton, J. E. Howington, J. R. Jeter, Casper Lensing, Cecil Pylant, B. H. Miss Gertrude Sandrock presided over the coffee service. Refreshments were served to the following members present: John Cale, Leon Hammond, Max Kulcke, Miss Louise Moore, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. Paul J. Newman, Sr., Miss Cliffie Olmstead, Miss May Read, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. C. C. Carroll, Miss Ladelle Duke, and Mrs. Dolly Douglas.

THE HOME SHIFT

By MILDRED SWIFT

My! North Louisiana is beautiful now. Every morning there's something new in bloom. Pear and plum trees, pearl bushes, flowering quince, baby breath and popcorn spirea and flowering almond. The bulbs are sheets of color.

Time goes by in a hurry. A rather "corny" statement. But, I can remember so well about ten years back when we all got the "crave" for the Japanese Magnolia (often incorrectly called tulip tree). Many gardeners said, "Oh! they grow too slowly." The small bushes planted at that time are now trees, blazing forth their beauty. So easy to grow, this tree. Responds well to fertilization twice yearly.

There are so many varieties. Just get a catalogue and study them. To be honest with you — I don't see a lot of difference in the varieties. The white is white of course. The Niegra is a blackish purple. From there on they all look very much like this one in bloom now — the saucer soulangeana.

The Alexandrine is a little pinker and the buds longer and more pointed. Still not a great deal of difference.

LECTURE

In a recent lecture given at the Monroe Garden Club, the speaker gave us some fine points on Louisiana trees. He said, in part:

Live oak is the main ornamental tree for this area. It is not adaptable for a street tree or small garlens. It is a faster growing tree than most people think.

The tulip tree is interesting. Usually it is twenty years old before it blooms.

There are a number of different varieties of magnolia grandiflora. The difference is in the shape of the leaf, the density of the plant, the shape of blooms and time of blooming.

Somebody asked the lecturer about cypress knees. He said nobody is sure why the knees appear. However, it is believed that they are sent up to help the tree breathe. He also said the cypress is a faster growing tree than most people realize.

GARDEN JOBS

You can continue to plant galdiolus for a few weeks. You can still set out dahlias. Fertilize any shrubs and trees you have missed. Fertilize lawn.

Work lime around clematis vines. Remember they like a sweet soil, their head in the sun, their roots in the shade.

Continue or begin sprigging St. Augustine, zoyzia or centipede grass. Keep watered. Do not fertilize until sprigs have rooted and started growing.

Divide and reset cannas now. If you want quality blooms, divide and thin out the bulbs. There are lots of new varieties.

Plant nasturtiums right away. They don't like the hot sun of June. The seed are large and can be planted when the soil is rather heavy.

No — don't put out caladium bulbs yet. The ground is too cold.

No, it is too early to plant hibiscus. They belong to the cotton family and can't stand the cold weather in March.

March or April are the months for dividing and resetting violets. This plant just seems to disappear unless reset every three years. Violets love plenty of humus worked in the soil. Some cottonseed meal and bonemeal (half and half) will help make the plants healthy and they'll give you more blooms. Watch for red spider when the weather gets warm. Spray with Malathion.

Prune popcorn spirea the same way. Old wood in any plant is not going to give you much bloom.

When selecting fall blooming bulbs, remember lycoris or spider lily. You're familiar with the old fashioned red one that blooms in late summer. This spider lily also comes in wellow, pink and white.

The pink ones are really gorgeous. The blooms are much larger than the red. All in all this is a dazzling kind of flower because it blooms on a naked stem.

NEW PRODUCTS

Fiber glass now comes in colors. This introduction of fiber glass dyed yarns makes possible new range of style and color for the familiar casement and drapery fabrics. The development means that for the first time color is applied prior to weaving.

Many or us will not be in this world to enjoy the dream house of the future that industrial designer, Henry Dreyfuss, says will actually come true. Sounds fantastic to me, but so did Robert Fulton's steamboat seem foolish to the people at that time. If we say anything "can't be done" that brands us as old fashioned, not modern or stupid.

Well here is the dream house. There will be less work because a walk through the foyer electronically removes dirt and mud from feet and clothing.

Moulded plastic baths and kitchens, with no dust collecting crevices have self - cleaning features. Press a button and a mixture of detergent and water swishes over the floor, dissolves the dirt and disappears down a concealed drain. Then there's a year - round air conditioning that keeps the air itself dust free and pollen free.

This home of tomorrow will have sheets and towels made of soft cellulose — so they can be thrown away after every use.

TILE MOSAICS

Mary Moore charmed her audience with tile mosaic work. For more information on how to do this work, go to the Monroe Community Center on 113 Catalpa on Friday at 1:00 p.m. This is an excellent project for those of you who teach church school in the summer.

While you're there, be sure to get Peggy Garnett to show you how to make a "tote" bag. Nice for Christmas presents.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Some very kind person called me and extended an invitation to you to see her many varieties of camellias. I'm so sorry — I misplaced the name. Please call again.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Mrs. Eloise Edwards will give us "Requirements for a Successful Garden"; Tuesday, Patsy Johnson will give us a style show of hair styles for little girls; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday, Marketing with Mildred; Friday, Ouachita Parish Library activities with Frances Flanders. See you next Sunday.

OPORTO, Portugal (UPI)—Rescue workers dug through massive piles of rubble Friday for the bodies of eight persons killed on Thursday night when a centuries-old stone wall collapsed and crushed their homes in a slum here.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Orange Hedge Mark Borders

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Some of the old Southern plantations used to be hedged off from the highways by large boundary plantings of osage orange trees. Mccartney roses, trifoliate orange and other prickly shrubs and trees. Here and there, as one rides over the countryside, sections of osage orange hedges — now grown into trees — can still be seen. In Georgia where the Mccartney rose hedges were so popular, these Chinese plants got into the pastures and had to be removed with bulldozers!

SHRUBS

We have much more beautiful shrubs and small trees for large boundary plantings today. Sasanqua, camellias, yaupon holly, Chinese holly, Japanese holly are all handsome broadleaf evergreens that have either flowers or berries. They will all grow in some shade, too. If care is taken to keep them fed in competition with the shade trees, they can become dense and beautiful indeed. Where there is room for it and where some pruning can be given, evergreen sorts of elaeagnus are very beautiful. One has to remember that all these shrubs are scramblers that will sooner or later scramble up trees and over other plants if they are not controlled. They are able to hold their own where there is already a jungle, and they are ideal bird nesting sites.

For smaller properties, there are numerous beautiful shrubs that make a beautiful boundary planting of some size. A very handsome boundary shrubbery can be made up of several of these, with some of the evergreen shrubs for winter interest. The shrub roses like chinquapen rose, Father Hugo's rose, the large old-fashioned tea roses, moss roses, sweetheart rose and many others are all really happier in a big space than all crumpled up in some place in a garden. All of these need space for their real development. Most of them are prickly enough to keep animals out, once the bushes have grown large enough. Of course, there is no better protective boundary than the multiflora rose fences we are being encouraged to plant for the game these days. If we are not careful, however, we shall soon have too much of this species.

SMALL TREES

In a mixed boundary planting of large shrubs, an occasional small tree is charming and in scale with the other plants. Dogwoods and redbuds are the right size for this and willing to live in sun or in some shade. The so-called dwarf Chinese redbud has the virtue of blooming lustily as a small shrub or as a slow-growing small tree. When kept pruned down, it will make a flowering hedge that has no peer, for the flowers literally come out down to the ground on the trunks. Our native redbud will not usually flower until it has attained some height.

Little Early For Planting

By AUDREY DAWSON

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

At this writing, spring is really in the air and of course that brings gardening to our minds. Everyone wants to get busy, and some of us may get too anxious. One homemaker called and said she just wanted to get in her yard to work and wanted to know if it would be all right to plant her caladium bulbs. It's a little early for planting these, but there are a lot of jobs we can do right now. One is to feed our lawns and trees and there's a new fertilizer on the market today — 14-14-14. It's been available earlier but not in quantity.

Then those gardeners who had trouble with chinch bugs in St. Augustine grass last year, this is the recommended time to treat your lawn. Dust with 5 per cent DDT or 6 per cent Chlordane dust at the rate of 5 pounds per 1000 square feet. For spray use 4 ounces DDT or Chlordane per 1000 square feet.

If you are selecting plants for your yard and you want year around screening you should include cherry laurel, holly trees, sweet myrtle, eleagnus, pungens, untrimmed if there is plenty of room. If you have too small an area then include these evergreens: red leaf photenia, viburnum, titnus, and sasanqua. Evergreen vines such as yellow jasmine and confederate jasmine on fence or fence panels make a desirable screen for economy of space.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

Our American Home Economics Association is 50 years old this year and we, in Louisiana, will celebrate the golden anniversary at our annual spring meeting which will be held in Alexandria, March 13, 14th. One of the events during the celebration is a luncheon honoring pioneer Home Economist in Louisiana. Three of the 18 to be honored are centainly not new names to us in this section. Mrs. Euna Spielman, 603 South 3rd Street, retired Home Demonstration Agent of Ouachita Parish; Miss Pearl LeFevre, 2702 South Grand, retired Home Demonstration Agent of Richland Parish, and Mrs. Sara Bres, retired Home Economics teacher of Neville High School, whose address is shown as Opelousas. The three Home Economists in our office will attend the Golden Anniversary meeting.

MARCH — EGG MONTH

March has been proclaimed as National Egg Month. You saw in our local paper that Mayor Howard and Mayor Norris signed the proclamation and urged the people of the Twin Cities to become aware of the value of eggs in our diet. Our own Clyde Ingram, Extension Poultry Specialist, is serving as chairman for Louisiana.

Here are a few suggestions to you, Mrs. Homemaker, using eggs — put them into the refrigerator quickly. Eggs lose quality rapidly if left in warm kitchen.

In separating yolks and whites if you should get some of the yolk into the whites you'll find it easy to remove every trace of it with a piece of egg shell or paper towel.

When cooking eggs in water you'll avoid that annoying discoloration on the inside of the sauce pan if you choose a stainless steel, enamel or top stove glass utensil.

Before washing beater and bowl in which eggs or egg yolks have been beaten, rinse in cold water first. This makes the job much easier. If you use hot water to start you'll cook the egg or yolk on beaters and bowl.

COTTON COLORS

Have you seen the colorful array of cottons this season? Brilliant colors, oriental prints and novel patterns and textures are shown. The pink family is of first importance, with hot pinks, cherry pinks, jewel like ruby tones, firecracker reds, raspberry and carnation shades most often seen.

Blues are highlighted in brilliant turquoise, true blue and exotic peacock. There is new appeal to the greens, with high style and green, citron and light avocado shown. For sunlit hours, the sunny yellows include oriental bright yellow and sun gold, as well as topaz and sophisticated grapefruit.

A THOUGHT — If you don't get your share of pay perhaps you don't help make it.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

By MARY JARDINE

Our exhibitors this week, members of the Jonesboro - Hodge Garden Club, have as one of their civic projects, making and delivering three hospital arrangements each month to different hospitals in Jonesboro and Hodge.

For their display this week they made arrangements suitable for a hospital room, using throw - away containers with chicken wire as holders.

The containers were of papier mache and fruit juice cans painted to harmonize with the designs. The cost of painting is very little, if anything and they certainly are most effective and more attractive than a foil wrapped container.

FIRST PLACE

Mrs. Paul Bourg was awarded first place for her Hogarth design (the lazy S) in white and gold. A tall fruit juice can painted gold was used for a container. Tall curved branches of pear blossoms formed the vertical placements and the lazy S curve was achieved by bringing another branch forward and down the length of the container. Buds and blooms of the lovely white Leucantha camellias emphasized the line and created a most interesting focal point. The gold stamens picking up the gold of the container. Most attractive.

CAMELLIAS

Mrs. W. O. Corley's beautiful pink arrangement featured the luscious Dr. Tinsley camellias. The container in this instance was a round bowl of papier mache tinted pink to match the flowers. Mrs. Corley designed a symmetrical mass arrangement using pussy - willow buds for the background. Buds and blooms of the pink camellias were effectively massed in the foreground.

Mrs Charles Barnum selected a boat shaped papier mache container painted a dark green for her arrangement of fruit and foliage. Buford holly branches were arranged in a crescent design forming a pleasing setting for the fruit in the center of the design. Fresh grapes, pears and apples were skillfully placed in the center of the crescent. A most appetizing design. All of these lovely arrangements would certainly add cheer to the sick room.

HORTICULTURE

In the horticulture section blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. Charles Barnum for Unsurpassable daffodil. . Mrs. W. O. Corley for Duchess of Sutherland Special camellia. This is a large flat solid pink camellia, semi-double in form. Some of the inner petals curl around the stamens. Also to Mrs. Corley a blue ribbon for her large white hyacinth.

Now is the time to visit gardens of your friends and see all the daffodils and camellias in bloom, and select the varieties that you like for your own garden. Among the many blooming in our garden just now are San Francisco a golden yellow double, Carbineer, Flat golden yellow perianth with large bright orange red cup. Mrs. R. O. Backhouse one of the pink daffodils, and Music Hall, a large flower with pure white perianth and golden yellow nicely flanged trumpet.

For the beginner with camellias, it is best to start with the tried and true varieties in this area. Remember that camellias area. Remember that camellias must have some shade and buy smaller blooming size plants. The camellias on display at the Center this week do very well here. R. L. Wheeler, stands the cold well. It is a large semi-double of anemone form. The color is a rose pink and it is an early to medium bloomer. One of the most exquisite pinks is the above mentioned. Dr. Tinsley. Remember the State Flower Show in Hammond, March 14 and 15, in Hammond on the Southeastern Campus. Show opens at 4 p.m. on Saturday. Hope to see you there.

Two Hostesses Entertained Garden Club

The Simsboro Garden Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. J. H. Murphy with Mrs. W. S. Durrett as co - hostess.

Mrs. Earl Harrist, president, called the meeting to order after which the reading of the Gardener's Prayer was led by Mrs. S. C. Cole. A club luncheon will be held in March at which time the anniversary of the club will be observed and the following officers will be installed: president, Mrs. C. C. Cole; vice president, Mrs. A. A. Different Uses Of Driftwood Shown At Club

The Town and Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. George Wright, who served as co-hostess with Mrs. Tom Shields and Mrs. W. A. Paris.

The guest speaker for the day was Mrs. W. P. Rushing who displayed her unusual collection of driftwood in the use of floral and fruit arrangements. The driftwood had been collected on the banks of Lake Providence and was different from many other collections found along rivers, as most of them were cypress knees, in whole or in part, in various shapes. Mrs. Rushing informed on the finishing of the wood, and she used "Four Seasons" as her theme in the floral and fruit displays. For spring, daffodils and blooms from other bulbs were used; for summer, roses and fruit were used; for fall, she used dried flowers, some of which she had collected near her home; and the winter arrangement was also of dried flowers.

Mrs. William Gore, president, conducted the meeting in the usual procedure, and announced March 16th as the date for the club's pilgrimage to the bulb gardens of Mrs. U. B. Evans, Haphazard Plantation at Vidalia. It was decided that about ten of the members planned to tour the gardens and make one tour of the homes at Natchez during the March Pilgrimage, and remain over - night for the Confederate pageant. Also, about five members planned to make the day tours and return home in the evening.

The president reminded the members of the flower workshop, sponsored by the East Carroll Garden Club to be held April 9th, and urged them to attend.

Members present included Mesdames: Phillip Brown, C. L. Clegg, Smiley Caruthers, J. H. Gilfoil, III, W. R. Gore, Jack Hamilton, J. E. Howington, J. R. Jeter, Casper Lensing, Cecil Pylant, B. H. ESCAPE TO UTOPIA

About The Communal Movement In America

ESCAPE TO UTOPIA By Everett Webber (Hastings House, $5.50).

Webber is a professor at Northwestern State College in Natchitoches, Louisiana. In this book, he describes the communal movement in America, one of which was located in the state.

A fascinating, half-forgotten segment of our history is the story of the experimental communes which sprang up all over America in the late 1700's and throughout the 19th century. For years these Utopian schemes stirred the public to passionate interest or heated disapproval. Religious or secular, the prophets of each commune had the basic idea of pooling labor and goods. They also had in common a blithe disregard for the facts of human nature. Webber recounts here with great good humor the pitfalls that beset these creators of a strange social phenomenon.

The secular leaders such as Robert Owen were trying, singlehanded, to relieve all men of having to pay tribute to those they felt were without moral call on humanity's pocketbook — those they considered useless, parasitical and nonproducing, usually listed as the middleman, the speculator, or capitalist of whatever kind. Each leader drew, however, his inconvenient quota of nonproducing, parasitical followers whose chief concern was more to share the wealth than to contribute to it. And, despite the most dedicated efforts, the financial reasoning tended to be riddled with loopholes.

The prophets of the religious communes were likely to have received "revelations" that they were deities or at least recipients of "divine gifts" rather above the humdrum. Immortality in the flesh was the most popular of these gifts, since the prophet usualy conferred similar immortality upon the faithful. That sort of thing has tended to brand all the religious prophets as quacks, which is not essentially fair — for their moral tone varied widely from the gentle humility of Ann Lee, founder of the Shakers, to the breathtaking egocentricity of exotic Thomas Lake Harris.

Sex was a problem in all the communes, and a startling variety of solutions was attempted ranging from total celibacy to elaborate systems of "spiritual wiving." These led to results, sometimes funny and sometimes tragic, which seldom proved to be solutions at all, let alone improvements on conventional family life. Economically, the profit motive proved as irremovable a difficulty as sex. The communal movement died a natural death shortly after the turn of the century, but among its prophets had been people of accomplishment and idealism who left their mark even if their communes usually did not.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

Ballet before the blow Wednesday night on the Louisiana Tech campus was top attraction in the area's sphere of the fine arts this week.

The Monroe Little Theatre completed its first week's run of "Pajama Game" with director Ivan Uttal optimistic about the energy and enthusiasm shown by the entire cast and co-workers. Barring illness, the director feels the cast will give "last nighters" just as fast moving a performance as the opening of the two-week run, which took plenty of horsepower. More on this subject later.

BALLET RUSSE

Beautiful costumes, sets and unusual choreography marked the performance of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, an attraction of the La. Tech Concert Association at Howard Auditorium Wednesday.

Members of the troop pointed out the opening "Variations Classiques," based on the Brahms' Variations on a Theme by Handel, was new to the ballet world, having been worked out as a dance last year by Nina Novak of the company. Miss Novak and George Zoritch followed this with the Grand Pas de Deux from Don Quixote.

The colorful "Sombreros" based on Mexican folk music opened the final portion of the program and the full company of 21 dancers took part in the concluding "Beau Danube," which featured several waltzes of Johann Strauss.

Finest dancing of the evening was exhibited by Irina Borowska and Eugene Slavin as the hussar and street dancer in the finale. Elaborate sets and lighting effects were prominent in the "Sombreros" as well as the "Beau Danube."

An unusual note to the performance was the high quality of the orchestra—large and flexible to get full symphonic effects — as contrasted with some flaws in the dancing. Most obvious among these was the excess of rosin spread on the floor. A little of this serves to prevent slipping; too much of it causes an objectionable squeak and gives the impression the dancers are driving with the brakes on.

The large audience in Howard auditorium — many of whom risked a stormy ride back to the Monroe area — sounded their approval of the performance at the final curtain. A good percentage of concert followers are ardent supporters of ballet, and the Ballet Russe lived up to their expectations.

SELMAN FIELD

We took in another performance of "Pajama Game" on the one hand to hear Slade Brown's version of Sid, the male lead, and on the other to see how the cast is progressing with a two - week project in addition to their regular jobs.

From all appearances, the whole "crew" thrives on the three - hour workout. Scene changes have been slowed somewhat — a wise move following several accidents Sunday night.

Slade as Sid had the necessary belt - to - vocal - chord correlation to drive home the wide variety of songs in the play. Diction was clear and the dancing parts showed a definite improvement over the same actor's part in last year's "Boy Friend." Footwork during the spoken lines was somewhat static — a problem which possibly hinges on the fact that an audience surrounds the stage on three sides.

SONG VARIETY

V. P. Dalrymple, who took the part of "management" Hassler, put over his part well both in the word and mood department. His was heaviest non - singing part in the show; others were the salesman (Jimmy Branch) and the railroad engineer (Rufus Bruce.)

Without doubt, the songs — each a creation reflecting long traditions — held the play before Broadway audiences for more than a thousand consecutive nights.

"A New Town is a Blue Town" reflects the torch song type of blues which was popular in the late 1920's. The Latin touch was prominent in "Hernando's Hideaway," and "Her Is." "Steam Heat" recalled a now seldom heard style of the late 1930's typified by the "industrial" effect of Raymond Scott's "Powerhouse."

There was even an alma matter entitled "Sleep Tight," plus two waltzes "I'm Not at All in Love," and the Viennese fantasy during the nightmare.

Golden City Is A Raging Controversy

THE GOLDEN CITY By Henry Hope Reed Jr. (Doubleday, $5.75).

In this sharply written and copiously illustrated survey of the American architectural scene, Reed, plunges into the center of today's raging controversy over the "Modern" versus the "classical" tradition in architecture. A well-known architectural writer and critic, Reed has presented here an eloquent and outspoken denunciation of the so-called Modern style.

According to the author, the Modern building is at best an engineering rather than an artistic achievement. To the twentieth - century achitect, "progress" has come to mean the rebellious departure from the classical tradition, and "functional" and "efficient" have become synonymous with "beautiful."

Today's "form follows function" theory can be seen everywhere: in New York City's streets — where Bowker's handsome bishop's-crook lamppost has given way to a denuded stainless - steel pole; in small villages — where a charming square is obliterated by an ungainly gas station; in country houses — where nature is used as a shroud rather than as a setting.

But Reed predicts the gradual and indeed already visible decline of the Modern style and the return to a new classical period. (One of America's most fanatical Modernists has now abandoned the unadorned plate - glass facade and has hidden it under a cement grille.) The metropolis of the future, the Golden City — in which sculpture, painting, and architectural ornament are again intrinsic parts of every building — is not far away.

BOOKS

The Valadon Drama, by John Storm (Dutton): The great artists of the Impressionist period live again in this biography of Suzanne Valadon, mother of Maurice Utrillo. The little group of 19th century artists, writes and musicians who lived and produced their revolutionary works in Montmartre included Suzanne, a natural artist, in their select and somewhat soiled company. Her formal schooling ended before she was ten, but she found her real education in the streets and alleys of Montmartre where she spent her entire life. Practically illiterate, Suzanne is a difficult subject for the biographer who had to depend on interviews with people who remembered her — in the absence of the usual letters and other writings on which to draw. But Storm was persistent and industrious in his pursuit. His Suzanne Valadon is a lively and interesting literary reincarnation.

Paradise In Trust, by Ribert Trumbull (Sloane): This is a report by a veteran foreign correspondent on the American trusteeship over 2,141 Pacific islands and 67,000 islanders. The biggest fear of many of these brown people is fallout from H-bomb tests. They have successively left the influence of Spain, Germany, Japan and the United States. Their hopes for the future were summed up by a Truk islander in these words: "We just want to be governed by some country that isn't going to lose any wars." In the author's opinion, no country could govern the islands better than they are being governed.

Letters to Mother, by Charles Van Doren (Channel Press): A collection of letters written by famous men and women to their mothers. The letters sometimes give fascinating insights into the private lives and characters of their authors. There is one from George Washington in which the tone to his mother is businesslike to the point of annoyance. Van Doren's brief analyses preceding each series of letters reflect a keen understanding of and liking for people, and some of them make better reading than the letters themselves.

The Face of War, by Martha Gellhorn (Simon & Schuster): Selections from the author's writings when she was a war correspondent. She sees wars as inevitable — "we have never been free of them. I hate this fact and accept it." But she believes that we should "keep our crime under control," and engage only in small, non - nuclear wars that will only kill off members of current generations without blotting out the future as a full-scale nuclear war probably would. Miss Gellhorn's accounts of the destruction and human wretchedness she has witnessed in "conventional" wars are convincing if anyone needs convincing.

LITTLE THEATRE

By the time you read this, Pajama Game will have completed eight of its scheduled fourteen performances. We hope you have a reservation for one of the remaining nights. Friday and Saturday have been booked almost solid from the very beginning, but seats are available on week nights — at least they were when we wrote this. Maybe there will be some cancellations for Friday or Saturday which you might be lucky enough to pick up.

We have had a number of visitors from out of town. From Orange, Texas, came Mr. and Mrs. John L. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brown Jr., Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Trimble; from Houston, Mr. Leslie Coleman; from Dallas Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and the Hunt Dunnaways.

So fast is the pace of our musical that we half expect the whole thing to fly into orbit; but last Sunday, things really happened. W. J. Haddad ran into something and knocked himself out. We mean literally o-u-t. Ivan was diving into a costume to substitute for him when W. J. opened his eyes and struggled to his feet. During the rest of the play he carried a wad of cotton saturated with ammonia which he sniffed surreptitiously whenever he felt himself going woozy.

Somebody had left the corner of a blanket in Linda Lavender's exit path. As she bounded out, she slipped down with a crash full length on her back — just outside the arena. It makes our discs hurt to think of the harm she could have suffered. In the boisterous bull fight dance, Dell Moore lost her shoe but carried on with one leg three inches shorter than the other until the lights went out at the end of the scene and the audience cheered.

Hearing about all these mishaps was too much for Eleanor Cammack and Billie Sue Swanson. They both fainted (off stage) and were revived by our utterly indispensable Jane Brown just in time to answer their cues.

She said she starts a typical day with bread and winds it up with spaghetti, making no special effort to keep the figure which has become one of the most famous in filmdom.

But keep it she does, take it from an eyewitness.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Top Book Of The Week Is Listed

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The outstanding book of this week is Taylor Caldwell's new book "Dear and Glorious Physician." This is a book of fiction based on the life of Luke, the beloved physician of the Bible. It is a well-written book and adds a fascinating new picture of life in Bible times. Miss Taylor writes well and she has given us a very fine book. It is one that will be widely read and enjoyed. Janice Holt Giles has written another of her fascinating accounts of frontier days which she calls "The Land Beyond." She has given us another strong frontier woman and the forces with which she has to deal. This is an interesting and well-written book and one that is certain to be popular.

Those who like Western stories will want to read "The Bushwackers" by Frank Gruber and "The Long Rope" by William O. Turner. Both of these are exciting accounts of life in the Western part of our country at the close of the last century. There are many readers who will eagerly await these titles.

Readers of mystery stories are always asking for new titles and this week we have five to offer. Andrew Garve is the author of "The Galloway Case." Manning Coles has written "Duty Free," Agatha Christie has a new title while Doris Miles Disney's called "Ordeal by Innocence," book is called "Did She Fall or Was She pushed?" The title of Seldon Truss' new book is "A Man to Match the Hour."

A fine addition to our technical collection is "Introduction to Modern Physics" by Converse H. Blanchard. This is a book which should fill a need for many people and is one that will be widely read and used. A very practical and useful book is "Arc Welding in Machinery Design and Manufacture." published by the James F. Lincoln Arc welding foundation.

An engrossing book is "The Great Decision" by Michael Amrine. Here for the first time is the story of the world's greatest surprise — the atomic bomb, from the moment President Truman learned of its existence till 116 days later — Hiroshima. It is a book for everyone who has wondered why and how the secret was so closely kept and how the leaders reached the decision to use the bomb.

A very fine new biography is William Dean Howells, "The Development of a Novelist," by George N. Bennett. It fills a need in our literature collection and will be invaluable to anyone making a study of this writer.

"River in the Desert" by Nelson Glueck is an illustrated account of discoveries in a the Negew. This is the desert that comprises the southern half of Israel. It has been the site of trade routes and civilization since the 4th millenium B. C. For six years Nelson Glueck has been doing archeological work in the Negew. "Once again," he says, "archeological investigation has demonstrated the amazing historical memory of the Bible."

RECORDS

NEW YORK (UPI) — That certain indefinable something known as "class" that crops up now and then to give an extra lift to a stage production is present in the case of "A Majority of One" at the Shubert Theater.

It is conceivable that someone who might not like this new comedy by Leonard Spigelgass would argue that it is a piece with such as "Abie's Irish Rose" or "Potash and Perlmutter" of years gone by, inasmuch as so-called Jewish comedy in involved.

There would be some basic truth in such an argument, but it would overlook the element of class that is present in this new production and makes it an attraction that would seem to hold a strong appeal for a large number.

The presence of Mrs. Gertrude Berg (radio-TV's Molly Goldberg) and Cedric Hardwicke in the leading roles has considerable to do with lifting the level of this entertainment. But there is also a valid contribution in the affectionate and knowing direction of the play by Dore Schary.

Schary is the author of the current hit, "Sunrise at Campobello," and he and the Theater Guild have joined in producing "A Majority of One."

Mrs. Berg is completely livable and skilled in her role of a middle-aged Jewish widow from Brooklyn who gets involved in a romance with a wealthy Japanese manufacturer when she accompanies her daughter and son-in-law to Japan.

Since son-in-law is attached to the U. S. embassy on an important trade mission, she is told that such involvement is embarrassing. Son-in-law then proceeds to foul up the economic negotiations, so mother-in-law and the Japanese tycoon have to work things out themselves.

The corny touches are obvious in that plot summary, but the whole thing is done with so much charm and plausibility that they do not matter in the long run. Hardwicke's Japanese is a characterization of great dignity and warmth that offers a nice balance to the proceedings.

Thornton Wilder withheld the professional New York rights to his Pulitzer Prize play, "Our Town," for 15 years before consenting for its revival in this city.

He has now granted permission for the off-Broadway Circle in the Square Theater to present it for an indefinite run. The play will be presented March 16 with John Beal in the pivotal role of the stage manager-narrator.

Film star Scott Brady, no stranger to westerns, has been signed to play the "heavy" in the forthcoming western musical, "Destry Rides Again." He replaces another cinema star, John Ireland, who bowed out of the role about the time rehearsals began. "Destry" begins its tryout tour in Philadelphia March 9.

THE GOLDEN COAST

U.S. Gulf Coast Story Is Love Labor

THE GOLD COAST By Harnett T. Kane (Doubleday, $5).

Drawing on his years of documenting the area along the Gulf of Mexico from Key West to Brownsville, Harnett T. Kane has written a labor of love in this lavishly illustrated panorama of the past and present.

Here is a shining evocation in greenery, white sand and blue waters; here are true stories and nostalgic recollections of men and women who knew zesty deeds, high drama and bright comedy in a region which at various times has harbored good men and bad men, martyrs and rascals, swindlers, buccaneers, and wreckers who maliciously sent ships around on reefs.

In this book you'll find glamorous New Orleans and the gracious Old South of Biloxi, Gulfport, Pascagoula, and Pass Christian — Sarasota, where the woman next door hangs spangled circus tights on the clothesline and callers gape at the Venetian doges' palaces; Mobile, St. Petersburg — the Latin world of Tampa and Key West and the empire of Texas surging out of the sand — modern, plate-glassed Houston — the rich, oil-soaked ground of Beaumont and Port Arthur — all in a warm, affectionate, informal portrait of a people and a place unique on the American scene.

We wish we could be in Baton Rouge March 12, 13, and 14 to see Joan Magruder play the leading role in the LSU production "Dark of the Moon." Her parents are going down. There's another pair of talented workers our Little Theatre could not do without. Best of luck, Joan! We know you'll be lovely.

How glad we were to see Russ Kettenring at opening night. He had a very nasty fall from a ladder a few weeks ago which kept him in bed for some time. Now, steel supported, he is up again, enjoying Pajama Game with the rest of us.

Remember Dietz von Beulowitz, the German exchange student at Northeast who helped with scene designs? After graduating at mid-term, he took a trip to Mexico and arrived back in Monroe just in time for the dress rehearsal of P G. Now he is on his way back to Germany, taking with him the knowledge that he made warm friends here who hope he'll come back some day.

Also at dress rehearsal were Mr. and Mrs. Reis Feith and Rita who was an assiduous worker and actress before she married and moved away to St. Louis.

Many Still Go For Books By R. L. Stevenson

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island" appears to have slipped a bit in the estimate of younger readers, but it still has a lot of partisans among the oldtimers who read it years ago.

An announcement by a committee of public school teachers that Stevenson's juvenile classic was to be dropped from the list of approved textbooks caused little concern among the kids, but their elders raised a flurry about the matter.

George Eliot's "Silas Marner," and Alfred Lord Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," were also among the classics which were dropped in order to make room for works more akin to modern.. pupils' tastes.

School Supt. Allen H. Wetter hastened to reassure the book-lovers who were raised on those literary staples. He explained Friday that dropping a title doesn't mean the book is discontinued for use in school libraries. The old standbys are still on the list of approved collateral reading.

"Books remain in the libraries and are used with care until they are worn out," Wetter said.

ESCAPE TO UTOPIA

About The Communal Movement In America

ESCAPE TO UTOPIA By Everett Webber (Hastings House, $5.50).

Webber is a professor at Northwestern State College in Natchitoches, Louisiana. In this book, he describes the communal movement in Americ.., one of which was located in the state.

A fascinating, half-forgotten segment of our history is the story of the experimental communes which sprang up all over America in the late 1700's and throughout the 19th century. For years these Utopian schemes stirred the public to passionate interest or heated disapproval. Religious or secular, the prophets of each commune had the basic idea of pooling labor and goods. They also had in common a blithe disregard for the facts of human nature. Webber recounts here with great good humor the pitfalls that beset these creators of a strange social phenomenon.

The secular leaders such as Robert Owen were trying, singlehanded, to relieve all men of having to pay tribute to those they felt were without moral call on humanity's pocketbook — those they considered useless, parasitical and nonproducing, usually listed as the middleman, the speculator, or capitalist of whatever kind. Each leader drew, however, his inconvenient quota of nonproducing, parasitical followers whose chief concern was more to share the wealth than to contribute to it. And, despite the most dedicated efforts, the financial reasoning tended to be riddled with loopholes.

The prophets of the religious communes were likely to have received "revelations" that they were deities or at least recipients of "divine gifts" rather above the humdrum. Immortality in the flesh was the most popular of these gifts, since the prophet usualy conferred similar immortality upon the faithful. That sort of thing has tended to brand all the religious prophets as quacks, which is not essentially fair — for their moral tone varied widely from the gentle humility of Ann Lee, founder of the Shakers, to the breathtaking egocentricity of exotic Thomas Lake Harris.

Sex was a problem in all the communes, and a startling variety of solutions was attempted ranging from total celibacy to elaborate systems of "spiritual wiving." These led to results, sometimes funny and sometimes tragic, which seldom proved to be solutions at all, let alone improvements on conventional family life. Economically, the profit motive proved as irremovable a difficulty as sex. The communal movement died a natural death shortly after the turn of the century, but among its prophets had been people of accomplishment and idealism who left their mark even if their communes usually did not.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

Ballet before the blow Wednesday night on the Louisiana Tech campus was top attraction in the area's sphere of the fine arts this week.

The Monroe Little Theatre completed its first week's run of "Pajama Game" with director Ivan Uttal optimistic about the energy and enthusiasm shown by the entire cast and co-workers. Barring illness, the director feels the cast will give "last nighters" just as fast moving a performance as the opening of the two-week run, which took plenty of horsepower. More on this subject later.

BALLET RUSSE

Beautiful costumes, sets and unusual choreography marked the performance of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, an attraction of the La. Tech Concert Association at Howard Auditorium Wednesday.

Members of the troop pointed out the opening "Variations Classiques," based on the Brahms' Variations on a Theme by Handel, was new to the ballet world, having been worked out as a dance last year by Nina Novak of the company. Miss Novak and George Zoritch followed this with the Grand Pas de Deux from Don Quixote.

The colorful "Sombreros" based on Mexican folk music opened the final portion of the program and the full company of 21 dancers took part in the concluding "Beau Danube," which featured several waltzes of Johann Strauss.

Finest dancing of the evening was exhibited by Irina Borowska and Eugene Slavin as the hussar and street dancer in the finale. Elaborate sets and lighting effects were prominent in the "Sombreros" as well as the "Beau Danube."

An unusual note to the performance was the high quality of the orchestra—large and flexible to get full symphonic effects — as contrasted with some flaws in the dancing. Most obvious among these was the excess of rosin spread on the floor. A little of this serves to prevent slipping; too much of it causes an objectionable squeak and gives the impression the dancers are driving with the brakes on.

The large audience in Howard auditorium — many of whom risked a stormy ride back to the Monroe area — sounded their approval of the performance at the final curtain. A good percentage of concert followers are ardent supporters of ballet, and the Ballet Russe lived up to their expectations.

SELMAN FIELD

We took in another performance of "Pajama Game" on the one hand to hear Slade Brown's version of Sid, the male lead, and on the other to see how the cast is progressing with a two - week project in addition to their regular jobs.

From all appearances, the whole "crew" thrives on the three - hour workout. Scene changes have been slowed somewhat — a wise move following several accidents Sunday night.

Slade as Sid had the necessary belt - to - vocal - chord correlation to drive home the wide variety of songs in the play. Diction was clear and the dancing parts showed a definite improvement over the same actor's part in last year's "Boy Friend." Footwork during the spoken lines was somewhat static — a problem which possibly hinges on the fact that an audience surrounds the stage on three sides.

SONG VARIETY

V. P. Dalrymple, who took the part of "management" Hassler, put over his part well both in the word and mood department. His was heaviest non - singing part in the show; others were the salesman (Jimmy Branch) and the railroad engineer (Rufus Bruce.)

Without doubt, the songs — each a creation reflecting long traditions — held the play before Broadway audiences for more than a thousand consecutive nights.

"Racing with the Clock" is a spinning song not too unlike the classic Mendelssohn number or the Wagner spinning song from the "Flying Dutchman."

"A New Town is a Blue Town" reflects the torch song type of blues which was popular in the late 1920's. The Latin touch was prominent in "Hernando's Hideaway," and "Her Is." "Steam Heat" recalled a now seldom heard style of the late 1930's typified by the "industrial" effect of Raymond Scott's "Powerhouse."

There was even an alma matter entitled "Sleep Tight," plus two waltzes "I'm Not at All in Love," and the Viennese fantasy during the nightmare.

No Rock and Roll? Apparently tunesmiths Adler and Ross wisely left this form to the specialists.

OIL'S CENTENNIAL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. oil industry — now a multi-billion dollar operation—celebrates its 100th anniversary this year.

The first oil well on this continent was brought in on Aug. 27, 1859, at Titusville, Pa., by Edwin L. Drake, a contractor for the New Haven Railroad. The first of America's "gushers" was brought in in 1861.

The Valadon Drama, by John Storm (Dutton): The great artists of the Impressionist period live again in this biography of Suzanne Valadon, mother of Maurice Utrillo. The little group of 19th century artists, writes and musicians who lived and produced their revolutionary works in Montmartre included Suzanne, a natural artist, in their select and somewhat soiled company. Her formal schooling ended before she was ten, but she found her real education in the streets and alleys of Montmartre where she spent her entire life. Practically illiterate, Suzanne is a difficult subject for the biographer who had to depend on interviews with people who remembered her — in the absence of the usual letters and other writings on which to draw. But Storm was persistent and industrious in his pursuit. His Suzanne Valadon is a lively and interesting literary reincarnation.

Paradise In Trust, by Ribert Trumbull (Sloane): This is a report by a veteran foreign correspondent on the American trusteeship over 2,141 Pacific islands and 67,000 islanders. The biggest fear of many of these brown people is fallout from H-bomb tests. They have successively left the influence of Spain, Germany, Japan and the United States. Their hopes for the future were summed up by a Truk islander in these words: "We just want to be governed by some country that isn't going to lose any wars." In the author's opinion, no country could govern the islands better than they are being governed.

Letters to Mother, by Charles Van Doren (Channel Press): A collection of letters written by famous men and women to their mothers. The letters sometimes give fascinating insights into the private lives and characters of their authors. There is one from George Washington in which the tone to his mother is businesslike to the point of annoyance. Van Doren's brief analyses preceding each series of letters reflect a keen understanding of and liking for people, and some of them make better reading than the letters themselves.

The Face of War, by Martha Gellhorn (Simon & Schuster): Selections from the author's writings when she was a war correspondent. She sees wars as inevitable — "we have never been free of them. I hate this fact and accept it." But she believes that we should "keep our crime under control," and engage only in small, non - nuclear wars that will only kill off members of current generations without blotting out the future as a full-scale nuclear war probably would. Miss Gellhorn's accounts of the destruction and human wretchedness she has witnessed in "conventional" wars are convincing if anyone needs convincing.

Golden City Is A Raging Controversy

THE GOLDEN CITY By Henry Hope Reed Jr. (Doubleday, $5.75).

In this sharply written and copiously illustrated survey of the American architectural scene, Reed, plunges into the center of today's raging controversy over the "Modern" versus the "classical" tradition in architecture. A well-known architectural writer and critic, Reed has presented here an eloquent and outspoken denunciation of the so-called Modern style.

According to the author, the Modern building is at best an engineering rather than an artistic achievement. To the twentieth - century achitect, "progress" has come to mean the rebellious departure from the classical tradition, and "functional" and "efficient" have become synonymous with "beautiful."

Today's "form follows function" theory can be seen everywhere: in New York City's streets — where Bowker's handsome bishop's-crook lamppost has given way to a denuded stainless - steel pole; in small villages — where a charming square is obliterated by an ungainly gas station; in country houses — where nature is used as a shroud rather than as a setting.

But Reed predicts the gradual and indeed already visible decline of the Modern style and the return to a new classical period. (One of America's most fanatical Modernists has now abandoned the unadorned plate - glass facade and has hidden it under a cement grille.) The metropolis of the future, the Golden City — in which sculpture, painting, and architectural ornament are again intrinsic parts of every building — is not far away.

LITTLE THEATRE

By the time you read this, Pajama Game will have completed eight of its scheduled fourteen performances. We hope you have a reservation for one of the remaining nights. Friday and Saturday have been booked almost solid from the very beginning, but seats are available on week nights — at least they were when we wrote this. Maybe there will be some cancellations for Friday or Saturday which you might be lucky enough to pick up.

We have had a number of visitors from out of town. From Orange, Texas, came Mr. and Mrs. John L. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brown Jr., Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Trimble; from Houston, Mr. Leslie Coleman; from Dallas Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and the Hunt Dunnaways.

So fast is the pace of our musical that we half expect the whole thing to fly into orbit; but last Sunday, things really happened. W. J. Haddad ran into something and knocked himself out. We mean literally o-u-t. Ivan was diving into a costume to substitute for him when W. J. opened his eyes and struggled to his feet. During the rest of the play he carried a wad of cotton saturated with ammonia which he sniffed surreptitiously whenever he felt himself going woozy.

Somebody had left the corner of a blanket in Linda Lavender's exit path. As she bounded out, she slipped down with a crash full length on her back — just outside the arena. It makes our discs hurt to think of the harm she could have suffered. In the boisterous bull fight dance, Dell Moore lost her shoe but carried on with one leg three inches shorter than the other until the lights went out at the end of the scene and the audience cheered.

Hearing about all these mishaps was too much for Eleanor Cammack and Billie Sue Swanson. They both fainted (off stage) and were revived by our utterly indispensable Jane Brown just in time to answer their cues.

Slade Brown's little children were in the audience and put their hands over their eyes everytime their daddy was in a love scene.

We wish we could be in Baton Rouge March 12, 13, and 14 to see Joan Magruder play the leading role in the LSU production "Dark of the Moon." Her parents are going down. There's another pair of talented workers our Little Theatre could not do without. Best of luck, Joan! We know you'll be lovely.

How glad we were to see Russ Kettenring at opening night. He had a very nasty fall from a ladder a few weeks ago which kept him in bed for some time. Now, steel supported, he is up again, enjoying Pajama Game with the rest of us.

Remember Dietz von Beulowitz, the German exchange student at Northeast who helped with scene designs? After graduating at mid-term, he took a trip to Mexico and arrived back in Monroe just in time for the dress rehearsal of P G. Now he is on his way back to Germany, taking with him the knowledge that he made warm friends here who hope he'll come back some day.

Also at dress rehearsal were Mr. and Mrs. Reis Feith and Rita who was an assiduous worker and actress before she married and moved away to St. Louis.

"I always wake up hungry," said the famed Italian beauty, "so I eat."

She said she starts a typical day with bread and winds it up with spaghetti, making no special effort to keep the figure which has become one of the most famous in filmdom.

But keep it she does, take it from an eyewitness.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Top Book Of The Week Is Listed

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The outstanding book of this week is Taylor Caldwell's new book "Dear and Glorious Physician." This is a book of fiction based on the life of Luke, the beloved physician of the Bible. It is a well-written book and adds a fascinating new picture of life in Bible times. Miss Taylor writes well and she has given us a very fine book. It is one that will be widely read and enjoyed. Janice Holt Giles has written another of her fascinating accounts of frontier days which she calls "The Land Beyond." She has given us another strong frontier woman and the forces with which she has to deal. This is an interesting and well-written book and one that is certain to be popular.

Those who like Western stories will want to read "The Bushwackers" by Frank Gruber and "The Long Rope" by William O. Turner. Both of these are exciting accounts of life in the Western part of our country at the close of the last century. There are many readers who will eagerly await these titles.

Readers of mystery stories are always asking for new titles and this week we have five to offer. Andrew Garve is the author of "The Galloway Case." Manning Coles has written "Duty Free," Agatha Christie has a new title while Doris Miles Disney's called "Ordeal by Innocence," book is called "Did She Fall or Was She pushed?" The title of Seldon Truss' new book is "A Man to Match the Hour."

A fine addition to our technical collection is "Introduction to Modern Physics" by Converse H. Blanchard. This is a book which should fill a need for many people and is one that will be widely read and used. A very practical and useful book is "Arc Welding in Machinery Design and Manufacture." published by the James F. Lincoln Arc welding foundation.

An engrossing book is "The Great Decision" by Michael Amrine. Here for the first time is the story of the world's greatest surprise — the atomic bomb, from the moment President Truman learned of its existence till 116 days later — Hiroshima. It is a book for everyone who has wondered why and how the secret was so closely kept and how the leaders reached the decision to use the bomb.

A very fine new biography is William Dean Howells, "The Development of a Novelist," by George N. Bennett. It fills a need in our literature collection and will be invaluable to anyone making a study of this writer.

"River in the Desert" by Nelson Glueck is an illustrated account of discoveries in a the Negew. This is the desert that comprises the southern half of Israel. It has been the site of trade routes and civilization since the 4th millenium B. C. For six years Nelson Glueck has been doing archeological work in the Negew. "Once again," he says, "archeological investigation has demonstrated the amazing historical memory of the Bible."

RECORDS

NEW YORK (UPI) — That certain indefinable something known as "class" that crops up now and then to give an extra lift to a stage production is present in the case of "A Majority of One" at the Shubert Theater.

It is conceivable that someone who might not like this new comedy by Leonard Spigelgass would argue that it is a piece with such as "Abie's Irish Rose" or "Potash and Perlmutter" of years gone by, inasmuch as so-called Jewish comedy in involved.

There would be some basic truth in such an argument, but it would overlook the element of class that is present in this new production and makes it an attraction that would seem to hold a strong appeal for a large number.

The presence of Mrs. Gertrude Berg (radio-TV's Molly Goldberg) and Cedric Hardwicke in the leading roles has considerable to do with lifting the level of this entertainment. But there is also a valid contribution in the affectionate and knowing direction of the play by Dore Schary.

Schary is the author of the current hit, "Sunrise at Campobello," and he and the Theater Guild have joined in producing "A Majority of One."

Mrs. Berg is completely livable and skilled in her role of a middle-aged Jewish widow from Brooklyn who gets involved in a romance with a wealthy Japanese manufacturer when she accompanies her daughter and son-in-law to Japan.

Since son-in-law is attached to the U. S. embassy on an important trade mission, she is told that such involvement is embarrassing. Son-in-law then proceeds to foul up the economic negotiations, so mother-in-law and the Japanese tycoon have to work things out themselves.

The corny touches are obvious in that plot summary, but the whole thing is done with so much charm and plausibility that they do not matter in the long run. Hardwicke's Japanese is a characterization of great dignity and warmth that offers a nice balance to the proceedings.

Thornton Wilder withheld the professional New York rights to his Pulitzer Prize play, "Our Town," for 15 years before consenting for its revival in this city.

He has now granted permission for the off-Broadway Circle in the Square Theater to present it for an indefinite run. The play will be presented March 16 with John Beal in the pivotal role of the stage manager-narrator.

Film star Scott Brady, no stranger to westerns, has been signed to play the "heavy" in the forthcoming western musical, "Destry Rides Again." He replaces another cinema star, John Ireland, who bowed out of the role about the time rehearsals began. "Destry" begins its tryout tour in Philadelphia March 9.

THE GOLDEN COAST

U.S. Gulf Coast Story Is Love Labor

Drawing on his years of documenting the area along the Gulf of Mexico from Key West to Brownsville, Harnett T. Kane has written a labor of love in this lavishly illustrated panorama of the past and present.

Here is a shining evocation in greenery, white sand and blue waters; here are true stories and nostalgic recollections of men and women who knew zesty deeds, high drama and bright comedy in a region which at various times has harbored good men and bad men, martyrs and rascals, swindlers, buccaneers, and wreckers who maliciously sent ships around on reefs.

In this book you'll find glamorous New Orleans and the gracious Old South of Biloxi, Gulfport, Pascagoula, and Pass Christian — Sarasota, where the woman next door hangs spangled circus tights on the clothesline and callers gape at the Venetian doges' palaces; Mobile, St. Petersburg — the Latin world of Tampa and Key West and the empire of Texas surging out of the sand — modern, plate-glassed Houston — the rich, oil-soaked ground of Beaumont and Port Arthur — all in a warm, affectionate, informal portrait of a people and a place unique on the American scene.

In many respects, this is one of Kane's best books — and one that most anyone will enjoy reading.

Many Still Go For Books By R. L. Stevenson

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island" appears to have slipped a bit in the estimate of younger readers, but it still has a lot of partisans among the oldtimers who read it years ago.

An announcement by a committee of public school teachers that Stevenson's juvenile classic was to be dropped from the list of approved textbooks caused little concern among the kids, but their elders raised a flurry about the matter.

George Eliot's "Silas Marner," and Alfred Lord Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," were also among the classics which were dropped in order to make room for works more akin to modern.. pupils' tastes.

School Supt. Allen H. Wetter hastened to reassure the booklovers who were raised on those literary staples. He explained Friday that dropping a title doesn't mean the book is discontinued for use in school libraries. The old standbys are still on the list of approved collateral reading.

"Books remain in the libraries and are used with care until they are worn out," Wetter said.

CREATING NEW PROBLEMS

Car Revolution Changing Europe

By HERB ALTSCHULL
Associated Press Staff Writer

An American tourist on a sentimental journey to some picturesque European village remembered from a decade or two ago would be shocked to see streams of cars and trucks filing through its narrow streets.

The changes have been swift—and there is no doubt the automobile is here to stay. In Sweden, one in every two families owns a car. In England and France, it's one in every three.

Even in underdeveloped Spain there is one car for every 49. Five years ago it was one in 450.

While the motor car is bringing Europeans together and helping to wipe out ancient hatreds, it is also creating new problems.

European governments must cope not only with social changes but with a steadily rising accident toll. They must somehow convert the age-old towpaths into modern highways.

England and West Germany each produced over a million cars last year. In Germany this was nearly three times as many as in 1953. Production in France is advancing almost as rapidly. Italy and Sweden also are barreling ahead on new car production.

It's not only the well-to-do who are buying them. Officials at the Volkswagen works in Wolfsburg, biggest auto factory on the European continent, estimate that 40 per cent of their production last year went to workers and white collar employes. This compares with 6 per cent five years ago.

The lowest price standard car on the market in Western Europe is the Volkswagen. Its de luxe model sells in West Germany for about $1,000.

The small Italian Fiat sells for about the same price. The French Renault sells for $1,800 in Spain, whose government makes a bit take on car sales through rigid price fixing.

In the middle-price range the French Citroen DS-19 sells for $2,500, The Swedish Volvo for $2,000 and a host of competing British economy class cars for about $1,700.

You can pay as much as $24,000 for a Rolls-Royce. The big Mercedes limousine costs about $7,000, the flashy Italian Ferrari about $10,000.

American cars sell well in some places, particularly the Benelux countries. In Sweden there is a flourishing market for used American cars three to five years old. They bring around $600.

These millions of cars running around Europe have created traffic jams that are monumental in cities such as Paris and London.

The Place de la Concorde in Paris is quite hopeless at certain times. You could walk faster if you weren't in deadly danger merely by setting foot on that square.

In London late afternoon is regarded as rush hour but nobody does much rushing. They're too busy waiting in queues for the fellow in front to move along.

In the Low Countries famed for years for the number of bicyclists, you have to be mighty agile at the wheel to keep from causing mass mayhem.

In Spain you have to dodge burros and wagons, and at night this is difficult because they don't come equipped with lights.

Swiss authorities, who say their roads are unable to cope with the mounting traffic, plan to build two super-highways, an east-west road and a north-south one.

Swedish officials estimate it will cost four billion dollars to put their highway system in shape to deal with modern traffic. In a country of seven million, there were some 900,000 cars registered last year, not to mention 8,000 buses and coaches, 113,000 trucks, 230,000 motorcycles and half a million "mopeds" — bicycles with motors. These were eight times as many vehicles as were registered in 1938.

Solons Voice Berlin Crisis Unity Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican foreign policy legislators today backed up the stand of Congressional leaders in both parties that no resloution by Congress on the Berlin crisis is needed.

They also voiced full accord with the "unity" pledged to President Eisenhower by the "big four" House and Senate leaders in a bipartisan conference on the Berlin situation at the White House Saturday.

The leaders took the position that their unified stand made it clear that the country is united on the issue and that Congress does not need to say so in a resolution.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), second-ranking GOP member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "I don't see that a Congressional resolution is necessary because Congress," through the leaders, "has given ample evidence of complete unity."

However, Hickenlooper said, if the President requested such a resolution or one actually came up for a vote in the committee he would support it.

Another committee Republican, Sen. George D. Aiken (Vt.), said "there is no great need for Congress going out of its element and offering advice to the executive unless there is evidence that it is needed."

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.), another member of the Foreign Relations Committee, agreed with Aiken and Hickenlooper.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) and Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) have introduced resolutions to express Congress' support for a firm stand in the Berlin crisis and to specify goals for negotiations Rep. William M. Colmer (D-Miss.) has offered a similar resolution in the House.

Javits and Dodd have urged prompt action on their proposals. But Foregn Relatons charman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said the committee will take no action until it receives the State Department's views.

Fulbright has said a resolution now might "straightjacket" the administration in negotiations with Russia.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) told a press conference after the White House meeting Saturday that he was opposed to any resolution because "we have made it clear that we have one voice that can speak firmly" in foreign policy.

"I see no necessity for either House resolving on a policy that has already been enunciated and accepted by our government," Johnson told reporters. "I know nothing that could be gained from enactment of a resolution saying what I think all Americans agree on—the President speaks for this country."

CREATING NEW PROBLEMS

Car Revolution Changing Europe

By HERB ALTSCHULL
Associated Press Staff Writer

An American tourist on a sentimental journey to some picturesque European village remembered from a decade or two ago would be shocked to see streams of cars and trucks filing through its narrow streets.

The changes have been swift—and there is no doubt the automobile is here to stay. In Sweden, one in every two families owns a car. In England and France, it's one in every three.

Even in underdeveloped Spain there is one car for every 49. Five years ago it was one in 450.

While the motor car is bringing Europeans together and helping to wipe out ancient hatreds, it is also creating new problems.

European governments must cope not only with social changes—but with a steadily rising accident toll. They must somehow convert the age-old towpaths into modern highways.

England and West Germany each produced over a million cars last year. In Germany this was nearly three times as many as in 1953. Production in France is advancing almost as rapidly. Italy and Sweden also are barreling ahead on new car production.

It's not only the well-to-do who are buying them. Officials at the Volkswagen works in Wolfsburg, biggest auto factory on the European continent, estimate that 40 per cent of their production last year went to workers and white collar employes. This compares with 6 per cent five years ago.

The lowest price standard car on the market in Western Europe is the Volkswagen. Its de luxe model sells in West Germany for about $1,000.

The small Italian Fiat sells for about the same price. The French Renault sells for $1,800 in Spain, whose government makes a bit take on car sales through rigid price fixing.

In the middle-price range the French Citroen DS-19 sells for $2,500, The Swedish Volvo for $2,000 and a host of competing British economy class cars for about $1,700.

You can pay as much as $24,000 for a Rolls-Royce. The big Mercedes limousine costs about $7,000, the flashy Italian Ferrari about $10,000.

American cars sell well in some places, particularly the Benelux countries. In Sweden there is a flourishing market for used American cars three to five years old. They bring around $600.

These millions of cars running around Europe have created traffic jams that are monumental in cities such as Paris and London.

The Place de la Concorde in Paris is quite hopeless at certain times. You could walk faster if you weren't in deadly danger merely by setting foot on that square.

In London late afternoon is regarded as rush hour but nobody does much rushing. They're too busy waiting in queues for the fellow in front to move along.

Swiss authorities, who say their roads are unable to cope with the mounting traffic, plan to build two super-highways, an east-west road and a north-south one.

Interest On Home Loans Is Deductible

By Edward Cowan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If meeting monthly mortgage payments on your house is giving you financial misery, there is at least the future consolation that the interest on the payment can be deducted from your federal income tax.

This especially benefits home owners with "young" mortgages. When you start paying off a home loan, the heavier part of each monthly payment is interest and reduction of the principal and sundries account for a lesser proportion. (As time goes by the proportion gradually shifts, so that in the final year of a mortgage the payments are almost entirely principal.)

Home owners can also take tax deductions for payment of local and state property taxes and for casualty losses. In many cases, these three types of deduction combined with other allowable expenses add up to more than the standard 10 per cent deduction to which nearly every taxpayer is entitled.

To make certain, the taxpayer —home owning or not—should add up his allowable deductions to see if the total exceeds 10 per cent of his income. If it does, then he'll reduce his tax bill by itemizing his deductions instead of taking the standard 10 per cent.

Itemized deductions are listed on page two of the long form income tax return, form 1040.

Taking deductions doesn't mean your income tax will be reduced by the full amount of what you claim. The deductions are subtracted from your income before your tax is computed. Hence, if a home owner is in a 25 per cent tax bracket and had $500 of mortgage interest payments in 1958, he'll save $125.

Home owners and other taxpayers can also deduct interest charges on most everything else —installment purchases of autos and appliances, personal loans, home improvement loans, and other things bought "on time".

The bank or other lending institution to which you make your mortgage payments will provide a breakdown showing how much you paid last year for interest. If the bank also collects for property taxes and pays them for you, then the sum it paid is also deductible.

It's also deductible if you paid it directly. But special payments for water, trash collection or street and sidewalk improvements are not deductible, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The third major type of deduction that especially benefits home owners is the casualty loss. If a storm rips the roof from your house or garage, you may deduct the cost of replacing or repairing it. But you may not deduct any sum beyond the amount necessary to restore the roof to its condition at the time the storm struck. For instance, if it was a very old roof you probably can't deduct the entire cost of putting on a new one.

Visiting Red Finds Kissing Not Popular

Ho returned from a 10-day tour of Java and Bali to be awarded Indonesia's "Guerilla Star" Saturday night. During his Javanese tour, however, he wasn't awarded any medals for deportment.

A.N. Firdaus, secretary general of the All-Moslem Congress, told Ho to stop the kissing and start respecting Moslem teachings and Indonesian customs.

"Those kisses are a violation of Moslem laws, in which 90 per cent of the Indonesian public believe," Firdaus said. "Kissing girls publicly is also a violation of Indonesian customs."

The newspaper Harian Abadi said the Foreign Ministry protocol chief "should whisper into the ear of state guests how they should behave."

"We really do not understand where foreign guests get the impression that in our country kissing the wives and daughters of the host constitutes a lofty custom," Harian Abadi said. "It is a good thing uncle Ho is an old man."

Ho's apparent assumption he could treat other mens' wives as kissin' cousins also drew sharp criticism from the Sovialist Daily Pedoman, a leading Jakarta newspaper.

Candidates Turn Out Strong For French Election

PARIS (AP) — There's an old song that goes: 50 million Frenchmen can't be wrong.

Politics is an enticing to the French as romance or a glass of wine.

No one has taken the trouble to make an exact count, but statisticians say there are at least a million candidates for jobs as municipal councillors.

The voting begins Sunday in almost 38,000 cities and towns to elect 480,000 councillors and mayors.

There are plenty of big name politicians running—including Premier Debre and seven members of his Cabinet—but they don't faze Jacques who runs the cafe or Pierre who picks the grapes.

Confederate Group Seeking Donations

By DOUGLAS STARR

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's Civil War Centennial Commission needs financial help for statewide commemoration ceremonies, but insists donations be in United States dollars.

Confederate money, fairly bursting with souvenir value, just doesn't spend like it used to in Mississippi.

Reason for the request for donations is simple: No state appropriations for the governor-created commission were made during the last session of the Legislature.

Gov. J. P. Coleman appointed the 16-member commission from the organizations concerned with the Civil War. The groups include the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the Civil War Roundtable, Sons of Confederate Veterans and others.

Headed by Frank Everett of Vicksburg, the commission is charged with planning Mississippi's part in the nationwide commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Civil War.

High on the list of objectives is to remember the Civil War, not fight it again. There will be no cheering among the victors and no wailing among the vanquished. The purpose is to promote better understanding among the peoples of the various states.

The commemoration will emphasize the unity of the United States as evidenced by nearly 100 years of peaceful co-existence of the North and South.

Specific observations will include special Jefferson Davis ceremonies at Beauvoir, his Mississippi Gulf coast home; marking battle routes in Mississippi; and giving more public notice to military exploits and military and political figures in Mississippi.

Other objectives include work toward the preservation of battlefields, increasing the collection of Civil War material for museum display, providing speakers on Civil War topics, helping establish scholarships, and encouraging local groups to take part in the commemoration.

Although the commission has no state authority, by the time the commemoration is slated to begin, Mississippi will have a nucleus of persons and program around which to form an official commission.

The 16-member group plans to ask the 1960 Legislature for official recognition backed by state funds so Mississippi can take a major part in the 1961-64 centennial commemoration of the Civil War.

Early Easter Stirs Business Sentiment

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

Easter comes on March 29, the earliest in 12 years. Stores are building up their stocks right now in anticipation of sharp gains in buying. At the same time the weather man is saying we're going to have an early spring, a factor that should make for something of a boom for ladies dresses and suits.

General business is moving ahead as well as retail and wholesale trade. The first quarter is expected to see a new high touched near its close in industrial production. And the profits will show extremely sharp gains over a year ago because last year the business statistics were very poor.

Consumers are going to earn a record high national income in the first quarter which ends two days after Easter Sunday. The cost of living is going to hold steady. So there'll be more to spend. And the experts look for a good spending spree.

It is estimated that total retail sales in the first three months of 1959 will show a gain of seven per cent over 1958.

Indications are that buyers' habits are changing. A year ago when things were slipping in industry and most other lines, consumer buying continued at a high level, but it centered on the soft goods items. Now there is a shift to durable goods—a shift that has much greater stimulating qualities for industry as a whole.

It is expected that by Easter time, the rise in automobile sales that has been predicted right along will get into full swing. Sales of new cars have been rising steadily and now that the industry is free of strikes it is in a position to turn out more autos.

Steel production will register a sharp gain for the first quarter and steel companies are expected to register wide profit gains. Their second quarter also appears assured.

Steel company earnings for all of last year showed a decline of 31 per cent from the 1958 level. Their fourth quarter of 1958 showed a smart recovery. The same situation prevailed for other so-called cyclical industries which suffered most in the business recession.

Last year auto and auto equipment earnings fell 41 per cent. And these companies also reported sharp recoveries in the fourth quarter.

Predictions on automobile output for 1959 range upward from 4,500,000 units to an extreme of 6,000,000 units. Sharp gains over a year also are being reported now because of the substantial declines in 1958.

These and other factors are considered hardly the background for a stock market decline despite the high prices prevailing. Wall Street chart readers—and there are many of them — follow the old Dow theory axiom that says a trend once started continues until it is stopped. The trend still is up, say the bullish market observers in the financial district.

One expert has this to say about the market at this time:

"It is difficult to be bearish as pertains to equity prices for the pressure is toward even higher levels. This pressure evolves from a constantly expanding American economy plus potent inflationary forces."

None of the market experts expects the list to continue to rise in a straight line as it did for the past year. With prices high as they are, it is held the market needs some corrective selling from time to time.

The most that is expected, however, is only a 5 per cent decline. The month of March is usually in a rising trend. In the past 62 years, the industrial average has risen in 38 months of March and declined in 24.

Stocks Post Solid Gains During Week

NEW YORK (AP)—In a turbulent week, the stock market advanced to record highs on three straight sessions, then backed away moderately as news came of higher interest rates.

Volume of 21,018,300 shares was the highest since the week ended last Oct. 18 when 24,402,570 shares were traded.

The market, as measured by the popular averages, rose for the first four days and sank on the last.

News that four Federal Reserve banks had raised the discount rate to 3 per cent from 2½ per cent came after the close of the to a big accumulation of overnight sell orders. The result was heavy selling early Friday.

The news came as a complete surprise to Wall Street, which dislikes high interest rates because they put a damper on business expansion. The "Fed's" action was also interpreted as a step against inflation. One of the main pegs of the current bull market is generally acknowledged to be fear of inflation.

The business background for the market included a steel industry operating rate schedule for the highest output in history but there was a mixed tenor among some other economic indicators. Enough glowing corporate reports were made public, however, to give a feeling of optimism to Wall Street.

Despite a mixed performance Friday, corporate bonds closed higher for the week. Trading was the heaviest in more than four years. Volume rose to $40,036,000 par value from $27,083,000 the previous week and $24,334,000 for the corresponding week in 1958.

Grain Market Price Gains Mostly Small

CHICAGO (AP)—The Board of Trade ran up some new high prices for the season this week before a rather broad bullish move ran out of steam and the market turned downward.

By the time profit-takers had finished their chores on Friday and brokers generally had re-assessed the outlook only a few scattered plus signs remained.

The most bullish influence was a carryover from last week. It was the Department of Agriculture report on grains held under government price support loans as of Feb. 15. Showing surprisingly large stocks impounded, the report sparked the most active trade for a week in several months with the volume of several days running at least twice the amount of the recent normal.

Meanwhile, trade interest began shifting to the outlook for corn and soybean plantings this year. One grain firm undertook to find the answer to farmer intentions by distributing a questionnaire but the replies seemed inconclusive.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅞ cents a bushel higher to 1¼ lower with the new crop months showing declines, March $2.06⅛-¼; corn ¼ higher to ½ lower, March old - typs contract $1.15 ; oats 1⅝ lower to ⅛ higher, March 64¼- ; rye ¼-1 cent lower, March $1.39½, and soybeans ¾ lower to ⅝ higher, March $2.21-20¾.

BY FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS

Anti-Inflation Move Is Taken

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Reserve cracked down hard on inflation this week as business indicators turned mixed.

In a surprise move, the "Fed" permitted four of the nation's largest Federal Reserve banks to hike their discount rate to three per cent.

This is the interest the Federal Reserve banks charge on loans to commercial banks. It normally sets the pattern for interest rates all along the line. An increase is usually taken to mean that Washington wants to lighten the screws on credit.

Next step, according to those who often make good guesses, may be a rise in the "prime rate" — the interest charged by commercial banks on short-term loans to big borrowers with top credit ratings.

The interest you pay on personal loans is scaled upward from that level.

Backgrounding the federal board's anti-inflation move was a boiling stock market that surged repeatedly to new highs until the board announced its action late Thursday.

This removed some of the inflationary steam. The market sold off sharply Friday morning and a brisk rally in the afternoon recovered some, but not all, of the loss.

Stock sales totaled 21,018,300 shares for the week compared to 16,355,230 shares last week and 10,451,637 shares in the same 1958 week.

Bond sales in the latest week had a par value of $40,306,000 against $27,083,000 in the previous week and $24,334,000 in the corresponding week last year.

The nation's steel mills, facing a strike deadline in July set a whirlwind pace. Production for the week was scheduled at a thumping 2,535,000 tons—the highest ever recorded.

Auto production moved up another notch. The total — some 133,300 cars — was up a solid 60 per cent from the same week last year when Detroit was slamming on the brakes.

Instalment buying of cars and appliances picked up in January. (Consumers lifted their total instalment indebtedness to about $33,700,000,000 in that month). But the pickup was a lot slower than some auto makers had hoped.

What's more, a consumer survey by the Federal Reserve Board and the University of Michigan survey research center this week found many Americans not yet in a mood to go on an auto buying binge.

Consumers are much more confident about business conditions than they were a year ago. But, the survey indicated, those whose credit is good are more interested in buying a new house (or a backyard swimming pool) than a new auto.

Department and chain stores had little fault to find with Mr. and Mrs. Consumer—department store sales for the last week in February topped the year ago week by 10 per cent despite one less selling day, and Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported record February sales of nearly 242½ million dollars. That's 16 per cent more than Sears took in during February last year.

SUN INCREASES PRICES

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)— Sun Oil Co. announced immediate "fair trade" price increases of one cent a gallon on its six gasoline grades sold in New Jersey. Prices now range between 26.9 and 32.9 cents a gallon, the company said.

RECEIVES MARINE CONTRACT

NEW YORK (UPI)—Collins Radio Corp. announced receipt of an $8,393,000 Marine Corps contract for its AN-TRC-75 single sideband communications systems and auxiliary equipment. Deliveries are slated to start next month.

Grain Market Price Gains Mostly Small

CHICAGO (AP)—The Board of Trade ran up some new high prices for the season this week before a rather broad bullish move ran out of steam and the market turned downward.

By the time profit-takers had finished their chores on Friday and brokers generally had re-assessed the outlook only a few scattered plus signs remained

The most bullish influence was a carryover from last week. It was the Department of Agriculture report on grains held under government price support loans as of Feb. 15. Showing surprisingly large stocks impounded, the report sparked the most active trade for a week in several months with the volume of several days running at least twice the amount of the recent normal.

Meanwhile, trade interest began shifting to the outlook for corn and soybean plantings this year. One grain firm undertook to find the answer to farmer intentions by distributing a questionnaire but the replies seemed inconclusive.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅞ cents a bushel higher to 1¼ lower with the new crop months showing declines, March $2.06⅛-¼; corn ¼ higher to ½ lower, March old - typs contract $1.15 ; oats 1⅝ lower to ⅛ higher, March 64¼- ; rye ¼-1 cent lower, March $1.39½, and soybeans ¾ lower to ⅝ higher, March $2.21-20¾.

BUYING GAINS PREDICTED

Early Easter Stirs Business Sentiment

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

Easter comes on March 29, the earliest in 12 years. Stores are building up their stocks right now in anticipation of sharp gains in buying. At the same time the weather man is saying we're going to have an early spring, a factor that should make for something of a boom for ladies dresses and suits.

General business is moving ahead as well as retail and wholesale trade. The first quarter is expected to see a new high touched near its close in industrial production. And the profits will show extremely sharp gains over a year ago because last year the business statistics were very poor.

Consumers are going to earn a record high national income in the first quarter which ends two days after Easter Sunday. The cost of living is going to hold steady. So there'll be more to spend. And the experts look for a good spending spree.

It is estimated that total retail sales in the first three months of 1959 will show a gain of seven per cent over 1958.

Indications are that buyers' habits are changing. A year ago when things were slipping in industry and most other lines, consumer buying continued at a high level, but it centered on the soft goods items. Now there is a shift to durable goods—a shift that has much greater stimulating qualities for industry as a whole.

It is expected that by Easter time, the rise in automobile sales that has been predicted right along will get into full swing. Sales of new cars have been rising steadily and now that the industry is free of strikes it is in a position to turn out more autos.

Steel production will register a sharp gain for the first quarter and steel companies are expected to register wide profit gains. Their second quarter also appears assured.

Steel company earnings for all of last year showed a decline of 31 per cent from the 1958 level. Their fourth quarter of 1958 showed a smart recovery. The same situation prevailed for other so-called cyclical industries which suffered most in the business recession.

Last year auto and auto equipment earnings fell 41 per cent. And these companies also reported sharp recoveries in the fourth quarter.

Predictions on automobile output for 1959 range upward from 4,500,000 units to an extreme of 6,000,000 units. Sharp gains over a year also are being reported now because of the substantial declines in 1958.

These and other factors are considered hardly the background for a stock market decline despite the high prices prevailing. Wall Street chart readers—and there are many of them — follow the old Dow theory axiom that says a trend once started continues until it is stopped. The trend still is up, say the bullish market observers in the financial district.

One expert has this to say about the market at this time:

"It is difficult to be bearish as pertains to equity prices for the pressure is toward even higher levels. This pressure evolves from a constantly expanding American economy plus potent inflationary forces."

None of the market experts expects the list to continue to rise in a straight line as it did for the past year. With prices high as they are, it is held the market needs some corrective selling from time to time.

The most that is expected, however, is only a 5 per cent decline. The month of March is usually in a rising trend. In the past 62 years, the industrial average has risen in 38 months of March and declined in 24.

Stocks Post Solid Gains During Week

NEW YORK (AP)—In a turbulent week, the stock market advanced to record highs on three straight sessions, then backed away moderately as news came of higher interest rates.

Volume of 21,018,300 shares was the highest since the week ended last Oct. 18 when 24,402,570 shares were traded.

Despite vigorous profit - taking on many stocks which have enjoyed a consistent rise, the list as a whole posted a solid advance.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.80 to $222.40. It touched its latest historic top of $223.20 on Thursday.

The market, as measured by the popular averages, rose for the first four days and sank on the last.

News that four Federal Reserve banks had raised the discount rate to 3 per cent from 2½ per cent came after the close of the to a big accumulation of overnight sell orders. The result was heavy selling early Friday.

The news came as a complete surprise to Wall Street, which dislikes high interest rates because they put a damper on business expansion. The "Fed's" action was also interpreted as a step against inflation. One of the main pegs of the current bull market is generally acknowledged to be fear of inflation.

The business background for the market included a steel industry operating rate schedule for the highest output in history but there was a mixed tenor among some other economic indicators. Enough glowing corporate reports were made public, however, to give a feeling of optimism to Wall Street.

Despite a mixed performance Friday, corporate bonds closed higher for the week. Trading was the heaviest in more than four years. Volume rose to $40,036,000 par value from $27,083,000 the previous week and $24,334,000 for the corresponding week in 1958.

Anti-Inflation Move Is Taken

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Reserve cracked down hard on inflation this week as business indicators turned mixed.

In a surprise move, the "Fed" permitted four of the nation's largest Federal Reserve banks to hike their discount rate to three per cent.

This is the interest the Federal Reserve banks charge on loans to commercial banks. It normally sets the pattern for interest rates all along the line. An increase is usually taken to mean that Washington wants to lighten the screws on credit.

Next step, according to those who often make good guesses, may be a rise in the "prime rate" — the interest charged by commercial banks on short-term loans to big borrowers with top credit ratings.

The interest you pay on personal loans is scaled upward from that level.

Backgrounding the federal board's anti-inflation move was a boiling stock market that surged repeatedly to new highs until the board announced its action late Thursday.

This removed some of the inflationary steam. The market sold off sharply Friday morning and a brisk rally in the afternoon recovered some, but not all, of the loss.

Stock sales totaled 21,018,300 shares for the week compared to 16,355,230 shares last week and 10,451,637 shares in the same 1958 week.

Bond sales in the latest week had a par value of $40,306,000 against $27,083,000 in the previous week and $24,334,000 in the corresponding week last year.

The nation's steel mills, facing a strike deadline in July set a whirlwind pace. Production for the week was scheduled at a thumping 2,535,000 tons—the highest ever recorded.

Auto production moved up another notch. The total — some 133,300 cars — was up a solid 60 per cent from the same week last year when Detroit was slamming on the brakes.

Instalment buying of cars and appliances picked up in January. (Consumers lifted their total instalment indebtedness to about $33,700,000,000 in that month). But the pickup was a lot slower than some auto makers had hoped.

What's more, a consumer survey by the Federal Reserve Board and the University of Michigan survey research center this week found many Americans not yet in a mood to go on an auto buying binge.

Consumers are much more confident about business conditions than they were a year ago. But, the survey indicated, those whose credit is good are more interested in buying a new house (or a backyard swimming pool) than a new auto.

Department and chain stores had little fault to find with Mr. and Mrs. Consumer—department store sales for the last week in February topped the year ago week by 10 per cent despite one less selling day, and Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported record February sales of nearly 242½ million dollars. That's 16 per cent more than Sears took in during February last year.
